NLRB CRACKS DOWN ON LEWIS

Acts To Force Union To Meet Dixie Owners

Goldsborough Sets Hearing For June 1

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—In a new government crackdown on John L. Lewis, the NLRB's general counsel today accused the United Mine Workers' president of an unfair labor practice.

The board's counsel went swiftly to court to force Lewis to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers Association, and Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, who twice has fined Lewis and his union for contempt, set June 1 for a hearing on the government's plea for an injunction.

The latest court action arose because Lewis refused to seat Joseph E. Moody, president of the southern association, at bargaining conferences to negotiate a new contract for the soft coal industry. The talks were broken off on that issue, and Moody complained to the National Labor Relations Board.

Moody's association was authorized by 20 companies and groups in the South, producing one third of the nation's soft coal, to bargain with Lewis. The UMW leader says the association is "a paper holding company" and did not sign the current one-year contract which expires June 30.

Denham Issues Complaint

General Counsel Robert N. Denham—the prosecuting officer of the NLRB—issued a complaint against Lewis and the United Mine Workers in mid-afternoon. Then his attorneys hastened to Judge Goldsborough asking for two things:

1. A temporary restraining order effective at once which would force Lewis to include the southern association in any bargaining talks in the next five days.

2. A "show cause" hearing at which Lewis would have to explain why an injunction should not be issued to make him recognize Moody until the board has a chance to rule on the Denham complaint.

Denham said Lewis was refusing to bargain with Moody and in effect coercing an employer in the choice of a bargaining representative. That would violate the Taft-Hartley Act ban on unfair labor practices.

Goldsborough turned down the government's first request. He would not grant a temporary restraining order until a full hearing for both sides could be arranged. He fixed 9 a. m. (EST) next Tuesday, June 1, as the time for such a hearing.

United States marshals served the summoning papers late today.

Two big fines against Lewis and his union were imposed for ignoring

PRESIDENT SCHEDULES FIVE MAJOR ADDRESSES

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — President Truman's swing across the country next month calls for five major addresses and a host of lesser ones.

Details of the pre-convention trip came from the White House today. He plans to leave Washington by special train June 3 and return around June 16.

The major addresses are scheduled at Chicago, June 4; Omaha, Neb., June 5, Seattle, Wash., June 10, Berkeley Calif. June 12, and Los Angeles, June 14.

They will cover a wide variety of subjects ranging from displaced persons to the American foreign policy. They are expected to include Mr. Truman's views on reclamation and conservation, defense, public power and other items.

On the way back, the President plans to leave Los Angeles for Washington June 14, spending a day or two enroute at Kansas City and his home town of Independence, Mo.

Freedom-Bound Convict Tussles With Guards, Dies

CHILLICOTHE, O., May 24, (AP)—A 21-year-old convict died struggling in the arms of federal reformatory guards today—minutes before he was to walk out of the prison a free man.

Earl Anderson apparently succumbed to a heart attack as he fought to keep from showing a sheaf of hand-written songs and poems, Warden L. Clark Schilder said.

The youth was dressed in civilian clothes, had a bus ticket and was prepared to leave the prison discharge room. Capt. Wilby Anderson, a guard, noticed a bulge in the youth's pants leg below the knee. He thought the youth was trying to smuggle something out of the reformatory.

The young man refused to say what caused the bulge or allow guards to search him. Captain Anderson and three other officers tussled with him. He slumped to the floor dead.

Senate Approves Soil Conservation Payment Increase

Democrats Ignore GOP Cry Of Politics

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — Ignoring a Republican cry of politics, Senate Democrats today rushed through a proposal to increase a $225,000,000 soil conservation program by $75,000,000 for the 1949 crop year. The vote was 41 to 38.

The program covers soil conservation payments to farmers who co-operate with the federal government's agriculture planning.

The Senate voted the total of $300,000,000 by adopting an amendment to a bill to provide $1,201,597,405 for the government's various farm programs during the fiscal year starting July 1. The amendment was offered by Sen. Russell (D-Ga).

The House has voted $225,000,000 for soil payments and the Republican-controlled Senate Appropriations Committee approved that figure. The Senate quit for the day without acting on the bill itself.

On the vote for bigger soil payments, three Republicans—Cooper (Ky), Langer (ND) and Morse (Ore)—joined 38 Democrats.

Sen. Byrd (Va) was the only Democrat to line up with the 37 Republicans who voted against the amendment.

Last week the Senate refused by a vote of 34 to 28 to provide an additional $100,000,000 for soil conservation payments this crop year. Sen. Umstead (D-NC) offered that amendment to the same bill debated today.

Jacqueline Cochran Sets New Speed Record

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., May 24, (AP)—Jacqueline Cochran today established a new international speed record for propellor-driven planes over a 1,000-kilometer course from Palm Springs airport to a point near Flagstaff, Ariz., and return.

Her flight, clocked by H. Dudley Wright, National Aeronautical Association representative, was made at an average speed of 432 miles an hour over the 621.369 mile course. This was 16 miles an hour slower than last Saturday's 2,000-kilometer record flight between Palm Springs and Santa Fe, N. M., and return. She flew her war-surplus P-51 "Mustang" both times.

Russia Vetoes Czech Inquiry

Austin Blasts Soviet Action

Nine Nations Vote In Favor Of Probe

LAKE SUCCESS, May 24 (AP) — Russia used her 24th and 25th vetoes tonight to bar a United Nations investigation into the February Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

The vote in the Security Council on a Chilean proposal for the inquiry was 9 to 2. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine dissented and the Russian vote constituted a veto.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko shortly before had exercised another veto to block a council majority. In that case he overrode eight delegates who maintained that the Chilean proposal was not subject to a veto.

The two vetoes were the first used by Gromyko since he blocked Italy's admission to the United Nations on April 10. Of the other great powers, only France has ever vetoed.

Austin Assails Use Of Veto

Tonight's voting climaxed debate on the case which has been under hearing since March 17.

In filing the case, Chile demanded that the council investigate Russia's role in the February grab of power by the Communists in Prague.

The vetoed proposal called for a three-nation group to hear witnesses and collect evidence.

United States Delegate Warren R. Austin took the floor after the voting to assail the use of the double veto.

"The United States does not recognize this as a precedent," Austin said. "The veto in this case has attempted to prevent a presentation of the facts to the world."

U. S. Hopes To Keep Case Open

Austin said the council should not let the matter rest. He said former members of the Czechoslovak government are available to give evidence.

The American delegate suggested that council members collect information and make statements to the council. He added that the United States was ready to follow this policy.

Under the principle adhered to here tonight, Russia would be empowered under any conditions to exercise a veto on a vote as to whether any issue was subject to the veto. This question arises because the United Nations charter provides that questions of substance are subject to the big power veto and questions of procedure are not.

Extend Social Security, Truman Tells Congress

Would Boost Old Age Benefits 50 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — President Truman today demanded anew that Congress quickly broaden social security to relieve the "desperate" plight of the aged and needy in a time of inflation.

He sent a special message to Capitol Hill calling for a 50 per cent boost in old age insurance benefits and asking that 20,000,000 more persons be protected.

Noting that for three years his similar requests have gone unanswered, Mr. Truman asked "early action" on a five-point program which, he said, stresses "independence and self reliance, rather than relief."

He spelled out in this detail the sweeping program that he outlined in his state of the union message when Congress met in January:

Would Up Tax Rate

1. A one-half increase "at least" in old age and survivors' insurance benefits; allowing pensioners to earn up to $40 a month, instead of $15, without losing benefits; raising of the tax rate from one per cent to 1½ per cent next January 1 instead of a year later, increasing the taxable earnings from $3,000 to $4,800.

2. Extension of coverage to the millions of farm and domestic workers, the self-employed, and others not now covered.

3. Broadening of unemployment insurance to cover employes of small firms (those having less than eight workers), federal employes, and others not protected. Also, higher jobless benefits, especially for the unemployed who have families.

4. Disability insurance, to protect workers from loss of earnings caused by sickness and injuries. The federal government should offer "a strong financial inducement to all states to provide such aid, he said.

"Opportune Time"

5. Increased federal benefits to match state aid for dependent children, the needy aged, and the blind.

The President asserted that now is "a particularly opportune time" to broaden the act, because "employment and earnings are at the highest levels on record." This, he said, gives working people their most favorable opportunity to earn protection against economic hazards.

"The benefits being paid under old-age and survivors' insurance are seriously inadequate," he wrote.

Drink Taboo For Man "Too Drunk" To Save Children

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 24, (AP)—Under court sentence, Claude Darrell Axley must never take another drink because he failed to save his two sons from death by fire.

Axley's boys, Claude Jr., 8, and Jimmy, 3, were suffocated last Christmas when flames destroyed the family home in suburban Ocean Park. Axley pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter, and said he had been "too drunk" to know how the fire started or to rescue the children.

Marshall Flays GOP Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, May 24. (AP)—The House Rules Committee pinned a "this or nothing" tag on the Republican trade agreements bill today. Secretary of State Marshall said he would rather have nothing.

The Rules Committee, moreover, voted to limit House debate on the measure to three hours. It scheduled a vote for Wednesday.

While the administration asked an outright extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act for three years, the GOP bill extends it for but one year. Further, it created a congressional veto power over the agreements if the President exceeds specified tariff-cutting limits set by the Federal Tariff Commission.

Secretary Marshall said in a letter to Rep. Doughton (D-NC) that the proposed changes are crippling, would make the trade program unworkable and would weaken "a cornerstone of our foreign economic policy."

"Only a shadow of the original act is preserved while its substance is destroyed," he said.

"x x x I think our national interests would be better served to permit the Trade Agreements Act to expire than for H.R. 6556 (the bill) to be enacted."

Mencken's Housekeeper Is Stabbed To Death

BALTIMORE, May 24 (AP)—Writer H. L. Mencken's 60-year-old housekeeper was stabbed to death today and police charged her daughter with the slaying.

Mrs. Hester Denby, employed by Mencken and his brother August, was found unconscious in the vestibule of her home.

She had been stabbed several times in what police were told was an altercation with a woman who cried she was "going to get the boss."

Mrs. Denby's 10-year-old grandson, Robert Burley, was cut on the back, shoulder and forehead in the melee.

A few hours later police arrested Mrs. Elsie Burley, 38, at the Mencken home. They said Mrs. Burley had knocked at the door and called to August Mencken that she was "in trouble."

GM Offers Union Pay Hike Of Over Six Cents An Hour

Corporation Bids To Head Off Strike

DETROIT, May 24 (AP)—Negotiators for General Motors Corporation and the United Automobile Workers (CIO) bargained late into the night tonight toward a contract settlement that may avert a threatened nationwide strike of 225,000 General Motors employes.

Agreement on a new contract to replace one that expires at midnight next Friday was believed near following union disclosure that GM had offered wage increases of more than six cents an hour.

The union, asking a raise of 25 cents an hour—10 cents of which could be diverted into the UAW pension fund — has threatened to strike General Motors plants for the second time since the war unless the dispute is settled by Friday.

Might Set Wage Pattern

Harry W. Anderson, General Motors vice president, headed the company delegation which sat with top UAW negotiators through day and night sessions that had run almost continuously since 11 a. m.

The conference, which observers believe may produce a wage pattern for the entire auto industry and bring quick settlement of a Chrysler Corporation strike now 13 days old, continued in the huge General Motors building where a 113-day GM strike was settled March 13, 1946

The union confirmed that GM, biggest outfit in the auto industry, had made its first wage offer of 1946 to the UAW-CIO.

It came to light a few hours after Chrysler Corporation agreed to try and settle the 13-day-old strike of its 75,000 production workers.

The union did not say whether GM's offer was acceptable. Neither side would name the figure.

Five Local Unions Revolt

A GM wage increase, if acceptable to the UAW-CIO, might set a pattern for 1,000,000 employes in the auto industry, as well as hundreds of thousands in other industries.

The UAW-CIO asked General Motors for a third round of post-war wage boosts totalling 25 cents. They sought 30 cents from Chrysler. The average wage in the industry now is about $1.50 an hour.

GM's bid for peace came as five local unions revolted against the UAW-CIO plan to strike the firm. About 80 per cent of the membership previously had approved a strike.

Convict Receives New Day In Court

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—The Supreme Court gave an Alcatraz long-termer a new day in court today.

But Justice Jackson, dissenting, said the ruling of the five-member majority meant the government must retry the case as often as the prisoner's "ingenuity, industry and imagination" hold out.

The case was that of Homer C. Price, convicted of bank robbery in a Detroit federal court 10 years ago and sentenced to 65 years' imprisonment.

The court majority said it was merely spelling out rules to assure proper consideration when a prisoner raises a new issue in seeking freedom by habeas corpus. It emphasized that it was not necessarily ordering hearings on the merits of such issues.

At issue this time was Price's fourth petition for habeas corpus, based mainly on a new contention that the prosecuting attorney knowingly used false testimony at the trial.

Price's three earlier petitions had been turned down, and both the District Court and the Court of Appeals in San Francisco rejected the new one. They ruled, in line with government contentions, that Price was abusing the habeas corpus process. They held that the circumstances on which Price based his false testimony charge were known to him in time for presentation in the earlier applications.

Wallace Says He Has No Plans To Go To Moscow

SALEM, Ore., May 24 (AP)—Henry Wallace said today he had "no plans to go to Moscow" to confer with Joseph Stalin.

Wallace told the Associated Press that there was nothing to a published London report he was planning such a trip.

"I never heard of it. I have no plans to go to Moscow. I have no invitation to go to Moscow," he asserted.

The third-party candidate added, however, that "if I thought the cause of peace would be served by my going to Moscow, I would be most glad to go."

U. N. Approves Arab Request For More Time

Answer Promised By Noon Tomorrow

CAIRO, Egypt, May 24 (AP) — The United Nations Security Council tonight extended until noon Wednesday, Eastern Standard Time, its deadline for a cease fire in the Arab-Jewish fighting in Palestine.

The council, meeting at Lake Success, delayed the deadline 48 hours at the request of Syrian and Egyptian representatives. The original United Nations deadline expired at noon today.

The government of Israel, which accepted the United Nations appeal subject to Arab agreement, told the council the Arabs broke the deadline today when Lebanese gunners fired a barrage across the Palestine border at 12:30 p. m. (EST).

Faris El Khoury, of Syria, told the council that Arab leaders will meet in Amman, Trans-Jordan, tomorrow, and that their acceptance or rejection of the United Nations appeal to halt the Holy Land fighting will be communicated to Lake Success no later than Wednesday noon.

Meanwhile, Arabs and Jews both claimed victories in local actions as the Palestine fighting continued.

A Haganah communique, issued by the Jewish army in Tel Aviv, said "the whole Jordan Valley has been cleared of enemy forces." The communique said Jewish forces recaptured two settlements in the northern area—Sha'ar Hagolan and Massada. It added that the whole Samakh area now is in Jewish hands. Jews evacuated the settlements a few days ago under Syrian army pressure.

Arabs Capture Village

The Arab High Command said its troops had captured Ramat Rehel, a Jewish village half-way between Jerusalem and Bethlehem, where a major battle had raged for 48 hours. The radio of Haganah, the Israeli army, broadcast that all of Ramat Rehel was in Arab hands except for a communal eating place which Jews still held.

Both sides reported the other's casualties were heavy at Ramat Rehel. The Arabs said they had killed more than 300 Jews and the Jews said "tens of bodies" of Arab attackers littered the streets.

After a 48-hour respite, Tel Aviv was bombed from the air today. This time the Arabs used two-engine bombers. It was believed to be the first time the Arabs used planes heavier than fighter-bombers. The Jews said the Arabs dropped a few heavy bombs in the northern part of the city. The damage was not determined immediately.

An Egyptian communique said the Egyptian army captured several Jewish strongholds in Palestine's southern coastal belt Sunday night after a nine-hour battle. It said the bodies of 500 Jews were counted on the battlefield in the Deir Suneid region between Tel Aviv and Gaza.

The Haganah command reported Jewish forces recaptured two settlements, Shaar Hagolan and Massada, in Northern Palestine. Jews evacuated the settlements a few days ago under Syrian army pressure.

Charles Brannan Named Secretary Of Agriculture

Coloradoan Selected To Succeed Anderson

WASHINGTON, May 24. (AP)—Charles F. Brannan, 44-year-old former Denver lawyer, was appointed Secretary of Agriculture today. He is the second government career man to be chosen for a Cabinet post by President Truman within the past six months.

The other is Jesse M. Donaldson, one-time letter carrier, who was named Postmaster General last November to succeed Robert E. Hannegan.

Brannan, whose appointment must be confirmed by the Senate, was appointed to succeed Clinton P. Anderson, who resigned May 10 to run for the Senate in New Mexico.

Joined Department In 1935

Brannan has been an employe of the Agriculture Department since 1935. He started in as a regional attorney for the department in his native Denver in 1935. He has been Assistant Secretary since June, 1944.

But for a quirk of fate, Brannan probably would not have been picked for the cabinet. Last year President Truman sent his name to the Senate for confirmation as a member of the Indian Claims Commission. Brannan had told the President he would be pleased to have the appointment.

Secretary Anderson protested this nomination to Mr. Truman, saying that he needed Brannan in the department. Anderson got Brannan to ask the President to withdraw the appointment, which he did. Brannan stayed on in the department to take on important tasks for Anderson and to wind up with a presidential appointment to be the latter's successor.

Anderson Praises Brannan

Anderson said in New Mexico today of Brannan: "An excellent choice x x x loyal and diligent x x x familiar with western problems."

Brannan's appointment climaxed many week's speculation as to who would get the job. Others who had been mentioned included Undersecretary N. E. Dodd, who has been

MAN AND WIFE KILLED IN NINE-STORY PLUNGE

CHICAGO, May 24 (AP)—A nine-story hotel room plunge killed a man and wife today. Police believe the woman was dragged along when she tried to hold him back.

The victims were Harry Grundy, 49, former Christian County state's attorney, and Lourena, 48.

Police Lt. Albert Hoffman said an investigation indicated the tragedy had this background:

Grundy, a Taylorville, Ill., attorney, had suffered from fits of depression for several years. His wife brought him to a north side hotel Sunday, not telling him he was going to be hospitalized.

The bodies struck the sidewalk in front of the Commonwealth Hotel at 2757 Pine Grove Avenue a foot apart, after crashing through a window pane and screen in their room.

Chicago Police Seek Link Between Pair Of Killings

CHICAGO, May 24. (AP)—Three shots in the head finished off Leo "Little Sneeze" Friedman early today and police tonight were trying to link his death with another corpse in the morgue.

The other victim of a shooting was George Stathatos, 26, a small-time gambler. His death and that of Friedman, 33-year-old former bank robber, were connected by inquest testimony today.

Angie Stathatos, 21, sister of George whose shot and battered body was found Saturday night in his parked car, testified:

"Leo and my brother had been friends for four years. I'm positive the men who killed Leo Friedman are the ones who killed my brother."

Friedman was shot down early today on a West Side street as he walked with his wife, Carol, 26. Mrs. Friedman wasn't hit, but her husband was shot three times in the head by gunmen who first fired from an automobile, then stood over him and gave him a coup de grace.

The killers fled in a 1936 sedan driven by a third man.

Miss Stathatos' testimony at her brother's inquist was the first indication that there might be a connection between the two killings. The Friedman and Stathatos inquests were both continued until June 9.

Mrs. Friedman testified that she knew of no one who would want to kill her husband.

Henry Friedman, brother of Leo, also declared he knew of no enemies who might have shot him.

The only other witness at the Friedman investigation was a shipping clerk named Hugh Crimmings who lives near the slaying scene.

"I ran to the window and saw flashes from blazing guns down in the street," he said. "Then, I saw two men run and jump into a car."

Lane's Message Will Open Special Assembly Session

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 24. (AP)—Maryland lawmakers began drifting into the state capital tonight, ready for a special session that most observers guessed would last from two to three days.

More than 60 bills were certain to be introduced in the session that begins with a message from Gov. Lane tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. (EDT).

From every quarter came the prediction that at least two hot fights were in the making.

And with the usual unpredictability of a special session, more could easily develop.

Lane called the Legislature back primarily to consider a 10 per cent, across-the-board, pay raise for state employes. Only those who have received equivalent increases since September, 1946, would be excluded under the administration proposal.

But pre-session conversations lately have been about almost anything but the pay raises.

In the limelight over the weekend was speculation that a measure to eject the three members of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission would pop up. A new agency would be created, the talk went, to replace the one currently embroiled in controversy.

The Governor made no comment on another matter generally expected to produce some oratorical skirmishing. That concerns an emergency appropriations for the State Welfare Department.

Lane remained silent on another battle-brewing proposal—to legalize raffles for non-commercial purposes. But he did exhibit a raft of letters protesting such a measure.

The sales tax also is due for another go-around. Delegate Carrick (D-Balto 6th) said he would enter a bill to stop collections after $36,800,000 has been raised by the two per cent impost.

NLRB CRACKS DOWN ON LEWIS

Acts To Force Union To Meet Dixie Owners

Goldsborough Sets Hearing For June 1

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—In a new government crackdown on John L. Lewis, the NLRB's general counsel today accused the United Mine Workers' president of an unfair labor practice.

The board's counsel went swiftly to court to force Lewis to bargain with the Southern Coal Producers Association, and Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough, who twice has fined Lewis and his union for contempt, set June 1 for a hearing on the government's plea for an injunction.

The latest court action arose because Lewis refused to seat Joseph E. Moody, president of the southern association, at bargaining conferences to negotiate a new contract for the soft coal industry. The talks were broken off on that issue, and Moody complained to the National Labor Relations Board.

Moody's association was authorized by 20 companies and groups in the South, producing one third of the nation's soft coal, to bargain with Lewis. The UMW leader says the association is "a paper holding company" and did not sign the current one-year contract which expires June 30.

Denham Issues Complaint

General Counsel Robert N. Denham—the prosecuting officer of the NLRB—issued a complaint against Lewis and the United Mine Workers in mid-afternoon. Then his attorneys hastened to Judge Goldsborough asking for two things:

1. A temporary restraining order effective at once which would force Lewis to include the southern association in any bargaining talks in the next five days.

2. A "show cause" hearing at which Lewis would have to explain why an injunction should not be issued to make him recognize Moody until the board has a chance to rule on the Denham complaint.

Denham said Lewis was refusing to bargain with Moody and in effect coercing an employer in the choice of a bargaining representative. That would violate the Taft-Hartley Act ban on unfair labor practices.

Goldsborough turned down the government's first request. He would not grant a temporary restraining order until a full hearing for both sides could be arranged. He fixed 9 a. m. (EST) next Tuesday, June 1, as the time for such a hearing.

United States marshals served the summoning papers late today.

Senate Approves Soil Conservation Payment Increase

Democrats Ignore GOP Cry Of Politics

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — Ignoring a Republican cry of politics, Senate Democrats today rushed through a proposal to increase a $225,000,000 soil conservation program by $75,000,000 for the 1949 crop year. The vote was 41 to 38.

The program covers soil conservation payments to farmers who co-operate with the federal government's agriculture planning.

The Senate voted the total of $300,000,000 by adopting an amendment to a bill to provide $1,201,597,405 for the government's various farm programs during the fiscal year starting July 1. The amendment was offered by Sen. Russell (D-Ga).

The House has voted $225,000,000 for soil payments and the Republican-controlled Senate Appropriations Committee approved that figure. The Senate quit for the day without acting on the bill itself.

On the vote for bigger soil payments, three Republicans—Cooper (Ky), Langer (ND) and Morse (Ore)—joined 38 Democrats.

Sen. Byrd (Va) was the only Democrat to line up with the 37 Republicans who voted against the amendment.

Last week the Senate refused by a vote of 34 to 28 to provide an additional $100,000,000 for soil conservation payments this crop year. Sen. Umstead (D-NC) offered that amendment to the same bill debated today.

Jacqueline Cochran Sets New Speed Record

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., May 24, (AP)—Jacqueline Cochran today established a new international speed record for propellor-driven planes over a 1,000-kilometer course from Palm Springs airport to a point near Flagstaff, Ariz., and return.

Her flight, clocked by H. Dudley Wright, National Aeronautical Association representative, was made at an average speed of 432 miles an hour over the 621.369 mile course. This was 16 miles an hour slower than last Saturday's 2,000-kilometer record flight between Palm Springs and Santa Fe, N. M., and return. She flew her war-surplus P-51 "Mustang" both times.

Russia Vetoes Czech Inquiry

Austin Blasts Soviet Action

Nine Nations Vote In Favor Of Probe

LAKE SUCCESS, May 24 (AP) — Russia used her 24th and 25th vetoes tonight to bar a United Nations investigation into the February Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

The vote in the Security Council on a Chilean proposal for the inquiry was 9 to 2. Russia and the Soviet Ukraine dissented and the Russian vote constituted a veto.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko shortly before had exercised another veto to block a council majority. In that case he overrode eight delegates who maintained that the Chilean proposal was not subject to a veto.

The two vetoes were the first used by Gromyko since he blocked Italy's admission to the United Nations on April 10. Of the other great powers, only France has ever vetoed.

Austin Assails Use Of Veto

Tonight's voting climaxed debate on the case which has been under hearing since March 17.

In filing the case, Chile demanded that the council investigate Russia's role in the February grab of power by the Communists in Prague.

The vetoed proposal called for a three-nation group to hear witnesses and collect evidence.

United States Delegate Warren R. Austin took the floor after the voting to assail the use of the double veto.

"The United States does not recognize this as a precedent," Austin said. "The veto in this case has attempted to prevent a presentation of the facts to the world."

U. S. Hopes To Keep Case Open

Austin said the council should not let the matter rest. He said former members of the Czechoslovak government are available to give evidence.

The American delegate suggested that council members collect information and make statements to the council. He added that the United States was ready to follow this policy.

Under the principle adhered to here tonight, Russia would be empowered under any conditions to exercise a veto on a vote as to whether any issue was subject to the veto. This question arises because the United Nations charter provides that questions of substance are subject to the big power veto and questions of procedure are not.

Extend Social Security, Truman Tells Congress

Would Boost Old Age Benefits 50 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — President Truman today demanded anew that Congress quickly broaden social security to relieve the "desperate" plight of the aged and needy in a time of inflation.

He sent a special message to Capitol Hill calling for a 50 per cent boost in old age insurance benefits and asking that 20,000,000 more persons be protected.

Noting that for three years his similar requests have gone unanswered, Mr. Truman asked "early action" on a five-point program which, he said, stresses "independence and self reliance, rather than relief."

He spelled out in this detail the sweeping program that he outlined in his state of the union message when Congress met in January:

Would Up Tax Rate

1. A one-half increase "at least" in old age and survivors' insurance benefits; allowing pensioners to earn up to $40 a month, instead of $15, without losing benefits; raising of the tax rate from one per cent to 1½ per cent next January 1 instead of a year later, increasing the taxable earnings from $3,000 to $4,800.

2. Extension of coverage to the millions of farm and domestic workers, the self-employed, and others not now covered.

3. Broadening of unemployment insurance to cover employes of small firms (those having less than eight workers), federal employes, and others not protected. Also, higher jobless benefits, especially for the unemployed who have families.

4. Disability insurance, to protect workers from loss of earnings caused by sickness and injuries. The federal government should offer "a strong financial inducement to all states to provide such aid, he said.

"Opportune Time"

5. Increased federal benefits to match state aid for dependent children, the needy aged, and the blind.

The President asserted that now is "a particularly opportune time" to broaden the act, because "employment and earnings are at the highest levels on record." This, he said, gives working people their most favorable opportunity to earn protection against economic hazards.

"The benefits being paid under old-age and survivors' insurance are seriously inadequate," he wrote.

Drink Taboo For Man "Too Drunk" To Save Children

SANTA MONICA, Calif., May 24, (AP)—Under court sentence, Claude Darrell Axley must never take another drink because he failed to save his two sons from death by fire.

Axley's boys, Claude Jr., 8, and Jimmy, 3, were suffocated last Christmas when flames destroyed the family home in suburban Ocean Park. Axley pleaded guilty to a charge of involuntary manslaughter, and said he had been "too drunk" to know how the fire started or to rescue the children.

Marshall Flays GOP Tariff Bill

WASHINGTON, May 24. (AP)—The House Rules Committee pinned a "this or nothing" tag on the Republican trade agreements bill today. Secretary of State Marshall said he would rather have nothing.

The Rules Committee, moreover, voted to limit House debate on the measure to three hours. It scheduled a vote for Wednesday.

While the administration asked an outright extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act for three years, the GOP bill extends it for but one year. Further, it created a congressional veto power over the agreements if the President exceeds specified tariff-cutting limits set by the Federal Tariff Commission.

Secretary Marshall said in a letter to Rep. Doughton (D-NC) that the proposed changes are crippling, would make the trade program unworkable and would weaken "a cornerstone of our foreign economic policy."

"Only a shadow of the original act is preserved while its substance is destroyed," he said.

"x x x I think our national interests would be better served to permit the Trade Agreements Act to expire than for H.R. 6556 (the bill) to be enacted."

Mencken's Housekeeper Is Stabbed To Death

BALTIMORE, May 24 (AP)—Writer H. L. Mencken's 60-year-old housekeeper was stabbed to death today and police charged her daughter with the slaying.

Mrs. Hester Denby, employed by Mencken and his brother August, was found unconscious in the vestibule of her home.

She had been stabbed several times in what police were told was an altercation with a woman who cried she was "going to get the boss."

Mrs. Denby's 10-year-old grandson, Robert Burley, was cut on the back, shoulder and forehead in the melee.

A few hours later police arrested Mrs. Elsie Burley, 38, at the Mencken home. They said Mrs. Burley had knocked at the door and called to August Mencken that she was "in trouble."

GM Offers Union Pay Hike Of Over Six Cents An Hour

Corporation Bids To Head Off Strike

DETROIT, May 24 (AP)—Negotiators for General Motors Corporation and the United Automobile Workers (CIO) bargained late into the night tonight toward a contract settlement that may avert a threatened nationwide strike of 225,000 General Motors employes.

Agreement on a new contract to replace one that expires at midnight next Friday was believed near following union disclosure that GM had offered wage increases of more than six cents an hour.

The union, asking a raise of 25 cents an hour—10 cents of which could be diverted into the UAW pension fund — has threatened to strike General Motors plants for the second time since the war unless the dispute is settled by Friday.

Might Set Wage Pattern

Harry W. Anderson, General Motors vice president, headed the company delegation which sat with top UAW negotiators through day and night sessions that had run almost continuously since 11 a. m.

The conference, which observers believe may produce a wage pattern for the entire auto industry and bring quick settlement of a Chrysler Corporation strike now 13 days old, continued in the huge General Motors building where a 113-day GM strike was settled March 13, 1946.

The union confirmed that GM, biggest outfit in the auto industry, had made its first wage offer of 1948 to the UAW-CIO.

It came to light a few hours after Chrysler Corporation agreed to try and settle the 13-day-old strike of its 75,000 production workers.

The union did not say whether GM's offer was acceptable. Neither side would name the figure.

Five Local Unions Revolt

A GM wage increase, if acceptable to the UAW-CIO, might set a pattern for 1,000,000 employes in the auto industry, as well as hundreds of thousands in other industries.

The UAW-CIO asked General Motors for a third round of postwar wage boosts totalling 25 cents. They sought 30 cents from Chrysler. The average wage in the industry now is about $1.50 an hour.

GM's bid for peace came as five local unions revolted against the UAW-CIO plan to strike the firm. About 80 per cent of the membership previously had approved a strike.

Convict Receives New Day In Court

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—The Supreme Court gave an Alcatraz long-termer a new day in court today.

But Justice Jackson, dissenting, said the ruling of the five-member majority meant the government must retry the case as often as the prisoner's "ingenuity, industry and imagination" hold out.

The case was that of Homer C. Price, convicted of bank robbery in a Detroit federal court 10 years ago and sentenced to 65 years' imprisonment.

The court majority said it was merely spelling out rules to assure proper consideration when a prisoner raises a new issue in seeking freedom by habeas corpus. It emphasized that it was not necessarily ordering hearings on the merits of such issues.

At issue this time was Price's fourth petition for habeas corpus, based mainly on a new contention that the prosecuting attorney knowingly used false testimony at the trial.

Price's three earlier petitions had been turned down, and both the District Court and the Court of Appeals in San Francisco rejected the new one. They ruled, in line with government contentions, that Price was abusing the habeas corpus process. They held that the circumstances on which Price based his false testimony charge were known to him in time for presentation in the earlier applications.

Wallace Says He Has No Plans To Go To Moscow

SALEM, Ore., May 24 (AP)—Henry Wallace said today he had "no plans to go to Moscow" to confer with Joseph Stalin.

Wallace told the Associated Press that there was nothing to a published London report he was planning such a trip.

"I never heard of it. I have no plans to go to Moscow. I have no invitation to go to Moscow," he asserted.

The third-party candidate added, however, that "if I thought the cause of peace would be served by my going to Moscow, I would be most glad to go."

U. N. Approves Arab Request For More Time

Answer Promised By Noon Tomorrow

CAIRO, Egypt, May 24 (AP) — The United Nations Security Council tonight extended until noon Wednesday, Eastern Standard Time, its deadline for a cease fire in the Arab-Jewish fighting in Palestine.

The council, meeting at Lake Success, delayed the deadline 48 hours at the request of Syrian and Egyptian representatives. The original United Nations deadline expired at noon today.

The government of Israel, which accepted the United Nations appeal subject to Arab agreement, told the council the Arabs broke the deadline today when Lebanese gunners fired a barrage across the Palestine border at 12:30 p. m. (EST).

Faris El Khoury, of Syria, told the council that Arab leaders will meet in Amman, Trans-Jordan, tomorrow, and that their acceptance or rejection of the United Nations appeal to halt the Holy Land fighting will be communicated to Lake Success no later than Wednesday noon.

Meanwhile, Arabs and Jews both claimed victories in local actions as the Palestine fighting continued.

A Haganah communique, issued by the Jewish army in Tel Aviv, said "the whole Jordan Valley has been cleared of enemy forces." The communique said Jewish forces recaptured two settlements in the northern area—Sha'ar Hagolan and Massada. It added that the whole Samakh area now is in Jewish hands. Jews evacuated the settlements a few days ago under Syrian army pressure.

Arabs Capture Village

The Arab High Command said its troops had captured Ramat Rehel, a Jewish village half-way between Jerusalem and Bethlehem, where a major battle had raged for 48 hours. The radio of Haganah, the Israeli army, broadcast that all of Ramat Rehel was in Arab hands except for a communal eating place which Jews still held.

Both sides reported the other's casualties were heavy at Ramat Rehel. The Arabs said they had killed more than 300 Jews and the Jews said "tens of bodies" of Arab attackers littered the streets.

After a 48-hour respite, Tel Aviv was bombed from the air today. This time the Arabs used two-engine bombers. It was believed to be the first time the Arabs used planes heavier than fighter-bombers. The Jews said the Arabs dropped a few heavy bombs in the northern part of the city. The damage was not determined immediately.

An Egyptian communique said the Egyptian army captured several Jewish strongholds in Palestine's southern coastal belt Sunday night after a nine-hour battle. It said the bodies of 500 Jews were counted on the battlefield in the Deir Suneid region between Tel Aviv and Gaza.

The Haganah command reported Jewish forces recaptured two settlements, Shaar Hagolan and Massada, in Northern Palestine. Jews evacuated the settlements a few days ago under Syrian army pressure.

Charles Brannan Named Secretary Of Agriculture

Coloradoan Selected To Succeed Anderson

WASHINGTON, May 24. (AP)—Charles F. Brannan, 44-year-old former Denver lawyer, was appointed Secretary of Agriculture today. He is the second government career man to be chosen for a Cabinet post by President Truman within the past six months.

The other is Jesse M. Donaldson, one-time letter carrier, who was named Postmaster General last November to succeed Robert E. Hannegan.

Brannan, whose appointment must be confirmed by the Senate, was appointed to succeed Clinton P. Anderson, who resigned May 10 to run for the Senate in New Mexico.

Joined Department In 1935

Brannan has been an employe of the Agriculture Department since 1935. He started in as a regional attorney for the department in his native Denver in 1935. He has been Assistant Secretary since June, 1944.

But for a quirk of fate, Brannan probably would not have been picked for the cabinet. Last year President Truman sent his name to the Senate for confirmation as a member of the Indian Claims Commission. Brannan had told the President he would be pleased to have the appointment.

Secretary Anderson protested this nomination to Mr. Truman, saying that he needed Brannan in the department. Anderson got Brannan to ask the President to withdraw the appointment, which he did. Brannan stayed on in the department to take on important tasks for Anderson and to wind up with a presidential appointment to be the latter's successor.

Anderson Praises Brannan

Anderson said in New Mexico today of Brannan: "An excellent choice x x x loyal and diligent x x x familiar with western problems."

Brannan's appointment climaxed many week's speculation as to who would get the job. Others who had been mentioned included Undersecretary N. E. Dodd, who has been

MAN AND WIFE KILLED IN NINE-STORY PLUNGE

CHICAGO, May 24 (AP)—A nine-story hotel room plunge killed a man and wife today. Police believe the woman was dragged along when she tried to hold him back.

The victims were Harry Grundy, 49, former Christian County state's attorney, and Lourena, 48.

Police Lt. Albert Hoffman said an investigation indicated the tragedy had this background:

Grundy, a Taylorville, Ill., attorney, had suffered from fits of depression for several years. His wife brought him to a north side hotel Sunday, not telling him he was going to be hospitalized.

The bodies struck the sidewalk in front of the Commonwealth Hotel at 2757 Pine Grove Avenue a foot apart, after crashing through a window pane and screen in their room.

Chicago Police Seek Link Between Pair Of Killings

CHICAGO, May 24. (AP)—Three shots in the head finished off Leo "Little Sneeze" Friedman early today and police tonight were trying to link his death with another corpse in the morgue.

The other victim of a shooting was George Stathatos, 26, a small-time gambler. His death and that of Friedman, 33-year-old former bank robber, were connected by inquest testimony today.

Angie Stathatos, 21, sister of George whose shot and battered body was found Saturday night in his parked car, testified:

"Leo and my brother had been friends for four years. I'm positive the men who killed Leo Friedman are the ones who killed my brother."

Friedman was shot down early today on a West Side street as he walked with his wife, Carol, 26. Mrs. Friedman wasn't hit, but her husband was shot three times in the head by gunmen who first fired from an automobile, then stood over him and gave him a coup de grace.

The killers fled in a 1936 sedan driven by a third man.

Miss Stathatos' testimony at her brother's inquist was the first, indication that there might be a connection between the two killings. The Friedman and Stathatos inquests were both continued until June 9.

Mrs. Friedman testified that she knew of no one who would want to kill her husband.

Henry Friedman, brother of Leo, also declared he knew of no enemies who might have shot him.

The only other witness at the Friedman investigation was a shipping clerk named Hugh Crimmings who lives near the slaying scene.

"I ran to the window and saw flashes from blazing guns down in the street," he said. "Then, I saw two men run and jump into a car."

Lane's Message Will Open Special Assembly Session

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 24. (AP)—Maryland lawmakers began drifting into the state capital tonight, ready for a special session that most observers guessed would last from two to three days.

More than 60 bills were certain to be introduced in the session that begins with a message from Gov. Lane tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. (EDT).

From every quarter came the prediction that at least two hot fights were in the making.

And with the usual unpredictability of a special session, more could easily develop.

Lane called the Legislature back primarily to consider a 10 per cent, across-the-board, pay raise for state employes. Only those who have received equivalent increases since September, 1946, would be excluded under the administration proposal.

But pre-session conversations lately have been about almost anything but the pay raises.

In the limelight over the weekend was speculation that a measure to eject the three members of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission would pop up. A new agency would be created, the talk went, to replace the one currently embroiled in controversy.

The Governor made no comment on another matter generally expected to produce some oratorical skirmishing. That concerns an emergency appropriations for the State Welfare Department.

Lane remained silent on another battle-brewing proposal—to legalize raffles for non-commercial purposes. But he did exhibit a raft of letters protesting such a measure.

The sales tax also is due for another go-around. Delegate Carrick (D-Balto 6th) said he would enter a bill to stop collections after $36,800,000 has been raised by the two per cent impost.

Landis Proposes T-H Law Changes

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—The Taft-Hartley labor law should be changed to state that it is not an unfair labor practice to fire a "subversive" worker, Rep. Landis (R-Ind) said today.

Landis' classification for such a person — one who tends toward overthrow of the government—would be: "A member of an organization listed as subversive by the Attorney General's office."

Landis appeared before the Senate - House watchdog committee which opened today its first public hearings on operations of the law. It is now 11 months old.

He also suggested that it be broadened to require sworn oaths from management and labor contract negotiators that they are not Communists. Now only top union officials are required to sign such an oath in order to obtain the services of the National Labor Relations Board.

Much of today's hearing was given over to a proposal to end the Taft-Hartley requirement that a majority of employes vote for a union shop before one may be set up. This is the only one of various proposed changes which is believed to have a chance for congressional approval before adjournment.

UMW, Lewis Fined Twice

The UMW and Lewis were fined $710,000 the first time. Goldsborough doubled that in April, making it $1,420,000 as the penalty for contempt.

The Denham action and court hearing take on major importance in the simmering relations between Lewis and soft coal operators because they are deadlocked as a result of the fight over the southern association. Unless forced to meet with Moody, there appeared no immediate prospect for resuming contract talks, broken off last Wednesday.

Denham's attorney told Goldsborough that "there is imminent danger and great likelihood" that as a result of Lewis' refusal to bargain with Moody, a substantial part of the industry would not have a contract June 30.

"It may fairly be anticipated from custom and practice of the coal industry in the past that the coal miners represented by respondents will engage in a stoppage of work and that operations in the mines in which they are employed will therefore cease, on or after June 30, 1948, if no new agreement is negotiated x x x," Denham said.

Convict Must Wait Long Time For His "Profits"

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., May 24 (AP)—A convict who was quoted by United States District Attorney Claude B. Stevens as saying he had a nest egg of $30,000 from forged checks hidden for use when he is released was given another prison sentence today.

Lovell Roma, 27, Cleo, W. Va., appeared in Federal Court and pleaded guilty to eight counts of transporting forged checks in interstate commerce. Judge Mac Swinford sentenced him to three years on each count.

The time is to be served concurrently with the present sentence at the West Virginia State Penitentiary. He had been sentenced on similar charges to three consecutive terms of two to 10 years.

extensive air activities. Haganah said two Arab planes were down at Kinneret on the southwestern shore of the Sea of Galilee. The Egyptians said they shot down a Jewish plane in last night's action in the southern coastal belt.

A dispatch from Jerusalem said Trans-Jordan Arab Legionnaires were attempting to disorganize Jewish defenses by heavy shelling. The Legion appeared to be avoiding ground assaults which caused heavy infantry casualties and was relying instead on a blockade of food and water supplies to weaken Jewish resistance.

Moshe Shertok, foreign minister of the provisional government of Israel, said in a telegram to the United Nations at Lake Success that the Arabs had thrust aside the cease fire appeal.

Arab spokesmen in Cairo and Lake Success indicated the Arab nations would agree to a truce only if the Israel army is disbanded and the Palestine partition plan shelved. Obviously the Jews will not accept these conditions.

Both the United States and Britain urged the Arab nations to abide by the United Nations demand. British and American diplomats delivered the appeals for peace in Cairo and other Arab capitals.

Wallace Again Urges Foreign Policy Debate

PORTLAND, Ore., May 24. (AP)—Henry Wallace, third party presidential candidate, tonight summarized what he said were the costs of the "cold war" and called anew for a debate on foreign policy.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the armory here, he said "the time has come for us to examine American foreign policy with a thoroughness that the press has not made possible. That is the reason I challenged Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), Gen. Marshall (Secretary of State George C. Marshall), or Sen. Connelly (D-Texas) to a series of debates on specific problems of foreign policy."

Gurney Acts To Prevent Drafting Of 18-Year-Olds

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—An amendment to the Senate selective service bill that would kill the plan to draft 18-year-old youths was introduced today by Sen. Gurney (R.-SD), chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee.

The 18-year-olds, however, would be permitted to volunteer for a year's training after which they would serve four years as members of the national guard or some other reserve unit.

Gurney's proposal today, predicted Saturday, would eliminate a serious point of disagreement between the Senate and House draft bills and may speed final passage.

Landis Proposes T-H Law Changes

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—The Taft-Hartley labor law should be changed to state that it is not an unfair labor practice to fire a "subversive" worker, Rep. Landis (R-Ind) said today.

Landis' classification for such a person — one who tends toward overthrow of the government—would be: "A member of an organization listed as subversive by the Attorney General's office."

Landis appeared before the Senate - House watchdog committee which opened today its first public hearings on operations of the law. It is now 11 months old.

He also suggested that it be broadened to require sworn oaths from management and labor contract negotiators that they are not Communists. Now only top union officials are required to sign such an oath in order to obtain the services of the National Labor Relations Board.

Much of today's hearing was given over to a proposal to end the Taft-Hartley requirement that a majority of employes vote for a union shop before one may be set up. This is the only one of various proposed changes which is believed to have a chance for congressional approval before adjournment.

UMW, Lewis Fined Twice

The UMW and Lewis were fined $710,000 the first time. Goldsborough doubled that in April, making it $1,420,000 as the penalty for contempt.

The Denham action and court hearing take on major importance in the simmering relations between Lewis and soft coal operators because they are deadlocked as a result of the fight over the southern association. Unless forced to meet with Moody, there appeared no immediate prospect for resuming contract talks, broken off last Wednesday.

Denham's attorney told Goldsborough that "there is imminent danger and great likelihood" that as a result of Lewis' refusal to bargain with Moody, a substantial part of the industry would not have a contract June 30.

"It may fairly be anticipated from custom and practice of the coal industry in the past that the coal miners represented by respondents will engage in a stoppage of work and that operations in the mines in which they are employed will therefore cease, on or after June 30, 1948, if no new agreement is negotiated x x x," Denham said.

Convict Must Wait Long Time For His "Profits"

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., May 24 (AP)—A convict who was quoted by United States District Attorney Claude B. Stevens as saying he had a nest egg of $30,000 from forged checks hidden for use when he is released was given another prison sentence today.

Lovell Roma, 27, Cleo, W. Va., appeared in Federal Court and pleaded guilty to eight counts of transporting forged checks in interstate commerce. Judge Mac Swinford sentenced him to three years on each count.

The time is to be served concurrently with the present sentence at the West Virginia State Penitentiary. He had been sentenced on similar charges to three consecutive terms of two to 10 years.

extensive air activities. Haganah said two Arab planes were down at Kinneret on the southwestern shore of the Sea of Galilee. The Egyptians said they shot down a Jewish plane in last night's action in the southern coastal belt.

A dispatch from Jerusalem said Trans-Jordan Arab Legionnaires were attempting to disorganize Jewish defenses by heavy shelling. The Legion appeared to be avoiding ground assaults which caused heavy infantry casualties and was relying instead on a blockade of food and water supplies to weaken Jewish resistance.

Moshe Shertok, foreign minister of the provisional government of Israel, said in a telegram to the United Nations at Lake Success that the Arabs had thrust aside the cease fire appeal.

Arab spokesmen in Cairo and Lake Success indicated the Arab nations would agree to a truce only if the Israel army is disbanded and the Palestine partition plan shelved. Obviously the Jews will not accept these conditions.

Both the United States and Britain urged the Arab nations to abide by the United Nations demand. British and American diplomats delivered the appeals for peace in Cairo and other Arab capitals.

Wallace Again Urges Foreign Policy Debate

PORTLAND, Ore., May 24. (AP)—Henry Wallace, third party presidential candidate, tonight summarized what he said were the costs of the "cold war" and called anew for a debate on foreign policy.

In a speech prepared for delivery at the armory here, he said "the time has come for us to examine American foreign policy with a thoroughness that the press has not made possible. That is the reason I challenged Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich), Gen. Marshall (Secretary of State George C. Marshall), or Sen. Connelly (D-Texas) to a series of debates on specific problems of foreign policy."

Gurney Acts To Prevent Drafting Of 18-Year-Olds

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP)—An amendment to the Senate selective service bill that would kill the plan to draft 18-year-old youths was introduced today by Sen. Gurney (R.-SD), chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee.

The 18-year-olds, however, would be permitted to volunteer for a year's training after which they would serve four years as members of the national guard or some other reserve unit.

Gurney's proposal today, predicted Saturday, would eliminate a serious point of disagreement between the Senate and House draft bills and may speed final passage.

Tucker County Malady Is Not New Disease

CHARLESTON, W. Va., (AP)—Preliminary investigation of a disease that took the lives of three Tucker County children shows it to be a pneumonia-type malady, Health Commissioner N. H. Dyer said today.

Dr. Dyer quoted United States Public Health officers, called in to make the investigation, as saying it was not a new disease, and that they had been asked to conduct probes of similar outbreaks in other states.

Behind "Peace Offensive" Inaugurated By Russians

The Russian "peace offensive" has proved embarrassing to our State Department, as Stalin knew quite well it would. Secretary Marshall realizes that, while Russia has lately been talking big about her pacific aims, she has altered none of the policies that have made genuine peace impossible. At the same time, the United States cannot reject disingenuous Soviet peace bids out of hand. Too many millions of people are so terrified of atomic warfare that they will grasp at any fair words and mistake them for reality.

Those people should look behind Moscow's recent words to the reality of Soviet foreign policy. The other day Stalin professed his eagerness to abolish atomic warfare. At about the same time, the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission terminated its hearings because, for two years, Russia has opposed any international control and inspection of atomic energy.

Another sign of Russia's pacific intentions much hailed by leftists was the "more moderate tone" of Soviet diplomacy in the four-power talks on an Austrian peace. Possibly the language of the Soviet delegate has lately been less insulting than it was. Nevertheless, a few days ago the two-year-old peace negotiations finally broke down. The reason was Moscow's insistence that segments of Austrian territory be given to the Soviet satellite, Yugoslavia.

After the war it was agreed among the Big Four that Austria should be considered an enemy power, that her frontiers should remain as they were before the Anschluss of 1938, and that she be required to pay no reparations. But when Yugoslavia came along —doubtless at Moscow's private urging—with demands for reparations and strips of unquestionably Austrian territory, Russia backed the demands, even at the cost of breaking up the conference.

Yet Russia is talking peace lately, but her adherence to the policies that have wrecked the world's peace hopes is granite-like.

Sioux Indians say they are having a hard time living like white men, and no wonder.

Cottonseed Oil And Its Relation To Oleo Battle

We must confess to mystification over the reports that somebody has been cornering the cottonseed oil market in the expectation of a rise in oleomargarine prices if and when Congress repeals the Federal taxes on margarine. After talking to an experienced housewife—in th ebosom of the family—we are more mystified than ever.

Representative August H. Andresen, chairman of a special House committee, has charged that several American firms have been trying to corner the supply of cottonseed oil. That charge remains to be proved. A company which tries to buy as much as it can of a scarce raw material for its own manufacture is not "cornering the market." All sorts of accusations are being hurled about in the dispute between the tax-repeal and dairy state representatives in Congress. But what mystifies us is the statement of a Washington trader that an unnamed "group" has cornered the cottonseed oil market "in the expectation of a rise in margarine prices."

That sort of economic reasoning makes no sense at all. The present Federal taxes on margarine give butter an unfair advantage by artificially keeping up the price of margarine. The object of repealing the taxes—aside from the important principle of the thing—is to reduce the price of margarine, and hence butter.

Every housewife knows that there is a continuing and fairly regular ratio between the prices of butter and margarine. Most housewives prefer butter, and many of them are willing to pay twice as much for it as for margarine. But, as a rule, they won't pay more than twice. When the 50 per cent limit is passed, butter sales drop off, margarine sales rise and butter prices drop.

Repeal of the margarine taxes, it is hoped, will bring both prices down. Cornering the raw material market would indeed make margarine more scarce, but the inevitable effect would be to increase butter consumption. The essence of the relations between the two commodities is steady competition.

Some person or persons may be trying to monopolize the cottonseed oil supply. But any man who tried it in the expectation of making a "killing" out of higher margarine prices due to the repeal of margarine taxes would require the attention of a psychiatrist rather than of a congressional committee.

The CIO meat strike flopped dismally. It failed to create a meat shortage.

It Would Be Quite A Settlement For All

An object lesson of what uncontrolled inflation can do to the savings of a people—our own not excepted—is provided by the news from Shanghai that it now takes one million Chinese dollars in the black market to buy one American dollar.

Suppose something like this took place in the United States, as wages and prices chase each other out of sight. The nation owes its bondholders $258,286,383,109; at the Chinese rate, it would pay out that amount in paper dollars, but what the people would get—measured in purchasing power—would be $258,286. The life insurance companies owe their policyholders $174,553,352,000; they could pay these off in paper currency for the equivalent in purchasing power of $174,553. Deposits in banks total $153,200,000,000; they could settle with depositors with paper money having a purchasing power of $53,200. Does anybody owe you a million dollars? He could settle with you by giving you paper money worth only one dollar.

Adding up all these figures, we discover that under inflation, Chinese pattern, the national debt, all insurance policies, all bank deposits, and that million-dollar loan to a friend could be cleared up for $614,137 in real money. Fantastic? Impossible? Well, there was a time after World War I when a single honest American copper cent would have paid off Germany's entire internal debt.

The mission of inflation is to rob everybody.

The nation has had three years of peace, a period for which more descriptive terms were frequently used.

KEEP WELL HOW TO

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Salt Restriction and Dropsy

Edema means that the tissues of the body are oversaturated with water. The condition is usually an aftermath of a heart or kidney disturbance but is noted to a lesser degree in cirrhosis of the liver, vein obstruction, and protein starvation. The ankles, legs, and abdomen always exhibit more puffiness because the fluid is heavy and gravitates to the lowermost parts.

Dr. Van Dellen

The body of the normal adult contains approximately 50 quarts of water, 85 per cent of which is located in the cells. The remainder is free to roam in the tissue spaces and blood vessels. The membrane surrounding the cells are so thin that the fluid is capable of passing in and out at will. But the water outside the cells plays the greatest role in edema. I contains sodium which is kept in solution by a certain amount of water. If the concentration becomes excessive, more fluid will be demanded from the cells and blood stream and, as it accumulates, dropsy occurs.

●—●—●

There are many other factors acting behind the scenes in producing edema. For example, in certain types of kidney disease, sodium is not excreted propertly and, in consequence, begins to pile up in the system. When the heart is involved, mechanical factors like back pressure add to the complication. In the past, physicians warned patients with heart and kidney disorders to restrict fluids, reasoning that since these individuals were already waterlogged there was no need to add more. We know that if the sodium in the diet is reduced, an average amount of water may be taken.

A low sodium regimen should prove helpful to any one with a cardiac impairment who has noticed puffiness of the ankles. It is useful also when the kidneys are involved in those with high blood pressure. The rice diet is low in salt which is why it has been used in this group.

But practically all foods contain some of this chemical. As an illustration, slice of bread contains 100 milligrams and so does a glass of milk. In compiling the menus, therefore, much care is needed. Since table salt is sodium chloride and baking soda is sodium bicarbonate, these substances are strictly taboo. This means that neither salt nor soda should be used in cooking and salt many not be added at the table. Fresh vegetables and fruits are low in the substance while meats, dairy products, fish, and fowl are high. It can be seen that the meals will be slightly lopsided and, in order to make them palatable, ingenuity is necessary. Unsalted bread and butter are recommended as well as a sodium-free milk substitute. Care must be taken not to nibble on salty appetizers or tidbits and if medicine is prescribed it should not be made up in a briny base.

Even though vinegar, pepper, and paprika may be used to season the dishes, many complain of the flatness especially at first but time generally changes the taste. If not, salt substitutes are available. In addition, ammonium chloride or mercuriral dieuretics can be employed to increase the elemniation of sodium so that food restrictions will be less stringent. Some find it almost impossible to obtain low sodium meals, especially if they eat out. These persons must find an alternative or the plan will not be successful.

LOSS OF HEARING

T. R. writes: Does nerve deafness come suddenly or gradually?

Reply

Both are possibilities, depending upon the cause.

FUSED FINGERS

C. H. writes: I was born with two webbed fingers. This gives me no trouble except for the appearance. Would you suggest operation?

Reply

Surgery is usually recommended if the defect interferes with function or the cosmetic effect is distressing. On the other hand, many victims of such minor abnormalities will cherish them as a sign of individuality.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Meet the real nature boy.

"Nature Boy," the song that's been sweeping the country, has been on the air so much it sounds as if the Hit Parade were a recruiting office for the jungle.

The writer of that song . . . the real nature boy . . . according to reports, eats a dinner consisting of cocoanuts, bananas and green stuff. It makes me hungry, but I don't think we're talking about the same kind of green stuff.

At the moment he's living in a backyard in Hollywood. Of course, that's understandable. I did the same thing the first year I was out here.

Nature Boy has walked across the United States eight times with his two possessions. . . . His sleeping bag and his juice squeezer. I found out he hates fruit stands.

He is quite a striking figure, barefooted and bearded. Of course, he only started trimming his beard since he began riding a bicycle. It used to be longer until he found out spokes will never replace the old-fashioned scissors.

THE SO-CALLED EMERGENCY OPERATION

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Backstage Battle Raging Over Truman's Nomination; British Adept At Diplomatic Sleight-of-Hand; Army Completely Neglects Reserve Program

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Without benefit of publicity, a significant backstage battle is being waged regarding the question: "to nominate or not to nominate Mr. Truman."

A host of Democratic leaders would like to duck Harry's nomination, but most of them—at least from the North—are afraid to stick their necks out. They are secretly encouraging others to do the sticking, however, and they are quite delighted to hold anybody else's coat.

But despite this hesitancy, more and more Democrats are quietly lining up—with the hope of blocking nomination on the first ballot. If Truman doesn't make it on the first ballot, they figure he's licked.

Illustrating the current inside strategy is what's happening regarding California. The California delegation is pledged to Truman. Under the law it can't switch until after the first ballot. But there's nothing to prevent the California delegation from "seconding" the nomination of General Eisenhower or of anyone else.

Therefore, the strategy now being discussed is for Alabama, first state to vote at the Philadelphia convention, to nominate Eisenhower and then for California to second him.

Britain's Silken Curtain

In Russia it's called the "iron curtain," in England it's sometimes called the "silken curtain" — at lease where British diplomacy is concerned. The implication is that the British are much smoother at diplomatic sleight-of-hand.

For instance: In London the British Foreign Office candidly admits it has been shipping arms and paying money to King Abdullah of the Trans-Jordan. About sixty British officers are also commanding his troops. The British Foreign Office also states officially that Britain will stop sending aid as soon as the United Nations takes official action banning such aid.

That sounds fine. But—

Simultaneously at the United Nations, British delegate Sir Alexander Cadogan has played the leading part in blocking UN action on Palestine.

Thus the British right hand pretends not to know what the left hand doeth.

This recalls all too vividly the double role played by the British when Henry L. Stimson was trying to stop the Jap warlords in Manchuria in 1931-32. When the USA would deliver a note of protest to the Japs, the British Ambassador would deliver a similar protest—then drop around to the Japanese Foreign Office later to explain orally that the British didn't really mean it. Likewise, when the League of Nations was trying to apply sanctions against Mussolini's wanton attack on Ethiopia, it was the British who sanctimoniously preached about aggression but urged the sale of oil to Mussolini. This was the one war commodity he needed most.

Neglected Army Reserves

The avowed purpose of the manpower bills, now before Congress, is to train more reserves for a possible emergency. Yet the Army has been so busy lobbying for peacetime conscription, it has completely neglected the reserve program supposed to keep this manpower active after training is completed.

In fact, the Reserve Officers Association recently was forced to send its own representative before the House Appropriations Committee to plead for a paltry handout. Meanwhile Secretaries Forrestal and Royall, beating the drums for billions to build up the armed services, blandly admitted that their chief aim was to stockpile manpower which would go into the reserves.

Col. C. M. Boyer (inactive) pleaded the case for the reserve officers the other day behind closed doors.

"We feel," he told a House Appropriations Subcommittee, "that inasmuch as the Department of Defense has stated that the reserves are needed in the national security picture, then the Department of Defense should request sufficient funds and not make it necessary for us to appear."

The defense chiefs, however, had recommended only $80 million for both Army and Air Force reserves, while Col. Boyer testified they needed at least $303 million. With such funds and proper support, the National Guard and reserves could also train new recruits and do it cheaper than the regular services, thus making the draft unnecessary.

Citizens Army Won Past Wars

"To us it is ridiculous," Col. Boyer told Congress, "to ask $2 million to produce the manpower that is needed to build the reserve forces, then ask only $80 million for the reserve program itself.

"This country was founded and has maintained its existence on the theory that the security of the country must be based on a small regular force and a large citizens' army," he continued. "In every war in which this country has participated, the citizen soldier has predominated . . . Approximately 90 per cent of the fighting and dying is done by the citizen soldier."

Three years after the shooting war ended, Boyer reported, no "realistic program" has been developed for the reserves. As a result the reservists are losing interest and dropping out.

"That is absolutely right," broke in Chairman Albert Engel, Michigan Republican. "I accepted a reserve commission in 1919, and didn't hear anything from the Army. I can say from my own experience that inactivity causes you to lose interest."

Note — Congressman Errett Scrivner, Kansas Republican, who was not feeling well, stretched out on a couch throughout the closed hearing.

"Don't you want to come up to the table?" asked Chairman Engel.

"No," Scrivner replied, "I'll take this lying down."

Merry-Go-Round

Democratic Chairman Howard McGrath will only accompany President Truman as far as Chicago on the forthcoming Western campaign trip. Clark Clifford, Charlie Ross and Matt Connelly will take the entire tour. . .The special Presidential shortwave-radio baggage car built by the Army during the war is being made ready for the Western tour. . .Kate Smith has been made an honorary Army nurse by Surgeon General Raymond Bliss. After the ceremony General Bliss addressed Kate as "Colonel Smith.". . .Gael Sullivan, able retiring executive director of Democratic National Committee, is being approached to spearhead the Eisenhower for President drive, has made no commitment. Jim Rowe, former administrative aid to President Roosevelt, is being boomed for Sullivan's old post. . .Mrs. Roosevelt still tells friends she can't support President Truman for re-election.

Oregon Footnotes

SAN FRANCISCO

FOR HAROLD STASSEN the question has now become whether the Republican nomination can be secured, not for himself, but for Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg or some other Republican who is not a bitter Stassen enemy. For Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the question now is whether his re-started bandwagon can gain enough momentum to break through a Philadelphia deadlock and carry him to nomination.

Oregon, following hard upon Ohio, has in fact neatly reversed the allocation of roles in the Republican political drama which seemed to have been made in Wisconsin and Nebraska. For a few weeks, Dewey and Senator Robert A. Taft were gathering their strength to stop Stassen. Now it is Stassen who must, and unquestinoably will, prepare to use all his resources in order to stop Dewey. For the Republican front-runner is now Dewey. And Stassen already knows that one of Dewey's dearest pleasures and first endeavors will be to chase him from the national scene.

By dramatically reversing a sharply unfavorable situation, Dewey has scored an undoubted personal success of the first order. The effects of Wisconsin and Nebraska are now virtually wiped out. Dewey's political managers can assert that Dewey failed in Wisconsin and Nebraska because he was too busy for an intensive personal campaign comparable to Stassen's. They can say, and beyond doubt are now saying, that Oregon has shown Dewey's real stuff, when he rolls up his sleeves and goes after the vote. Because the Oregon electorate is a highly representative, middle of the road Republican electorate, the effect will be all the greater.

Dewey has, in short, won a very solid, very vital victory. Yet one cannot help recalling one observer's shrewd verdict on Ohio, that the real Ohio winner was neither Stassen nor Taft, but Vandenberg. Here again in Oregon, while Dewey has won, Vandenberg has won also. Significantly enough, this was bound to be true, whatever the outcome. This correspondent left Portland before the voting, but not before both the Dewey and the Stassen camps had begun to consider what they would do if defeated. In both camps, lining up behind Vandenberg was considered the obvious strategy.

For Stassen to try to promote the choice of Vandenberg and himself hope for second place on the ticket will be merely to revert to the tactics he had in mind before Wisconsin sent his hopes soaring. But there are other more complex factors to consider. Vandenberg is also on the whole preferred to any of the competing candidates by Taft and his backers of the Republican conservative wing. The Michigan delegation, together with a large number of Pennsylvania's valuable herd of political livestock, must already be considered as assets of the draft-Vandenberg planners. And one wonders whether Dewey himself, who would claw any other rival's eyes out to get the nomination, will make the kind of all out fight against Vandenberg that leaves deep scars behind.

There are several points here to consider. First, Dewey wants above all to be President, is still a young man, but cannot again make a bid for the White House from the New York governor mansion. Second, at least one faction of the draft-Vandenberg planner began thinking weeks ago of offering Dewey the Vice-Presidential spot, with the special task, for which he is well-fitted, of carrying out the reorganization of the Federal government on the basis of the recommendations of President Hoover's special commission. This would make the Vice-Presidency an extremely active job, rather than a mere empty honor.

Third, Vandenberg himself has let it be known he would serve only one term, which would open the way for Dewey again in 1952. And fourth, there were indications a few days ago that in the event of defeat in Oregon, Dewey himself was thinking favorably of second place on a Vandenberg ticket. Victory in Oregon may cause Dewey to forget the advantages he had begun to teach himself to see in such an arrangement.

Stassen's slugging fight for the nomination has made him the object of much personal enmity. Senator Vandenberg, if drafted, would want the maximum of party unity and is thus quite likely to prefer Dewey as a running mate. Any wager on the Philadelphia outcome is a long shot, but long shot gamblers might do worse than a parlay on a Vandenberg-Dewey ticket.

Only one thing remains to be said about the Oregon primary. The issue in the campaign, as publicly proclaimed by both Dewey and Stassen, was Stassen's proposal to suppress the Communist party. Stassen was defeated on that issue. The fact that this proposal was thus rejected does credit to the political decency, and above all the common sense, of the voters. It should also be taken as a warning by the kind of Republicans and reactionary Democrats who think there is political capital to be made by wallowing in cheap appeals to prejudice and vulgar political sensationalism. Being Parnell Thomas does not pay in the long run.

Stassen's Failure To Observe Rules Of Politics Hurts Him

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 24 — Supporters of former Governor Stassen of Minnesota are saying what the admirers of Governor Dewey said after the Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries — that one primary with its headlines doesn't make a nomination.

Actually, the contest in Oregon showed the voters of that state almost equally divided and to say now that Stassen has been "eliminated" just because he failed to pass Dewey in Oregon is reminiscent of the comments made not so long ago that the New York governor was "out of it" because he didn't show up well in Wisconsin or Nebraska.

The truth is that generally the primaries merely divide up the regular Republican vote and are by no means an indication of how the party would feel if the choice were always narrowed to two men. The significance of the Oregon primary is that, with only two candidates in the field, the prference was given to Dewey over Stassen. In Ohio, with two in the field, Stassen lost also. In Nebraska and Wisconsin the contest was among several Republican contenders who split the vote.

To win the nomination in either the Democratic or Republican party means a totally different kind of campaign than might be waged in the post-convention period. The pre-convention campaign takes in usually a substantial part of the persons who vote their own ticket regularly. It is to the regulars—and often this means the conservatives —that a nominating campaign has to be addressed.

Stassen Fails To Observe Rule

Failure to observe this rule is what is losing the nomination for Stassen. He has planned his strategy wholly on the publicity appeal of a young progressive who differs with the old-line party voters. But to get a nomination a candidate cannot overlook the fact that it is the regulars who go out to vote every time and that they take their Republicanism seriously.

The primaries do not cover a majority of the delegates chosen. Hence the same kind of appeal that has to be made in states where there are large numbers of regulars voting has to be made in the other states where delegates are chosen by the convention system.

Stassen's chief mistake was made in Ohio. Entering the state of a "favorite son" is not always in itself bad tactics but the kind of attack made on a "favorite son" is something else again. The regulars in Oregon and elsewhere read about the kind of campaign made by Stassen in Ohio. The error made in Ohio by Stassen was in handpicking the labor-union districts and attempting to make capital out of the known fact that Senator Taft was the author of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Mr. Taft may not be the choice of certain Republicans but he stands out as a leader of his party and as having earned the right to the courtesies due a "favorite son" as well as protection from the hand-picked-district sort of attack which was waged against him by Stassen.

The former Minnesota governor is a young man with a future in politics. He is a good campaigner and will in due time make his place in the party. But he not only has hurt himself for first place this time but has aroused opposition for second place among regulars who dislike what he did in Ohio.

One may differ with these rules of politics but as long as the primaries do not select a majority of the delegates it is a condition and not a theory that confronts an aspirant to the nomination of his party. Curiously enough these rules obtain irrespective of party. They are the unwritten code of party politics which any veteran recognizes who has been through the mill of state as well as national conventions.

Meaning Of "Favorite Son"

Perhaps the "favorite son" rule was originally derived from a sense of fair play in the political game and perhaps it means just plain tact in corraling second-choice votes by abstaining from an attack on a candidate among his own people. The rule, however, has been observed by most men seeking a presidential nomination from the time Abraham Lincoln won his first Republican nomination in 1860.

At this moment it looks as if neither Dewey nor Stassen will make the grade and this hasn't anything to do with the Oregon primaries. It's because the Republicans at their national convention will have stronger reasons for supporting other candidates.

Dewey and Stassen through their primary victories and Taft through his support in other states besides Ohio are not going to go into the first balloting with any group of delegates even within striking distance of a majority.

While the Stassen votes could hold the balance of power, the Taft and Dewey votes together are more likely to select the nominee on the final ballot. There is really no understanding at the moment between them but the plain implications of the pre-convention campaign line up Dewey and Taft on one side as against Stassen. This is much more the result of antagonisms unnecessarily created during the primary campaign than any natural alignment due to public issues.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

What Is Communism?

I listened recently to some definitions of Communism which failed to include many characteristics of the Marxian philosophy. After all, more than 200,000,000 persons live under this way of life and we need to understand it. Definitions are most difficult when they are short, for the more we generalize, the less specific is the description. After all, Karl Marx wrote three enormous volumes, "Das Kapital," to explain a few phases of his program.

Yet, I venture to give here a fairly short definition which is not so generalized as to be out of focus nor so involved as to be difficult to understand. Here it is:

Communism is a social, political and economic creed, originally devised by Karl Marx, since amended by Lenin and Stalin and by actual practice, which holds that a single political party shall control not only the government but the means of production and distribution, the fixed and liquid capital, and with it the lives and activities of all the inhabitants in the interest of the State.

The oligarchy in control of that one party therefore controls the persons, minds, and actions of all under them, who virtually live in slavery. The objective of this system is its self-destruction at such a time as the oligarchs believe it is safe to eliminate all forms of force from human society.

This definition, however, fails to explain why this creed persists and why it has such a fanatical driving appeal for so many persons, particularly among intellectuals. To understand that it is necessary to move away from the economic and political sides of Communism, which are inevitable results of the "theology" of Marxism. And that "theology" is, like Christianity, based upon the primary question of how Man came into existence.

Judaism, Christianity and Islam accept the doctrine that Man is a special creation of God, differing from all else in nature by the possession of will and choice and the dignity of personality. Because of that, Man enjoys inalienable rights which are his at birth—as the grace of God. Out of this concept of Man, he evolved a series of ideals of living which run through the Old and New Testaments.

In Genesis, this concept of man is stated:

"So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them . . ."

This concept of Man has often been opposed by other ideas, particularly in recent years by the scientifically-minded, who regard man as a biologic creature, who, by chance, happened to turn out to be different from other creatures.

Once it is accepted that life is purposeless, that Man has no existence except as he is controlled by his enrivonment, then it is correct to assume that those who make and control the environment, establish the nature of Man. This concept eliminates all morals, substituting for them only the law of necessity—that is, that whatever is necessary is right. And who determines what is necessary?

Under any moral system, each individual decides that for himself, assuming responsibility for his personal choice and conduct. Under Communism, it is the oligarchs, operating a monopolistc political party, who decide what is, at a given moment, necessary, and changing their decisions as necessity dictates.

Lecomte du Nouy, in his magnificant study, makes this observation:

". . . The old-fashioned materialist who is honestly convinced that human life is without a cause and without a goal, that man is an irresponsible particle of matter engulfed in a maelstrom of purposeless forces, reminds us of the delightful remark made by a brilliant philosopher, Whitehead: '. . . Scientists who spend their life with the purpose of proving that it is purposeless constitute an interesting subject of study.'"

Once we accept the purely materialistic concept of Man, everything else fits into place. Slavery becomes acceptable if the oligarchs regard that as temporarily (how long in history is temporary?) necessary. Even the destruction of human beings becomes valid as the smashing of roaches in a kitchen because of necessity.

To understand Communism and its forces, it is wise to understand the struggle between God and the Devil, discussed so immortally in Job and in Goethe's "Faust."

After sixteen years of exile I don't think the Republican demands are too boysterous. All they want in the White House is an open shop.

And do you think those Democrats are going to give up with no more struggle than an oyster at a banquet? Brother, you're as wrong as a smooth file.

They have tasted blood and they want more transfusions. A job that lasts sixteen years is not to be taken as lightly as the milky footprints of a fly in a dairy.

The Democrats are going to fight it out to the last man. And they hope he is a Democrat.

Behind "Peace Offensive" Inaugurated By Russians

The Russian "peace offensive" has proved embarrassing to our State Department, as Stalin knew quite well it would. Secretary Marshall realizes that, while Russia has lately been talking big about her pacific aims, she has altered none of the policies that have made genuine peace impossible. At the same time, the United States cannot reject disingenuous Soviet peace bids out of hand. Too many millions of people are so terrified of atomic warfare that they will grasp at any fair words and mistake them for reality.

Those people should look behind Moscow's recent words to the reality of Soviet foreign policy. The other day Stalin professed his eagerness to abolish atomic warfare. At about the same time, the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission terminated its hearings because, for two years, Russia has opposed any international control and inspection of atomic energy.

Another sign of Russia's pacific intentions much hailed by leftists was the "more moderate tone" of Soviet diplomacy in the four-power talks on an Austrian peace. Possibly the language of the Soviet delegate has lately been less insulting than it was. Nevertheless, a few days ago the two-year-old peace negotiations finally broke down. The reason was Moscow's insistence that segments of Austrian territory be given to the Soviet satellite, Yugoslavia.

After the war it was agreed among the Big Four that Austria should be considered an enemy power, that her frontiers should remain as they were before the Anschluss of 1938, and that she be required to pay no reparations. But when Yugoslavia came along —doubtless at Moscow's private urging—with demands for reparations and strips of unquestionably Austrian territory, Russia backed the demands, even at the cost of breaking up the conference.

Yet Russia is talking peace lately, but her adherence to the policies that have wrecked the world's peace hopes is granite-like.

Sioux Indians say they are having a hard time living like white men, and no wonder.

Cottonseed Oil And Its Relation To Oleo Battle

We must confess to mystification over the reports that somebody has been cornering the cottonseed oil market in the expectation of a rise in oleomargarine prices if and when Congress repeals the Federal taxes on margarine. After talking to an experienced housewife—in th ebosom of the family—we are more mystified than ever.

Representative August H. Andresen, chairman of a special House committee, has charged that several American firms have been trying to corner the supply of cottonseed oil. That charge remains to be proved. A company which tries to buy as much as it can of a scarce raw material for its own manufacture is not "cornering the market." All sorts of accusations are being hurled about in the dispute between the tax-repeal and dairy state representatives in Congress. But what mystifies us is the statement of a Washington trader that an unnamed "group" has cornered the cottonseed oil market "in the expectation of a rise in margarine prices."

That sort of economic reasoning makes no sense at all. The present Federal taxes on margarine give butter an unfair advantage by artificially keeping up the price of margarine. The object of repealing the taxes—aside from the important principle of the thing—is to reduce the price of margarine, and hence butter.

Every housewife knows that there is a continuing and fairly regular ratio between the prices of butter and margarine. Most housewives prefer butter, and many of them are willing to pay twice as much for it as for margarine. But, as a rule, they won't pay more than twice. When the 50 per cent limit is passed, butter sales drop off, margarine sales rise and butter prices drop.

Repeal of the margarine taxes, it is hoped, will bring both prices down. Cornering the raw material market would indeed make margarine more scarce, but the inevitable effect would be to increase butter consumption. The essence of the relations between the two commodities is steady competition.

Some person or persons may be trying to monopolize the cottonseed oil supply. But any man who tried it in the expectation of making a "killing" out of higher margarine prices due to the repeal of margarine taxes would require the attention of a psychiatrist rather than of a congressional committee.

The CIO meat strike flopped dismally. It failed to create a meat shortage.

It Would Be Quite A Settlement For All

An object lesson of what uncontrolled inflation can do to the savings of a people—our own not excepted—is provided by the news from Shanghai that it now takes one million Chinese dollars in the black market to buy one American dollar.

Suppose something like this took place in the United States, as wages and prices chase each other out of sight. The nation owes its bondholders $258,286,383,109; at the Chinese rate, it would pay out that amount in paper dollars, but what the people would get—measured in purchasing power—would be $258,286. The life insurance companies owe their policyholders $174,553,352,000; they could pay these off in paper currency for the equivalent in purchasing power of $174,553. Deposits in banks total $153,200,000,000; they could settle with depositors with paper money having a purchasing power of $53,200. Does anybody owe you a million dollars? He could settle with you by giving you paper money worth only one dollar.

Adding up all these figures, we discover that under inflation, Chinese pattern, the national debt, all insurance policies, all bank deposits, and that million-dollar loan to a friend could be cleared up for $614,137 in real money. Fantastic? Impossible? Well, there was a time after World War I when a single honest American copper cent would have paid off Germany's entire internal debt.

The mission of inflation is to rob everybody.

The nation has had three years of peace, a period for which more descriptive terms were frequently used.

Salt Restriction and Dropsy

Edema means that the tissues of the body are oversaturated with water. The condition is usually an aftermath of a heart or kidney disturbance but is noted to a lesser degree in cirrhosis of the liver, vein obstruction, and protein starvation. The ankles, legs, and abdomen always exhibit more puffiness because the fluid is heavy and gravitates to the lowermost parts.

Dr. Van Dellen

The body of the normal adult contains approximately 50 quarts of water, 85 per cent of which is located in the cells. The remainder is free to roam in the tissue spaces and blood vessels. The membrane surrounding the cells are so thin that the fluid is capable of passing in and out at will. But the water outside the cells plays the greatest role in edema. I contains sodium which is kept in solution by a certain amount of water. If the concentration becomes excessive, more fluid will be demanded from the cells and blood stream and, as it accumulates, dropsy occurs.

●—●—●

There are many other factors acting behind the scenes in producing edema. For example, in certain types of kidney disease, sodium is not excreted propertly and, in consequence, begins to pile up in the system. When the heart is involved, mechanical factors like back pressure add to the complication. In the past, physicians warned patients with heart and kidney disorders to restrict fluids, reasoning that since these individuals were already waterlogged there was no need to add more. We know that if the sodium in the diet is reduced, an average amount of water may be taken.

A low sodium regimen should prove helpful to any one with a cardiac impairment who has noticed puffiness of the ankles. It is useful also when the kidneys are involved in those with high blood pressure. The rice diet is low in salt which is why it has been used in this group.

But practically all foods contain some of this chemical. As an illustration, slice of bread contains 100 milligrams and so does a glass of milk. In compiling the menus, therefore, much care is needed. Since table salt is sodium chloride and baking soda is sodium bicarbonate, these substances are strictly taboo. This means that neither salt nor soda should be used in cooking and salt many not be added at the table. Fresh vegetables and fruits are low in the substance while meats, dairy products, fish, and fowl are high. It can be seen that the meals will be slightly lopsided and, in order to make them palatable, ingenuity is necessary. Unsalted bread and butter are recommended as well as a sodium-free milk substitute. Care must be taken not to nibble on salty appetizers or tidbits and if medicine is prescribed it should not be made up in a briny base.

Even though vinegar, pepper, and paprika may be used to season the dishes, many complain of the flatness especially at first but time generally changes the taste. If not, salt substitutes are available. In addition, ammonium chloride or mercuriral dieuretics can be employed to increase the elemniation of sodium so that food restrictions will be less stringent. Some find it almost impossible to obtain low sodium meals, especially if they eat out. These persons must find an alternative or the plan will not be successful.

Backstage Battle Raging Over Truman's Nomination; British Adept At Diplomatic Sleight-of-Hand; Army Completely Neglects Reserve Program

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Without benefit of publicity, a significant backstage battle is being waged regarding the question: "to nominate or not to nominate Mr. Truman."

Likewise, when the League of Nations was trying to apply sanctions against Mussolini's wanton attack on Ethiopia, it was the British who sanctimoniously preached about aggression but urged the sale of oil to Mussolini. This was the one war commodity he needed most.

Neglected Army Reserves

The avowed purpose of the manpower bills, now before Congress, is to train more reserves for a possible emergency. Yet the Army has been so busy lobbying for peacetime conscription, it has completely neglected the reserve program supposed to keep this manpower active after training is completed.

In fact, the Reserve Officers Association recently was forced to send its own representative before the House Appropriations Committee to plead for a paltry handout. Meanwhile Secretaries Forrestal and Royall, beating the drums for billions to build up the armed services, blandly admitted that their chief aim was to stockpile manpower which would go into the reserves.

Col. C. M. Boyer (inactive) pleaded the case for the reserve officers the other day behind closed doors.

"We feel," he told a House Appropriations Subcommittee, "that inasmuch as the Department of Defense has stated that the reserves are needed in the national security picture, then the Department of Defense should request sufficient funds and not make it necessary for us to appear."

The defense chiefs, however, had recommended only $80 million for both Army and Air Force reserves, while Col. Boyer testified they needed at least $303 million. With such funds and proper support, the National Guard and reserves could also train new recruits and do it cheaper than the regular services, thus making the draft unnecessary.

Citizens Army Won Past Wars

"To us it is ridiculous," Col. Boyer told Congress, "to ask $2 million to produce the manpower that is needed to build the reserve forces, then ask only $80 million for the reserve program itself.

"This country was founded and has maintained its existence on the theory that the security of the country must be based on a small regular force and a large citizens' army," he continued. "In every war in which this country has participated, the citizen soldier has predominated . . . Approximately 90 per cent of the fighting and dying is done by the citizen soldier."

Three years after the shooting war ended, Boyer reported, no "realistic program" has been developed for the reserves. As a result the reservists are losing interest and dropping out.

"That is absolutely right," broke in Chairman Albert Engel, Michigan Republican. "I accepted a reserve commission in 1919, and didn't hear anything from the Army. I can say from my own experience that inactivity causes you to lose interest."

Note — Congressman Errett Scrivner, Kansas Republican, who was not feeling well, stretched out on a couch throughout the closed hearing.

"Don't you want to come up to the table?" asked Chairman Engel.

"No," Scrivner replied, "I'll take this lying down."

Merry-Go-Round

Democratic Chairman Howard McGrath will only accompany President Truman as far as Chicago on the forthcoming Western campaign trip. Clark Clifford, Charlie Ross and Matt Connelly will take the entire tour. . .The special Presidential shortwave-radio baggage car built by the Army during the war is being made ready for the Western tour. . .Kate Smith has been made an honorary Army nurse by Surgeon General Raymond Bliss. After the ceremony General Bliss addressed Kate as "Colonel Smith.". . .Gael Sullivan, able retiring executive director of Democratic National Committee, is being approached to spearhead the Eisenhower for President drive, has made no commitment. Jim Rowe, former administrative aid to President Roosevelt, is being boomed for Sullivan's old post. . .Mrs. Roosevelt still tells friends she can't support President Truman for re-election.

SAN FRANCISCO

FOR HAROLD STASSEN the question has now become whether the Republican nomination can be secured, not for himself, but for Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg or some other Republican who is not a bitter Stassen enemy. For Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the question now is whether his re-started bandwagon can gain enough momentum to break through a Philadelphia deadlock and carry him to nomination.

Oregon, following hard upon Ohio, has in fact neatly reversed the allocation of roles in the Republican political drama which seemed to have been made in Wisconsin and Nebraska. For a few weeks, Dewey and Senator Robert A. Taft were gathering their strength to stop Stassen. Now it is Stassen who must, and unquestionably will, prepare to use all his resources in order to stop Dewey. For the Republican front-runner is now Dewey. And Stassen already knows that one of Dewey's dearest pleasures and first endeavors will be to chase him from the national scene.

By dramatically reversing a sharply unfavorable situation, Dewey has scored an undoubted personal success of the first order. The effects of Wisconsin and Nebraska are now virtually wiped out. Dewey's political managers can assert that Dewey failed in Wisconsin and Nebraska because he was too busy for an intensive personal campaign comparable to Stassen's. They can say, and beyond doubt are now saying, that Oregon has shown Dewey's real stuff, when he rolls up his sleeves and goes after the vote. Because the Oregon electorate is a highly representative, middle of the road Republican electorate, the effect will be all the greater.

Dewey has, in short, won a very solid, very vital victory. Yet one cannot help recalling one observer's shrewd verdict on Ohio, that the real Ohio winner was neither Stassen nor Taft, but Vandenberg. Here again in Oregon, while Dewey has won, Vandenberg has won also. Significantly enough, this was bound to be true, whatever the outcome. This correspondent left Portland before the voting, but not before both the Dewey and the Stassen camps had begun to consider what they would do if defeated. In both camps, lining up behind Vandenberg was considered the obvious strategy.

For Stassen to try to promote the choice of Vandenberg and himself hope for second place on the ticket will be merely to revert to the tactics he had in mind before Wisconsin sent his hopes soaring. But there are other more complex factors to consider. Vandenberg is also on the whole preferred to any of the competing candidates by Taft and his backers of the Republican conservative wing. The Michigan delegation, together with a large number of Pennsylvania's valuable herd of political livestock, must already be considered as assets of the draft-Vandenberg planners. And one wonders whether Dewey himself, who would claw any other rival's eyes out to get the nomination, will make the kind of all out fight against Vandenberg that leaves deep scars behind.

There are several points here to consider. First, Dewey wants above all to be President, is still a young man, but cannot again make a bid for the White House from the New York governor mansion. Second, at least one faction of the draft-Vandenberg planner began thinking weeks ago of offering Dewey the Vice-Presidential spot, with the special task, for which he is well-fitted, of carrying out the reorganization of the Federal government on the basis of the recommendations of President Hoover's special commission. This would make the Vice-Presidency an extremely active job, rather than a mere empty honor.

Third, Vandenberg himself has let it be known he would serve only one term, which would open the way for Dewey again in 1952. And fourth, there were indications a few days ago that in the event of defeat in Oregon, Dewey himself was thinking favorably of second place on a Vandenberg ticket. Victory in Oregon may cause Dewey to forget the advantages he had begun to teach himself to see in such an arrangement.

Stassen's slugging fight for the nomination has made him the object of much personal enmity. Senator Vandenberg, if drafted, would want the maximum of party unity and is thus quite likely to prefer Dewey as a running mate. Any wager on the Philadelphia outcome is a long shot, but long shot gamblers might do worse than a parlay on a Vandenberg-Dewey ticket.

Only one thing remains to be said about the Oregon primary. The issue in the campaign, as publicly proclaimed by both Dewey and Stassen, was Stassen's proposal to suppress the Communist party. Stassen was defeated on that issue. The fact that this proposal was thus rejected does credit to the political decency, and above all the common sense, of the voters. It should also be taken as a warning by the kind of Republicans and reactionary Democrats who think there is political capital to be made by wallowing in cheap appeals to prejudice and vulgar political sensationalism. Being Parnell Thomas does not pay in the long run.

Stassen's Failure To Observe Rules Of Politics Hurts Him

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 24 — Supporters of former Governor Stassen of Minnesota are saying what the admirers of Governor Dewey said after the Wisconsin and Nebraska primaries — that one primary with its headlines doesn't make a nomination.

Actually, the contest in Oregon showed the voters of that state almost equally divided and to say now that Stassen has been "eliminated" just because he failed to pass Dewey in Oregon is reminiscent of the comments made not so long ago that the New York governor was "out of it" because he didn't show up well in Wisconsin or Nebraska.

The truth is that generally the primaries merely divide up the regular Republican vote and are by no means an indication of how the party would feel if the choice were always narrowed to two men. The significance of the Oregon primary is that, with only two candidates in the field, the prference was given to Dewey over Stassen. In Ohio, with two in the field, Stassen lost also. In Nebraska and Wisconsin the contest was among several Republican contenders who split the vote.

To win the nomination in either the Democratic or Republican party means a totally different kind of campaign than might be waged in the post-convention period. The pre-convention campaign takes in usually a substantial part of the persons who vote their own ticket regularly. It is to the regulars—and often this means the conservatives —that a nominating campaign has to be addressed.

Stassen Fails To Observe Rule

Failure to observe this rule is what is losing the nomination for Stassen. He has planned his strategy wholly on the publicity appeal of a young progressive who differs with the old-line party voters. But to get a nomination a candidate cannot overlook the fact that it is the regulars who go out to vote every time and that they take their Republicanism seriously.

The primaries do not cover a majority of the delegates chosen. Hence the same kind of appeal that has to be made in states where there are large numbers of regulars voting has to be made in the other states where delegates are chosen by the convention system.

Stassen's chief mistake was made in Ohio. Entering the state of a "favorite son" is not always in itself bad tactics but the kind of attack made on a "favorite son" is something else again. The regulars in Oregon and elsewhere read about the kind of campaign made by Stassen in Ohio. The error made in Ohio by Stassen was in handpicking the labor-union districts and attempting to make capital out of the known fact that Senator Taft was the author of the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Mr. Taft may not be the choice of certain Republicans but he stands out as a leader of his party and as having earned the right to the courtesies due a "favorite son" as well as protection from the hand-picked-district sort of attack which was waged against him by Stassen.

The former Minnesota governor is a young man with a future in politics. He is a good campaigner and will in due time make his place in the party. But he not only has hurt himself for first place this time but has aroused opposition for second place among regulars who dislike what he did in Ohio.

One may differ with these rules of politics but as long as the primaries do not select a majority of the delegates it is a condition and not a theory that confronts an aspirant to the nomination of his party. Curiously enough these rules obtain irrespective of party. They are the unwritten code of party politics which any veteran recognizes who has been through the mill of state as well as national conventions.

Meaning Of "Favorite Son"

Perhaps the "favorite son" rule was originally derived from a sense of fair play in the political game and perhaps it means just plain tact in corraling second-choice votes by abstaining from an attack on a candidate among his own people. The rule, however, has been observed by most men seeking a presidential nomination from the time Abraham Lincoln won his first Republican nomination in 1860.

At this moment it looks as if neither Dewey nor Stassen will make the grade and this hasn't anything to do with the Oregon primaries. It's because the Republicans at their national convention will have stronger reasons for supporting other candidates.

Dewey and Stassen through their primary victories and Taft through his support in other states besides Ohio are not going to go into the first balloting with any group of delegates even within striking distance of a majority.

While the Stassen votes could hold the balance of power, the Taft and Dewey votes together are more likely to select the nominee on the final ballot. There is really no understanding at the moment between them but the plain implications of the pre-convention campaign line up Dewey and Taft on one side as against Stassen. This is much more the result of antagonisms unnecessarily created during the primary campaign than any natural alignment due to public issues.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

What Is Communism?

I listened recently to some definitions of Communism which failed to include many characteristics of the Marxian philosophy. After all, more than 200,000,000 persons live under this way of life and we need to understand it. Definitions are most difficult when they are short, for the more we generalize, the less specific is the description. After all, Karl Marx wrote three enormous volumes, "Das Kapital," to explain a few phases of his program.

Yet, I venture to give here a fairly short definition which is not so generalized as to be out of focus nor so involved as to be difficult to understand. Here it is:

Communism is a social, political and economic creed, originally devised by Karl Marx, since amended by Lenin and Stalin and by actual practice, which holds that a single political party shall control not only the government but the means of production and distribution, the fixed and liquid capital, and with it the lives and activities of all the inhabitants in the interest of the State.

The oligarchy in control of that one party therefore controls the persons, minds, and actions of all under them, who virtually live in slavery. The objective of this system is its self-destruction at such a time as the oligarchs believe it is safe to eliminate all forms of force from human society.

This definition, however, fails to explain why this creed persists and why it has such a fanatical driving appeal for so many persons, particularly among intellectuals. To understand that it is necessary to move away from the economic and political sides of Communism, which are inevitable results of the "theology" of Marxism. And that "theology" is, like Christianity, based upon the primary question of how Man came into existence.

Judaism, Christianity and Islam accept the doctrine that Man is a special creation of God, differing from all else in nature by the possession of will and choice and the dignity of personality. Because of that, Man enjoys inalienable rights which are his at birth—as the grace of God. Out of this concept of Man, he evolved a series of ideals of living which run through the Old and New Testaments.

In Genesis, this concept of man is stated:

"So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them . . ."

This concept of Man has often been opposed by other ideas, particularly in recent years by the scientifically-minded, who regard man as a biologic creature, who, by chance, happened to turn out to be different from other creatures.

Once it is accepted that life is purposeless, that Man has no existence except as he is controlled by his enrivonment, then it is correct to assume that those who make and control the environment, establish the nature of Man. This concept eliminates all morals, substituting for them only the law of necessity—that is, that whatever is necessary is right. And who determines what is necessary?

Under any moral system, each individual decides that for himself, assuming responsibility for his personal choice and conduct. Under Communism, it is the oligarchs, operating a monopolistc political party, who decide what is, at a given moment, necessary, and changing their decisions as necessity dictates.

Lecomte du Nouy, in his magnificant study, makes this observation:

". . . The old-fashioned materialist who is honestly convinced that human life is without a cause and without a goal, that man is an irresponsible particle of matter engulfed in a maelstrom of purposeless forces, reminds us of the delightful remark made by a brilliant philosopher, Whitehead: '. . . Scientists who spend their life with the purpose of proving that it is purposeless constitute an interesting subject of study.'"

Once we accept the purely materialistic concept of Man, everything else fits into place. Slavery becomes acceptable if the oligarchs regard that as temporarily (how long in history is temporary?) necessary. Even the destruction of human beings becomes valid as the smashing of roaches in a kitchen because of necessity.

To understand Communism and its forces, it is wise to understand the struggle between God and the Devil, discussed so immortally in Job and in Goethe's "Faust."

After sixteen years of exile I don't think the Republican demands are too boysterous. All they want in the White House is an open shop.

And do you think those Democrats are going to give up with no more struggle than an oyster at a banquet? Brother, you're as wrong as a smooth file.

They have tasted blood and they want more transfusions. A job that lasts sixteen years is not to be taken as lightly as the milky footprints of a fly in a dairy.

The Democrats are going to fight it out to the last man. And they hope he is a Democrat.

Cafe Cavalcade

NEW YORK, May 24.—Of all the cafes, bars and bistros that flourished in Greenwich Village during the intellectual and artistic renaissance just prior to and during World War I—Gracie's Garret, The Black Cat, Rabbit Hutch, Pepper Pot, etc.—none was more colorful and none had a more far-reaching influence on its life and times than a tiny tearoom at 137 MacDougal St. known as Polly's, which was later to expand to another location and become world-famous as the Greenwich Village Inn. Polly's was operated as an adjunct to the Liberal Club, which had its quarters upstairs, and was frankly and aggressively political; only club members and friends sympathetic to their ideals found welcome there. It's owner was a woman from the midwest named Paula Halliday, known as Polly to her friends, who had a flair for tasty cooking and ideologies that were decidedly radical. Her partner in the enterprise was an Anarchist, Hyppolyte Havel, who officiated as waiter between giving dessertations on political theses. In the kitchen, serving in the humble capacity of dishwasher, was another character who was later to make political and cafe history—Barney Gallant, who shared a furnished room with Polly's brother, Louis Halliday, and a former sailor and aspiring playwright named Eugene O'Neill. It was O'Neill who usually paid the rent with the small allowance given him by his father, the famous actor, James O'Neill.

•—•—•

Polly's patrons included Emma Goldman, leader of the Anarchist cult in New York; Alexander Berkman, who had won international notoriety by attempting to shoot Henry Frick, the steel magnate who had crushed a steelworkers' strike in Pittsburgh; John Reed, the Harvard man who later defied the Russian Revolution in "Ten Days That Shook the World," and now lies buried in the Kremlin; Bill Haywood, the one-eyed I.W.W. (International Workers of the World) leader, and Art Young, who was tried in federal court during the World War I hysteria because his cartoons reflected the Socialistic anti-war sentiment. Also Lincoln Steffens, the American journalist who authored an expose on the "Shame of the American cities," Max Eastman, Upton Sinclair, Charles Edward Russell, Theodore Dreiser, Harry Kemp, Provincetown poet and author; and Floyd Dell, who used some of the Liberal Club members as models in his novel, "Love in Greenwich Village." In the group was the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, who scandalized the wealthy and respectable parishioners of St. Marks-in-the-Bouverie and brought denunciations from Bishop Manning a decade later for staging aesthetic dances as part of his church ritual.

•—•—•

In 1915 Polly Halliday acquired a new manager in George Baker, a destitute young college man whom she had picked up one nite from a snow-covered park bench in Washing Square. Baker proved a good business man and the pair soon expanded to a new location on Fourth St.—divergence of opinion over the war issue had by now pretty well destroyed the Liberal Club. Blessed by further prosperity, Polly and her partner took over a defunct Italian restaurant on Sheridan Square and named it the Greenwich Village Inn, which became the favorite hangout for the writers, artists and actors of the neighborhood. Baker meanwhile had bought out Polly's interest in the place and when he died in 1919 it was acquired from his estate at auction by a quartet of new partners—Harold Meltzer, son of the music critic, Charles Henry Meltzer, and a fellow art student, Jim Riley; Frank Conroy, the actor, and Polly's former dishwasher, Barney Gallant. At one time or another, the furnished rooms above the Inn were occupied by Arnold Daly, Theodore Dreiser and Willard Huntington Wright, then associated with H. L. Mencken and George Jean Nathan on the old Smart Set, later famous as S. S. Van Dyne, creator of deluxe detective stories (Philo Vance.) Also a young Princetonian, F. Scott Fitzgerald, who rose to fame in the post-war period by writing "This Side of Paradise," and Thorne Smith, creator of "Topper" who married the Inn's cashier.

•—•—•

The Inn's customers included Frank Harris, the author; Sinclair Lewis, who incurred the wrath of his former friends when he satirized them in "Hobohemia;" Jo Davidson, the sculptor; Edna St. Vincent Millay, the poet, and Cleon Throckmorton, scenic designer and co-founder of the Provincetown Players. Another customer was a radical named Leon Bornstein, then working on a Russian-language paper, the Novy Mir, for $15 a week. Because Bornstein was forever unfavorably comparing the Inn's food with what he could get at Trotsky's, a restaurant located in the Broadway Central Hotel, off Third St. (then the heart of the garment center) the hosts nicknamed him "Trotzky." Later, when Bornstein came to forge a passport to Russia—according to his memoirs—Trotzky was the first name that came to mind, and it was as Leon Trotzky that the world knows him as co-instigator of the Russian Revolution.

The Importance of "Stepping Down"
Here is the story of a new principle of design that has rocked the industry and given Hudson unique beauty not possible in any other type of car.
THE recessed floor in the new Hudson—now widely known as the "step-down" feature—is the talk of the automobile world. And rightly so! This interesting development is the key to a new kind of motor-car beauty never before obtainable.
People everywhere are attracted by Hudson's low, streamlined silhouette and free-flowing lines.
Only Hudson, because of its exclusive recessed floor that you step down onto, is able to offer streamlined, low-built beauty without asking you to give up interior head room.
Let's take a frank look at the motor-car designer's problem. Since streamlining an automobile reduces available head room for rear-seat passengers, to achieve a low silhouette and maintain adequate head room, both floor and seats must be lowered to compensate for the lowered roof. The recessed floor is a necessity.
But it is difficult to lower floors and seats, because in all cars, except Hudson, they are built on top of a frame. Only Hudson has a new, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame*, part of which is a rugged base structure that permits lowering floors and seats down within the frame. The sketches below illustrate this design problem and show how Hudson's recessed floor provides a low, streamlined silhouette, yet preserves head room.

OTHER CARS
The car above cannot be streamlined because the need for head room above the rear seat (which is built on top of a frame) makes it impossible to lower the roof.

OTHER CARS
Of course, it is possible to adopt free-flowing lines without recessing the floor, as sketched in the car above, but over-all height must be raised, and this destroys the possibility of a low silhouette, which is the mark of the modern motor car.

NEW HUDSON
Here is the long, low, gracefully streamlined Hudson—only five feet from ground to top. You can see how the streamlined roof comes down sharply over the rear-seat portion of the car, as compared to the other types of roof lines shown in sketches to the left. But Hudson floors are recessed down within the frame, seats are lowered, so you get more than ample head room.
The "step-down" principle requires years of engineering work, the development of new production techniques and equipment, and millions of dollars of highly specialized new plant investment. Perhaps this explains why Hudson alone offers this vital new design principle today.
You'll probably expect the motor car that is the talk of the nation to offer you even more than beauty and comfort. And it does! Your nearby Hudson dealer will show you The Importance of "Stepping Down"—also its results in riding and driving ease, performance and safety. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit 14.

At one time or another, the furnished rooms above the Inn were occupied by Arnold Daly, Theodore Dreiser and Willard Huntington Wright, then associated with H. L. Mencken and George Jean Nathan on the old Smart Set, later famous as S. S. Van Dyne, creator of deluxe detective stories (Philo Vance.) Also a young Princetonian, F. Scott Fitzgerald, who rose to fame in the post-war period by writing "This Side of Paradise," and Thorne Smith, creator of "Topper" who married the Inn's cashier.

The Inn's customers included Frank Harris, the author; Sinclair Lewis, who incurred the wrath of his former friends when he satirized them in "Hobohemia;" Jo Davidson, the sculptor; Edna St. Vincent Millay, the poet, and Cleon Throckmorton, scenic designer and co-founder of the Provincetown Players. Another customer was a radical named Leon Bornstein, then working on a Russian-language paper, the Novy Mir, for $15 a week. Because Bornstein was forever unfavorably comparing the Inn's food with what he could get at Trotsky's, a restaurant located in the Broadway Central Hotel, off Third St. (then the heart of the garment center) the hosts nicknamed him "Trotzky." Later, when Bornstein came to forge a passport to Russia—according to his memoirs—Trotzky was the first name that came to mind, and it was as Leon Trotzky that the world knows him as co-instigator of the Russian Revolution.

The Importance of "Stepping Down"
Here is the story of a new principle of design that has rocked the industry and given Hudson unique beauty not possible in any other type of car.
THE recessed floor in the new Hudson—now widely known as the "step-down" feature—is the talk of the automobile world. And rightly so! This interesting development is the key to a new kind of motor-car beauty never before obtainable.
People everywhere are attracted by Hudson's low, streamlined silhouette and free-flowing lines.
Only Hudson, because of its exclusive recessed floor that you step down onto, is able to offer streamlined, low-built beauty without asking you to give up interior head room.
Let's take a frank look at the motor-car designer's problem. Since streamlining an automobile reduces available head room for rear-seat passengers, to achieve a low silhouette and maintain adequate head room, both floor and seats must be lowered to compensate for the lowered roof. The recessed floor is a necessity.
But it is difficult to lower floors and seats, because in all cars, except Hudson, they are built on top of a frame. Only Hudson has a new, all steel Monobilt body-and-frame*, part of which is a rugged base structure that permits lowering floors and seats down within the frame. The sketches below illustrate this design problem and show how Hudson's recessed floor provides a low, streamlined silhouette, yet preserves head room.

OTHER CARS
The car above cannot be streamlined because the need for head room above the rear seat (which is built on top of a frame) makes it impossible to lower the roof.

OTHER CARS
Of course, it is possible to adopt free-flowing lines without recessing the floor, as sketched in the car above, but over-all height must be raised, and this destroys the possibility of a low silhouette, which is the mark of the modern motor car.

NEW HUDSON
Here is the long, low, gracefully streamlined Hudson—only five feet from ground to top. You can see how the streamlined roof comes down sharply over the rear-seat portion of the car, as compared to the other types of roof lines shown in sketches to the left. But Hudson floors are recessed down within the frame, seats are lowered, so you get more than ample head room.
The "step-down" principle requires years of engineering work, the development of new production techniques and equipment, and millions of dollars of highly specialized new plant investment. Perhaps this explains why Hudson alone offers this vital new design principle today.
You'll probably expect the motor car that is the talk of the nation to offer you even more than beauty and comfort. And it does! Your nearby Hudson dealer will show you The Importance of "Stepping Down"—also its results in riding and driving ease, performance and safety. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit 14.

The closing meeting for the year of B'er Chayim Sisterhood is to take place tomorrow, beginning with a luncheon at 1 o'clock, in the vestry rooms.

Mrs. Irving Millenson will preside and give the president's report. Each member of her staff will give her report and routine business is to be transacted.

Mrs. William Wiseman is chairman of the committee of arrangements. Members of the assisting committee are Mrs. Max Spear, Mrs. David Siegel, Mrs. Morten Peskin, Mrs. Charles Speak, Mrs. Mark Lazarus, Mrs. Harry Kamens, Mrs. Samuel Sheffler and Mrs. Frank Kaplon.

For the benefit of the Sisterhood's philanthropic work a rummage sale will be held Thursday and Friday in the vestry room, with Mrs. Harry Beneman chairman. Thursday the sale will be held at 7 p. m., and Friday at 9 a. m. Mrs. Beneman's committee includes Mrs. Norman Goldblatt, Mrs. Samuel Jacobson, Mrs. Lazarus, Mrs. Nat Guggenheimer, Mrs. Ben Kamens, Mrs. Milton Bernstein and Mrs. Harry Kamens.

Ursuline Juniors To Give Play May 25-26

A three-act comedy, "While Wifey's Away," will be presented by the Junior Class of Ursuline Academy tonight and tomorrow night at SS. Peter and Paul Hall. Several LaSalle students will assist.

A different cast will present the play each evening. Leading characters will be portrayed by Helen Mullaney, Richard Strong, Helen Carol Gilmore and Francis Ford.

Other members of the casts are Mary McMullen, Dorothy Kelly, Evelyn Hammersmith, Christine Joyce, Delores Gillard, Ann Russell, Norma Lee Van Ausdale, Jeanette Fisher, Rita Helmstetter, Anna Madden, Gladys Miltenberger, Joanne Morehead, Maxine Barncord, Patricia Kirk, Jean Leydig, Alice Greise, Mary Puderbaugh and Mildred Ruppenkamp.

Homemakers Will Plan June 3 Vespers

Final plans for the fifth Recreational-Musical Vespers will be formulated at the meeting of all Homemakers Club Music and Recreation chairmen, who will meet with Mrs. Robert W. Young, county Cultural chairman, and Mrs. Gilbert M. Miller, county Recreation-Nature chairman.

The meeting is to be held at 10:30 tomorrow morning in Miss Maude A. Bean's office in the court house.

The Recreational-Musical Vespers is to be held in Constitution Park on June 3 from 3 until 9 o'clock. It will be under the sponsorship of the Rural Women's Short Course.

A program of recreation will be planned for the afternoon, and will include activities for the entire family. After the basket supper the Musical Vespers will be held in the amphitheater. The executive committee, composed of Mrs. John S. Cook, Mrs. Arthur Happe, Mrs. Arthur Phillips and Mrs. Raymond J. Minke will be assisted with the program by Mrs. Claude T. Jett, Mrs. Joseph J. Coleman and Mrs. Irene MacDonald.

Advice To The Lovelorn

12-Year-Old Falls "Deeply In Love" With Married Man Of 28

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 12 years old, but very developed for my age. I have fallen deeply in love with a man of 28 who is married and has one child, and he has returned my love in a very definite manner.

I know I am doing wrong, for I have seen his child and she is very cute, and his wife seems to be a very nice lady. He tells his wife he works late, and as my mother works at night, she doesn't know I meet him. He says he fights with his wife all the time, and that I am the only one he really loves.

I really am not a bad girl. I have tried, but I can't help loving such a nice guy. Of course he doesn't know my real age. I have told him I am almost 17.

Should I stop seeing him, or should I not worry about anything and just have fun?

"VERY WORRIED"

Dear "Very Worried":

This is not a situation in which to "have fun," but one about which you should tell your mother at once. If you are as mature for your age as you think, you must know that it is not only wrong for you to meet this man as you are doing, but very wrong indeed for him to let you do it. No "nice guy" would take advantage of your circumstances in being alone at night while your mother is away from home.

I am not blaming you for this unfortunate business, as it is understandable that you are lonely in the absence of your mother and feel safer and happier with an older person around. But the state of affairs you describe is something that should be stopped immediately, and even though you are afraid your mother will be angry, you still should confide in her and let her handle the matter. If you don't, I am very much afraid the day will come when you will wish you had.

My Pet Peeve
(Maybe It's Yours, Too!)
Says YES MAN

Chet Coughenour

I guess every one of us has a secret gripe. Something or somebody we can very well do without. My pet peeve is a rude clerk or sales person who thinks you've got to do business with his company and treats you like a poor relative.

Maybe I'm over-sensitive . . . maybe people really don't object to this treatment. But my staff and I have always believed that the customer is doing us a pretty big favor when he enters our office—and, at Personal Finance Co., we're not shy about letting him know how grateful we are that he's chosen us.

And my staff is especially good at showing appreciation because from the day they join PERSONAL, they are trained to treat the customer as they themselves, would like to be treated.

Cumberland folks who want a loan must like the courtesy and friendliness they find at PERSONAL FINANCE CO., because so many of them have recommended us to their friends. Which proves to me, that we've been successful in doing what we set out to do; provide Cumberland folks with a friendly loan service in which honesty and the ability to make monthly payments are the chief requirements to getting a loan.

We never recommend needless borrowing. BUT if you can use $25 to $750 for a worth-while purpose—consolidating bills, repairing your home, paying medical bills—and you want to get the cash in the way that suits you best—on salary, furniture, or car I'd appreciate the chance to say "yes" to YOU . . . just as I do to 4 out of every 5 who apply for a loan here.

Just phone 721 . . . or, if you're in the neighborhood, come in and ask for me—Chet Coughenour. PERSONAL FINANCE CO., is located on the 2nd floor of the Liberty Trust Building. Open Monday thru Friday, 9 until 5. Closed Saturdays. Evenings by appointment.

Allegany And Fort Hill High Tossers Will Clash Today

Hogan, Turnesa To Clash Today For PGA Title

Demaret And Harmon Lose In Semi-Finals

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

ST. LOUIS, May 24. (AP)—Little Ben Hogan handed his fellow former Texan Jimmy Demaret, a 2 and 1 setback for a birthday present and Mike Turnesa upset his favored neighbor, Claude Harmon, in a 37-hole tussle today in semi-final matches of the Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Turnesa, whose White Plains, N. Y., club is about three miles from Harmon's at Mamaroneck, N. Y., rallied to catch big Claude on the 35th and then beat him with a birdie three on the the extra hole. It was Harmon's second overtime struggle in successive matches, as he had to go 42 holes to beat Sam Snead Sunday.

In the tussle of Texans, Hogan staved off Demaret's late rally that twice squared the match, and finally won out by taking the 33rd and 34th holes in succession and halving the 35th. Hogan and Demaret both hail from Texas originally, although Bantam Ben now registers from Hershey, Pa., and Big Jimmy from Ojai, Calif.

Play 36 Holes Today

Tomorrow's 36-hole clash will be the second PGA final for Hogan, who won the title two years ago, and the first for Turnesa although each has competed in six championship tournaments.

Today was Demaret's 45th birthday but his only chance to celebrate came when he rallied on the second 18 to square the match twice after being 3-down at the end of the morning round. It was the second time Hogan and Demaret, who frequently team together in four-ball matches, had met in the PGA finals. Two years ago Hogan won 10 and 9.

Turnesa, who will be 40 years old next month, staged a more successful pursuit. Never more than one hole down until he blew himself to a six on the 28th, Mike played steady golf for his victory after Harmon began pressing and lost his touch toward the end.

On the extra hole Mike came through with a smartly-played birdie three, using a fine faded pitch and run shot to the green and then sinking a 15 foot putt. Harmon tried the same approach but hooked a little and his ball kicked off to the left of the green. After chipping up, he failed to hole a putt slightly longer than Turnesa's.

Lost To Nelson In 1945

In his previous PGA appearances, Mike never had gone beyond the third round, losing to Byron Nelson at that stage in 1945.

REACH FINALS — Ben Hogan, above, and Mike Turnesa, will battle it out today at St. Louis in the 36-hole finals for the Professional Golf Association championship. Hogan, who is pro at Hershey, Pa., defeated Jimmy Demaret, 2 and 1, while Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., eliminated Claude Harmon, in a 37 hole match yesterday.

A two-run rally in the 7th and final inning enabled Lacy's Delicatets to come from behind and defeat Joe's Crusaders by the score of 5-4 in a City Softball League contest yesterday at Community Park.

It was the 7th consecutive victory of the season for the league's 1947 champions. Eddie Decker relieved Hill in the 7th inning after the Delicatets had scored the tying and winning markers.

The Amvets made it seven wins in eight starts by handing Mower's Bakers their eighth straight setback at Campobello by the score of 6-2. "Doc" Summers led the Amvets' attack with a double and single while Nield duplicated for the Bakers.

Doubles by "Bub" Porter and Ronnie Armbruster in the last of the 7th enabled Manager John Mangus' Reed's Electricians to nose out Astor Cab at East Side Field by the score of 11-10.

The teams gathered 26 hits in this free-scoring affair, Gaffney and Underdonk pacing the Cabbies with three each while Porter and Armbruster did likewise for Reed's. Basilio at third and Armbruster at first featured afield for the Electricians.

North End Social and Athletic Club moved into fifth place by defeating Ballard's Cleaners at Sitcher Field, 3-2. On Sunday at Campobello, North End defeated Ballard's to the tune of 10-3.

In yesterday's game B. Fisher of North End and Starkey of the Cleaners had two hits each. Pete Deremer, North End shortstop, turned in two sensational fielding plays. The scores:

Delannoit Offered Bout With Robinson

NEW YORK, May 24. (INS)—Sol Strauss, acting director of the 20th Century Sporting Club, today offered Cyrille Delannoit, new European middleweight champion, a 15-round, non-title bout with welterweight king Ray Robinson.

Tentative arrangements call for the fight to be staged at Madison Square Garden on July 15 or thereabouts.

Strauss' offer was cabled to Fernand Premont, manager of Delannoit who last night won a disputed 15-round title fight from Marcel Cerdan in Brussells.

George Gainford, Robinson's manager, agreed to terms today.

Cyclist's Condition Is "Very Critical"

BALTIMORE, May 24 (AP) — George E. Boschet, 24 - year - old motorcyclist injured in a race near Glen Burnie, was placed in an oxygen tent today and hospital authorities said his condition was "very critical."

The Silver Spring, Md., cyclist was brought here yesterday after cracking up on an Anne Arundel County dirt track during competition.

Eyewitnesses estimated he was traveling 50 miles an hour when his motorcycle left the track and crashed.

Physicians at south Baltimore General Hospital said Boschet had suffered severe injuries to the head and spine.

Hal Newhouser Pitches Tigers To 5-2 Triumph

Notches Win No. 3, Mullin Hits Homer

DETROIT, May 24 (AP)—Pitching his way past a shaky start, Hal Newhouser settled down with shutout hurling through the last eight innings today as the Detroit Tigers whipped the Washington Senators 5 to 2.

Three successive hits in the opening inning, singles by Al Kozar and Mickey Vernon and a triple by Gil Coan, sent the Senators off flying with a 2-0 lead, but Newhouser applied the brakes right there.

Hal yielded only four hits the rest of the way, retiring 17 of the last 18 men to face him, as he took his third victory of the year.

Passes proved costly to Early Wynn, the Washington starter, who lasted only 2⅓ innings and was charged with the defeat.

Neil Berry's single and walks to Pat Mullin and Vic Wertz loaded the bases in the first inning and first baseman Paulie Campbell cleaned them with a ringing triple to right center. Mullin's fifth home run of the season in the third, with nobody on base, helped chase Wynn and the Tigers got their final run off Forrest Thompson, fourth Washington pitcher, in the eighth. Thompson loaded the bases with three passes and Wertz's long fly scored Berry from third.

Newhouser struck out six men and walked two as he took his second straight victory with seven-hit pitching.

Only 6,641 fans saw the Tigers take their fifth decision in seven games of the current home stand. By losing, Washington dropped into a sixth place tie with the idle Boston Red Sox. Box:

Rockets Appoint McLean As Coach

"Scooter" To Tutor Chicago Backfield

CHICAGO, May 24 (INS)—Ray "Scooter" McLean, a veteran of eight seasons at halfback for the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, signed today to become backfield coach for the "new" Chicago Rockets of the All-America Football Conference.

McLean, who was "Little All-American" at St. Anselm's, retired from active football at the end of last season and took a post as coach at Lewis College, near Chicago. He will split his time this fall between that job and the Rockets.

The 33 - year - old placekicking specialist, who booted 44 extra points in 50 tries for the Bears last year, joins line coach Bob Maddock and end coach Bernie Witucki under the Rockets' new head coach, Ed McKeever.

Baltimore Orioles Sign College Star

AUSTIN, Tex., May 24 (AP) — Sidney (Chick) Zomlefer, 21, All-Southwest Conference shortstop for the University of Texas, today said he has signed a $4,000 professional baseball contract with the Baltimore Orioles.

The Orioles of the International League are a farm club of the Cleveland Indians, American League.

Zomlefer was All - Conference three consecutive years.

He said he was given the choice of playing the remainder of this season with Baltimore or the Oklahoma City Indians, Texas League, and will join Oklahoma City June 4.

Washington College To Play Lacrosse

CHESTERTOWN, Md., May 24 (AP)—Tiny Washington College, with a male enrollment of 310, will be competing in lacrosse again next season, after a lapse of 14 years.

Director of Athletics George Ekaitis announced today the eastern shore school's athletics council had voted to put the Indian game back on its spring schedule.

Dr. Charles B. Clark, who played the sport here and at Duke in the mid-1930's, has been named to coach the Sho'men.

Starkey And Goss Defeated In Olympic Team Ring Tests

"Skeets" Wins Opener Then Loses On TKO

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 24 — Amateur boxers of Cumberland, Md., were eliminated from the United States Olympic Regional District No. 3 boxing trials tonight in bouts at the Arena.

Randall "Skeets" Starkey of the Amvets A. C., Cumberland, fighting in the 147 pound class, won his first round match by decisioning Eugene Landis, Philadelphia negro, in three fast rounds.

Starkey, however, was eliminated in the second round of the tourney when he lost by a technical knockout in his match with Leon Douty, colored southpaw fighter of Philadelphia. The Marylander was stopped in 1:37 of the third round after being floored at the bell in the two previous rounds. After the third knockdown the match was stopped and Douty declared the winner.

In another 147-pound contest, William Johnson of Baltimore, decisioned Bob Nesbitt of the United States Navy.

The Starkey-Douty match was the 18th on tonight's card. Seven welterweights were entered in the tourney.

Bobby Goss, Cumberland flyweight, was decisioned by Eugene Smith, negro of Washington, D. C., in a first round match in the 112-pound division. Six flyweights were entered in this class. Smith recently went to the finals in the National A.A.U. tournament.

Frankie Sodano, National AAU flyweight champion, defeated John Dickinson in an opening round match.

Approximately 3,000 persons witnessed tonight's program which was sponsored by the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities. Finals are scheduled for Tuesday night.

Final Olympic trials will be held in Boston, June 28 and 29.

Race Commission Suspends Trainer

West Virginia Track Has Stimulation Case

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., May 24 (AP) — An 11-year-old gelding's surprise show of speed provided the second winner in Charles Town racetrack's daily double today — which meant $1,662.80 apiece to seven $2 investors.

The gelding, named Buss, won the second race and paid $97.20 to win, $27.20 to place, and $10.20 to show.

Jockey Eddie Anyon aboard Mrs. R. M. Ferrara's Betel won the first race, but the jockey of the day—for those who played the daily double—was Kenny Foster, who booted Buss home by a length.

A number of other things happened at Charles Town today:

1. The West Virginia Racing Commission announced they had found evidence of stimulation of the horse First Party, winner of the eighth race on May 19.

The trainer, L. Colon Rodriguez, and all horses conditioned by him were ordered suspended for six months.

2. The feature race was won by J. N. Barnes' Miss Prime.

3. An unidentified man dropped dead at the track, just before the third race.

County, Rocking Chair Loop Teams Play Today

Five games are on tap in the County Softball League while four contests are scheduled in the Rocking Chair Softball League today.

County League games are: Potomac Valley at Wellersburg, Narrows Park at Bedford Road, Allegany Grove at Hyndman, Ellerslie at C. & P. Telephone (Taylor Field) and Corner Merchants at Corriganville.

In the Rocking Chair loop Celanese plays K. of C. at the Rolling Mill diamond, Outdoor Club battles Moose at Fort Hill, and Eagles tangle with Potomac Edison at East Side and the Amvets oppose the B. P. O. Elks at Campobello.

HUGH CASEY INJURED IN FALL ON STAIRS, OUT FOR SIXTY DAYS

BROOKLYN, May 24 (AP)—The hapless Brooklyn Dodgers, now in the National League's cellar, suffered a mighty blow today when relief hurler Hugh Casey was placed on the disabled list. This means the veteran fireman, who was a strong factor in Brooklyn's pennant victory last season, will be lost to the team for 60 days.

Casey slipped on the stairs in his apartment over his Brooklyn tavern yesterday morning and fell heavily on his right side. X-ray pictures taken at the hospital showed no break but the round right - hander was taped up heavily and sent home.

Dodger officials said Casey spent a "bad night" and reported great pain in his back this morning.

Fort Hill Trims Keyser High, 12-2

Victors Get 18 Hits, Hoggard Is Winner

Fort Hill High School larruped the pellet for 16 hits and a total of 20 bases yesterday and trounced Keyser High School at Fort Hill Field by the score of 12-2.

The Sentinels two Jimmies—Eckard and Manges—led the assault with three hits each, one of Manges' blows being a two-bagger.

Hoggard, Fort Hill pitcher, let Keyser down with four hits, two of which were credited to Vandiver, and struck out six batsmen. Box:

BEAU JACK SCORES OVER TONY JANIRO

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — Beau Jack, displaying form that once made him the top man of lightweight boxers, tonight slammed out a unanimous ten-round decision over Tony Janiro of Youngstown, Ohio.

Jack was clearly the aggressor. He started from the beginning, boring in and throwing punches from every angle.

There were no knockdowns. The two men did slip, however, continually because of the wet, slick canvas.

Jack weighed 140½; Janiro, 147.

The ten rounds were fought in a downpour before about 8,500 spectators.

Deer Damaging Trees At Hancock Orchard

HANCOCK, Md., May 24. (AP)—Orchard owner Samuel Dillon, Jr., said today he has complained to the State Game and Inland Fish Commission about deer.

The deer, he said, are eating the young shoots of his apple trees.

Damage extends to 1,000 trees, Dillon declared. He said on one occasion he counted 17 deer in his orchard at the same time.

Brooklyn Snaps Losing Streak, Beats Reds, 9-4

Dodgers Leave Cellar As Roe Marks Up Win

NEW YORK, May 24 (INS) — A seven-run rally in the fourth inning enabled the Brooklyn Dodgers to defeat Cincinnati 9 to 4 today and snap their eight-game losing streak. The Dodgers also took seventh place away from the Reds.

Bruce Edwards knocked in the first two runs of the first rally with a double, but Eddie Miksis was the real hero of the uprising. After cleaning the bases with a double and going to third on the throw to the plate, he stole home with the final run of the inning.

Miksis also singled in the first inning and scored on a double by Jackie Robinson.

Billy Cox homered for Brooklyn in the sixth with the bases empty. Jackie Robinson also hit one in the seventh.

Preacher Roe went the route for the winners. Box:

Manges' Batting Average Of .556 Tops Conference

Clingan's Record 7-0; Pat Creegan Fans 78

Jimmie Manges, Fort Hill High School's shortstop, is showing the way to the hitters of the Bi-State Conference with an average of .556 as the 1948 campaign nears a close.

Manges, who is also outstanding as a football and basketball player, has connected for 15 hits in 27 trips to the plate in the eight games in which he has played to date.

Emerick of Hyndman is the runner-up with an average of .500 for 28 trips to the plate. Dawson, Central outfielder, is third with a mark of .458.

Glen Burke of Fort Hill and Ed Shaffer of Hyndman have won three games and lost one each.

Pat "Lefty" Creegan of LaSalle is the league's strikeout king with 78 victims in seven games. Clingan is second with 61.

Demaret And Harmon Lose In Semi-Finals

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

ST. LOUIS, May 24. (AP)—Little Ben Hogan handed his fellow former Texan Jimmy Demaret, a 2 and 1 setback for a birthday present and Mike Turnesa upset his favored neighbor, Claude Harmon, in a 37-hole tussle today in semi-final matches of the Professional Golfers' Association championship.

Turnesa, whose White Plains, N. Y., club is about three miles from Harmon's at Mamaroneck, N. Y., rallied to catch big Claude on the 35th and then beat him with a birdie three on the the extra hole. It was Harmon's second overtime struggle in successive matches, as he had to go 42 holes to beat Sam Snead Sunday.

In the tussle of Texans, Hogan staved off Demaret's late rally that twice squared the match, and finally won out by taking the 33rd and 34th holes in succession and halving the 35th. Hogan and Demaret both hail from Texas originally, although Bantam Ben now registers from Hershey, Pa., and Big Jimmy from Ojai, Calif.

Play 36 Holes Today

Tomorrow's 36-hole clash will be the second PGA final for Hogan, who won the title two years ago, and the first for Turnesa although each has competed in six championship tournaments.

Today was Demaret's 45th birthday but his only chance to celebrate came when he rallied on the second 18 to square the match twice after being 3-down at the end of the morning round. It was the second time Hogan and Demaret, who frequently team together in four-ball matches, had met in the PGA finals. Two years ago Hogan won 10 and 9.

Turnesa, who will be 40 years old next month, staged a more successful pursuit. Never more than one hole down until he blew himself to a six on the 28th, Mike played steady golf for his victory after Harmon began pressing and lost his touch toward the end.

On the extra hole Mike came through with a smartly-played birdie three, using a fine faded pitch and run shot to the green and then sinking a 15 foot putt. Harmon tried the same approach but hooked a little and his ball kicked off to the left of the green. After chipping up, he failed to hole a putt slightly longer than Turnesa's.

Lost To Nelson In 1945

In his previous PGA appearances, Mike never had gone beyond the third round, losing to Byron Nelson at that stage in 1945.

REACH FINALS — Ben Hogan, above, and Mike Turnesa, will battle it out today at St. Louis in the 36-hole finals for the Professional Golf Association championship. Hogan, who is pro at Hershey, Pa., defeated Jimmy Demaret, 2 and 1, while Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y., eliminated Claude Harmon, in a 37 hole match yesterday.

A two-run rally in the 7th and final inning enabled Lacy's Delicatets to come from behind and defeat Joe's Crusaders by the score of 5-4 in a City Softball League contest yesterday at Community Park.

It was the 7th consecutive victory of the season for the league's 1947 champions. Eddie Decker relieved Hill in the 7th inning after the Delicatets had scored the tying and winning markers.

The Amvets made it seven wins in eight starts by handing Mower's Bakers their eighth straight setback at Campobello by the score of 6-2. "Doc" Summers led the Amvets' attack with a double and single while Nield duplicated for the Bakers.

Doubles by "Bub" Porter and Ronnie Armbruster in the last of the 7th enabled Manager John Mangus' Reed's Electricians to nose out Astor Cab at East Side Field by the score of 11-10.

The teams gathered 26 hits in this free-scoring affair, Gaffney and Underdonk pacing the Cabbies with three each while Porter and Armbruster did likewise for Reed's. Basilio at third and Armbruster at first featured afield for the Electricians.

North End Social and Athletic Club moved into fifth place by defeating Ballard's Cleaners at Stitcher Field, 3-2. On Sunday at Campobello, North End defeated Ballard's to the tune of 10-3.

In yesterday's game B. Fisher of North End and Starkey of the Cleaners had two hits each. Pete Deremer, North End shortstop, turned in two sensational fielding plays. The scores:

Delannoit Offered Bout With Robinson

NEW YORK, May 24. (INS)—Sol Strauss, acting director of the 20th Century Sporting Club, today offered Cyrille Delannoit, new European middleweight champion, a 15-round, non-title bout with welterweight king Ray Robinson.

Tentative arrangements call for the fight to be staged at Madison Square Garden on July 15 or thereabouts.

Strauss' offer was cabled to Fernand Premont, manager of Delannoit who last night won a disputed 15-round title fight from Marcel Cerdan in Brussells.

George Gainford, Robinson's manager, agreed to terms today.

Cyclist's Condition Is "Very Critical"

BALTIMORE, May 24 (AP) — George E. Boschet, 24 - year - old motorcyclist injured in a race near Glen Burnie, was placed in an oxygen tent today and hospital authorities said his condition was "very critical."

The Silver Spring, Md., cyclist was brought here yesterday after cracking up on an Anne Arundel County dirt track during competition.

Eyewitnesses estimated he was traveling 50 miles an hour when his motorcycle left the track and crashed.

Physicians at south Baltimore General Hospital said Boschet had suffered severe injuries to the head and spine.

Notches Win No. 3, Mullin Hits Homer

DETROIT, May 24 (AP)—Pitching his way past a shaky start, Hal Newhouser settled down with shutout hurling through the last eight innings today as the Detroit Tigers whipped the Washington Senators 5 to 2.

Three successive hits in the opening inning, singles by Al Kozar and Mickey Vernon and a triple by Gil Coan, sent the Senators off flying with a 2-0 lead, but Newhouser applied the brakes right there.

Hal yielded only four hits the rest of the way, retiring 17 of the last 18 men to face him, as he took his third victory of the year.

Passes proved costly to Early Wynn, the Washington starter, who lasted only 2⅓ innings and was charged with the defeat.

Neil Berry's single and walks to Pat Mullin and Vic Wertz loaded the bases in the first inning and first baseman Paulie Campbell cleaned them with a ringing triple to right center. Mullin's fifth home run of the season in the third, with nobody on base, helped chase Wynn and the Tigers got their final run off Forrest Thompson, fourth Washington pitcher, in the eighth. Thompson loaded the bases with three passes and Wertz's long fly scored Berry from third.

Newhouser struck out six men and walked two as he took his second straight victory with seven-hit pitching.

Only 6,641 fans saw the Tigers take their fifth decision in seven games of the current home stand. By losing, Washington dropped into a sixth place tie with the idle Boston Red Sox. Box:

Rockets Appoint McLean As Coach

"Scooter" To Tutor Chicago Backfield

CHICAGO, May 24 (INS)—Ray "Scooter" McLean, a veteran of eight seasons at halfback for the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, signed today to become backfield coach for the "new" Chicago Rockets of the All-America Football Conference.

McLean, who was "Little All-American" at St. Anselm's, retired from active football at the end of last season and took a post as coach at Lewis College, near Chicago. He will split his time this fall between that job and the Rockets.

The 33 - year - old placekicking specialist, who booted 44 extra points in 50 tries for the Bears last year, joins line coach Bob Maddock and end coach Bernie Witucki under the Rockets' new head coach, Ed McKeever.

Baltimore Orioles Sign College Star

AUSTIN, Tex., May 24 (AP) — Sidney (Chick) Zomlefer, 21, All-Southwest Conference shortstop for the University of Texas, today said he has signed a $4,000 professional baseball contract with the Baltimore Orioles.

The Orioles of the International League are a farm club of the Cleveland Indians, American League.

Zomlefer was All - Conference three consecutive years.

He said he was given the choice of playing the remainder of this season with Baltimore or the Oklahoma City Indians, Texas League, and will join Oklahoma City June 4.

Washington College To Play Lacrosse

CHESTERTOWN, Md., May 24 (AP)—Tiny Washington College, with a male enrollment of 310, will be competing in lacrosse again next season, after a lapse of 14 years.

Director of Athletics George Ekaitis announced today the eastern shore school's athletics council had voted to put the Indian game back on its spring schedule.

Dr. Charles B. Clark, who played the sport here and at Duke in the mid-1930's, has been named to coach the Sho'men.

Starkey And Goss Defeated In Olympic Team Ring Tests

"Skeets" Wins Opener Then Loses On TKO

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 24 — Amateur boxers of Cumberland, Md., were eliminated from the United States Olympic Regional District No. 3 boxing trials tonight in bouts at the Arena.

Randall "Skeets" Starkey of the Amvets A. C., Cumberland, fighting in the 147 pound class, won his first round match by decisioning Eugene Landis, Philadelphia negro, in three fast rounds.

Starkey, however, was eliminated in the second round of the tourney when he lost by a technical knockout in his match with Leon Douty, colored southpaw fighter of Philadelphia. The Marylander was stopped in 1:37 of the third round after being floored at the bell in the two previous rounds. After the third knockdown the match was stopped and Douty declared the winner.

In another 147-pound contest, William Johnson of Baltimore, decisioned Bob Nesbitt of the United States Navy.

The Starkey-Douty match was the 18th on tonight's card. Seven welterweights were entered in the tourney.

Bobby Goss, Cumberland flyweight, was decisioned by Eugene Smith, negro of Washington, D. C., in a first round match in the 112-pound division. Six flyweights were entered in this class. Smith recently went to the finals in the National A.A.U. tournament.

Frankie Sodano, National AAU flyweight champion, defeated John Dickinson in an opening round match.

Approximately 3,000 persons witnessed tonight's program which was sponsored by the Philadelphia Inquirer Charities. Finals are scheduled for Tuesday night.

Final Olympic trials will be held in Boston, June 28 and 29.

Race Commission Suspends Trainer

West Virginia Track Has Stimulation Case

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., May 24 (AP) — An 11-year-old gelding's surprise show of speed provided the second winner in Charles Town racetrack's daily double today — which meant $1,662.80 apiece to seven $2 investors.

The gelding, named Buss, won the second race and paid $97.20 to win, $27.20 to place, and $10.20 to show.

Jockey Eddie Anyon aboard Mrs. R. M. Ferrara's Betel won the first race, but the jockey of the day—for those who played the daily double—was Kenny Foster, who booted Buss home by a length.

A number of other things happened at Charles Town today:

1. The West Virginia Racing Commission announced they had found evidence of stimulation of the horse First Party, winner of the eighth race on May 19.

The trainer, L. Colon Rodriguez, and all horses conditioned by him were ordered suspended for six months.

2. The feature race was won by J. N. Barnes' Miss Prime.

3. An unidentified man dropped dead at the track, just before the third race.

County, Rocking Chair Loop Teams Play Today

Five games are on tap in the County Softball League while four contests are scheduled in the Rocking Chair Softball League today.

County League games are: Potomac Valley at Wellersburg, Narrows Park at Bedford Road, Allegany Grove at Hyndman, Ellerslie at C. & P. Telephone (Taylor Field) and Corner Merchants at Corriganville.

In the Rocking Chair loop Celanese plays K. of C. at the Rolling Mill diamond, Outdoor Club battles Moose at Fort Hill, and Eagles tangle with Potomac Edison at East Side and the Amvets oppose the B. P. O. Elks at Campobello.

HUGH CASEY INJURED IN FALL ON STAIRS, OUT FOR SIXTY DAYS

BROOKLYN, May 24 (AP)—The hapless Brooklyn Dodgers, now in the National League's cellar, suffered a mighty blow today when relief hurler Hugh Casey was placed on the disabled list. This means the veteran fireman, who was a strong factor in Brooklyn's pennant victory last season, will be lost to the team for 60 days.

Dodger officials said Casey spent a "bad night" and reported great pain in his back this morning.

BEAU JACK SCORES OVER TONY JANIRO

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — Beau Jack, displaying form that once made him the top man of lightweight boxers, tonight slammed out a unanimous ten-round decision over Tony Janiro of Youngstown, Ohio.

Jack was clearly the aggressor. He started from the beginning, boring in and throwing punches from every angle.

There were no knockdowns. The two men did slip, however, continually because of the wet, slick canvas.

Jack weighed 140½; Janiro, 147.

The ten rounds were fought in a downpour before about 8,500 spectators.

Deer Damaging Trees At Hancock Orchard

HANCOCK, Md., May 24. (AP)—Orchard owner Samuel Dillon, Jr., said today he has complained to the State Game and Inland Fish Commission about deer.

The deer, he said, are eating the young shoots of his apple trees.

Damage extends to 1,000 trees, Dillon declared. He said on one occasion he counted 17 deer in his orchard at the same time.

Brooklyn Snaps Losing Streak, Beats Reds, 9-4

Dodgers Leave Cellar As Roe Marks Up Win

NEW YORK, May 24 (INS) — A seven-run rally in the fourth inning enabled the Brooklyn Dodgers to defeat Cincinnati 9 to 4 today and snap their eight-game losing streak. The Dodgers also took seventh place away from the Reds.

Bruce Edwards knocked in the first two runs of the first rally with a double, but Eddie Miksis was the real hero of the uprising. After cleaning the bases with a double and going to third on the throw to the plate, he stole home with the final run of the inning.

Miksis also singled in the first inning and scored on a double by Jackie Robinson.

Billy Cox homered for Brooklyn in the sixth with the bases empty. Jackie Robinson also hit one in the seventh.

Preacher Roe went the route for the winners. Box:

SOME DIFFERENCE — Her name is Margaret Truman and her home address is Independence, Mo., but she's a nurse and a Republican, and not the President's daughter. But when a marriage license was issued for "Margaret Truman and Army Capt. Warren R. Annear, Shreveport, La.," how were newsmen to know? After much commotion everything was straightened out and here's the bride.

Two Lonaconing Men Found Guilty In Robbery Case

James Trenum, 20, and Irvin Nicol, both of Lonaconing, were confined to the County Jail awaiting sentence yesterday, after being found guilty of a charge of robbery. Tried in Circuit Court by a jury, they were accused of robbery of a hat and 86 cents from Philip A. Thomas on April 15 near Shaft. The jury recommended the mercy of the Court.

Thomas, a mine foreman for Mine No. 10, near Shaft, testified that Trenum, along with a third man, identified as Edward Boch, were involved in the robbery.

Thomas said he missed a midnight bus and was waiting on the porch of Alexander's store when he saw two men trying to break into the Kirkwood store across the road. He testified he did not accost the men but was hoping to get the next bus and notify police.

Several cars came along and one of the youths said: "There's a man over there."

Boch and Trenum accosted him and roughed him up a little and one of them had his hand in his pocket and threatened to shoot him. After they ransacked his pockets and took his hat the two men and another man left the scene. Thomas said he did not see the other man as he stayed on the far side of the road.

Thomas said he was backed up against the wall, face forward, and told to forget what had happened.

"They did leave me ten cents for bus fare," he added.

During the questioning of Thomas by the two men as to what he knew about the attempted store entry and what he was doing hanging around the scene, such remarks as: "Why don't you bump him off?" and "If you try to turn around I'll shoot" were used, according to Thomas.

Boch was not in court yesterday as he had been out on bond and was not contacted in time for the trial, according to Julius E Schindler, attorney for the defense. Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney, prosecuted the case.

It was indicated by Court attaches that sentence will be passed on Trenum and Nicol after Boch has been tried.

Two Lonaconing Men Found Guilty In Robbery Case

James Trenum, 20, and Irvin Nicol, both of Lonaconing, were confined to the County Jail awaiting sentence yesterday, after being found guilty of a charge of robbery. Tried in Circuit Court by a jury, they were accused of robbery of a hat and 86 cents from Philip A. Thomas on April 15 near Shaft. The jury recommended the mercy of the Court.

Thomas, a mine foreman for Mine No. 10, near Shaft, testified that Trenum, along with a third man, identified as Edward Boch, were involved in the robbery.

Thomas said he missed a midnight bus and was waiting on the porch of Alexander's store when he saw two men trying to break into the Kirkwood store across the road. He testified he did not accost the men but was hoping to get the next bus and notify police.

Several cars came along and one of the youths said: "There's a man over there."

Boch and Trenum accosted him and roughed him up a little and one of them had his hand in his pocket and threatened to shoot him. After they ransacked his pockets and took his hat the two men and another man left the scene. Thomas said he did not see the other man as he stayed on the far side of the road.

Thomas said he was backed up against the wall, face forward, and told to forget what had happened.

"They did leave me ten cents for bus fare," he added.

During the questioning of Thomas by the two men as to what he knew about the attempted store entry and what he was doing hanging around the scene, such remarks as: "Why don't you bump him off?" and "If you try to turn around I'll shoot" were used, according to Thomas.

Boch was not in court yesterday as he had been out on bond and was not contacted in time for the trial, according to Julius E Schindler, attorney for the defense. Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney, prosecuted the case.

It was indicated by Court attaches that sentence will be passed on Trenum and Nicol after Boch has been tried.

Public Health To Probe Malady In Tucker County

Mystery Illness Is Near Epidemic Stage

PARSONS, W. Va.—A mysterious illness that has reached the near epidemic stage among children in Tucker County yesterday resulted in the county health officer seeking aid from the U. S. Public Health Service.

Dr. N. H. Dyer, State Health officer, announced the action after a conference in Charleston with officials of Tucker County Hospital and doctors from Elkins and the Philippi clinic.

The number of fatalities since the mysterious malady struck early last week has increased to three, Commissioner Dyer said.

It was in response to the call of Dr. Guy H. Michaels, of Parsons, acting Tucker county health officer and head of the hospital, that Commissioner Dyer came here .

Dr. Dyer said the public health service had agreed to send an epidemologist from its Richmond district office to study the situation.

The service expressed willingness to cooperate in any way possible, Dr. Dyer said, adding that the full facilities of his own department were being made available in the unusual outbreak.

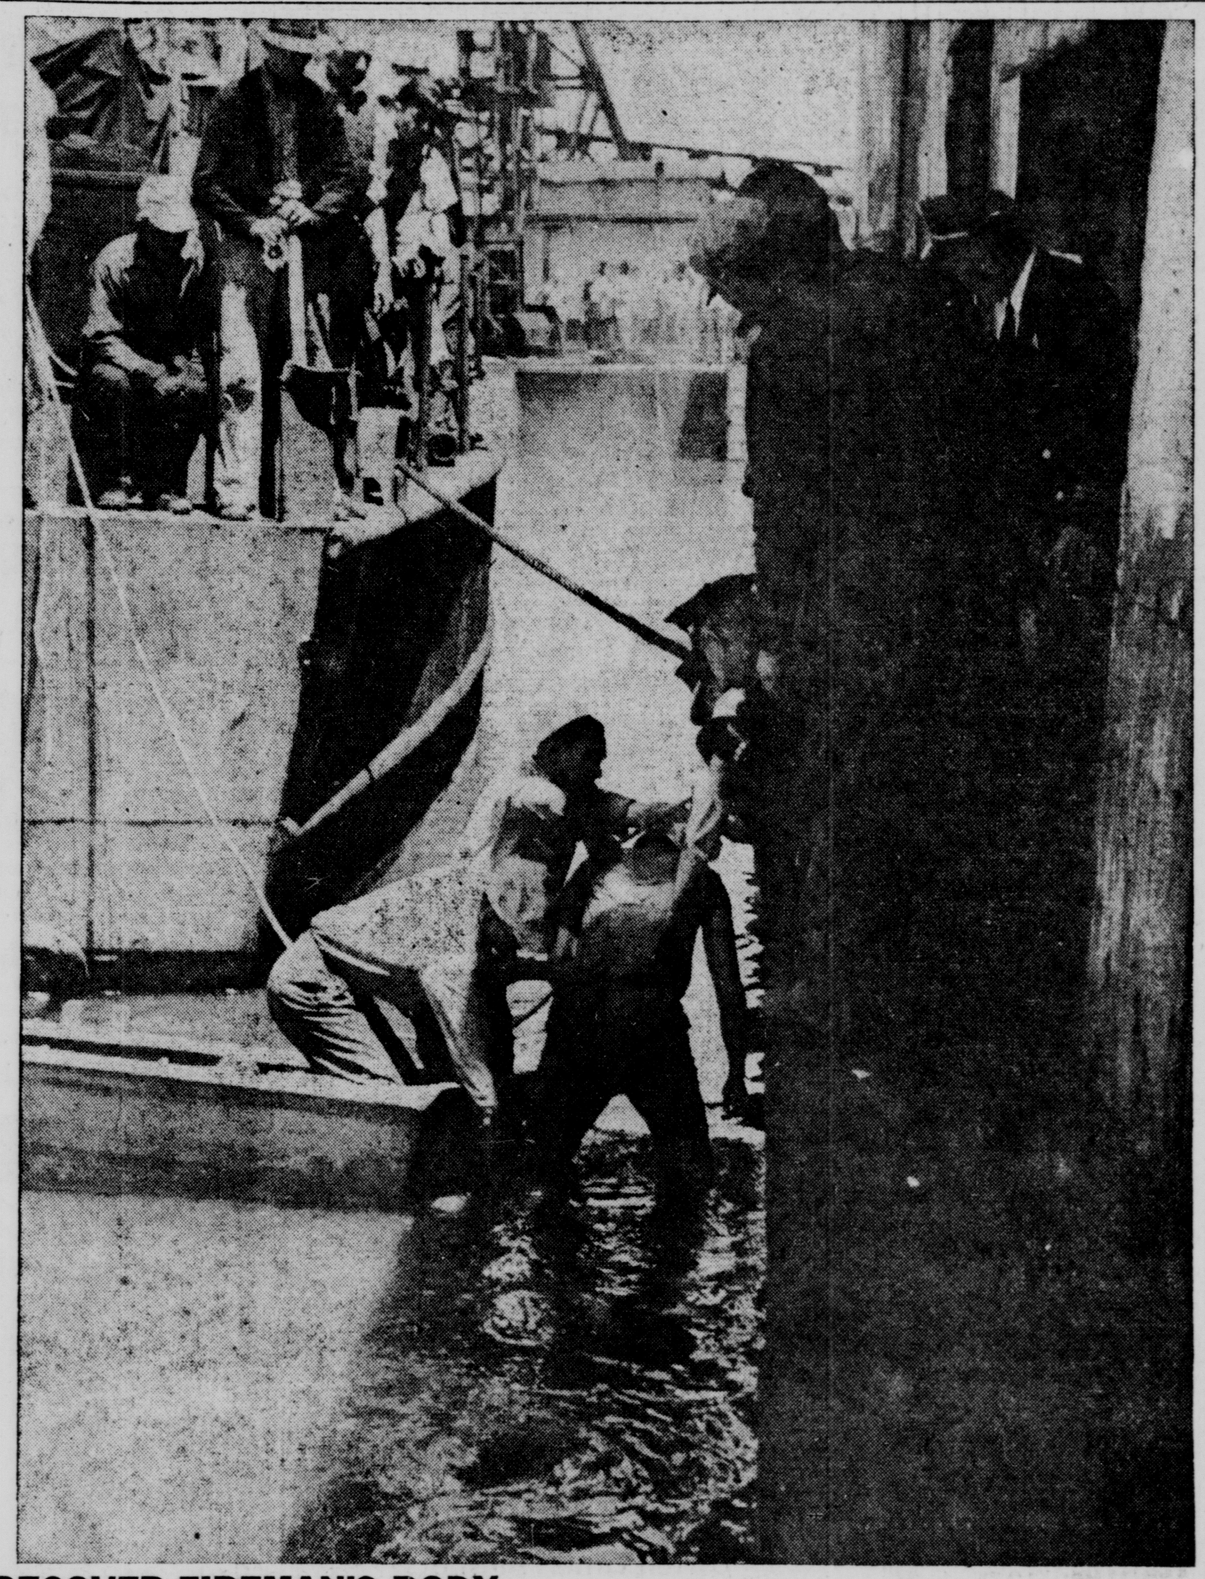

He said 12 children are now hospitalized. The symptoms, he explained are somewhat similar to influenza, but the malady is accompanied by a swelling in the child's throat which tends to close off the child's breathing.

The health commissioner said the illness appeared to be in epidemic form. But beyond that "We don't know much about it as yet."

As many as four children have been stricken in a single family. For the most part, Dr. Dyer reported, the victims have been very young, many of them of pre-school age.

He said that the ages of those in the hospital when he visited Parsons ranged from eight months to slightly more than five years.

Some of the cases appear to be mild, he explained, particularly in older children.

RECOVER FIREMAN'S BODY-- Rescue workers haul from the Ohio River the body of Lt. Leonard Hartz, one of two firemen who drowned in the Ohio River at Huntington, W. Va., while they were looking for the bodies of three boys who had drowned earlier. Hartz died on his 39th birthday anniversary. The other fireman was W. Ernie Booth, 37. Their rescue boat was swept into a barge by a swift current and when the two men jumped into the river, they were sucked under by the current. (AP Photo)

Thank God For Muscle-Rub!

WRITES MR. ROBERT JORDAN, COLON, MICH.

Advises every sufferer from Rheumatic—Arthritic—Sciatic—Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub.

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kind of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich. suffered agony from pains in his hip—knee—calf of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.

Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job.

Public Health To Probe Malady In Tucker County

Mystery Illness Is Near Epidemic Stage

PARSONS, W. Va.—A mysterious illness that has reached the near epidemic stage among children in Tucker County yesterday resulted in the county health officer seeking aid from the U. S. Public Health Service.

Dr. N. H. Dyer, State Health officer, announced the action after a conference in Charleston with officials of Tucker County Hospital and doctors from Elkins and the Philippi clinic.

The number of fatalities since the mysterious malady struck early last week has increased to three, Commissioner Dyer said.

It was in response to the call of Dr. Guy H. Michaels, of Parsons, acting Tucker county health officer and head of the hospital, that Commissioner Dyer came here .

Dr. Dyer said the public health service had agreed to send an epidemologist from its Richmond district office to study the situation.

The service expressed willingness to cooperate in any way possible, Dr. Dyer said, adding that the full facilities of his own department were being made available in the unusual outbreak.

He said 12 children are now hospitalized. The symptoms, he explained are somewhat similar to influenza, but the malady is accompanied by a swelling in the child's throat which tends to close off the child's breathing.

The health commissioner said the illness appeared to be in epidemic form. But beyond that "We don't know much about it as yet."

As many as four children have been stricken in a single family. For the most part, Dr. Dyer reported, the victims have been very young, many of them of pre-school age.

He said that the ages of those in the hospital when he visited Parsons ranged from eight months to slightly more than five years.

Some of the cases appear to be mild, he explained, particularly in older children.

RECOVER FIREMAN'S BODY--Rescue workers haul from the Ohio River the body of Lt. Leonard Hartz, one of two firemen who drowned in the Ohio River at Huntington, W. Va., while they were looking for the bodies of three boys who had drowned earlier. Hartz died on his 39th birthday anniversary. The other fireman was W. Ernie Booth, 37. Their rescue boat was swept into a barge by a swift current and when the two men jumped into the river, they were sucked under by the current. (AP Photo)

Cavey Paroled In Custody Of Father

Donald J. Cavey, 17, National, who was arrested at 12:55 p. m. Saturday on a charge of violating his parole, was arraigned before Chief Judge William A. Huster in Circuit Court yesterday and released in the custody of his father pending his good behavior.

Cavey was given a suspended sentence in Juvenile Court here last February for one year on a disorderly conduct charge.

Sgt. Frank A. Shober and another city officer arrested the youth after he had an altercation with his father, police said.

Cavey was found guilty in Juvenile Court after he made the rounds of several local taverns and then held residents of his home at bay with a butcher knife.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 24—(INS)—"The Scarlet Pimpernel," which brings back such wonderful memories of Leslie Howard, is to be remade in England, with David Niven in Leslie's role. David, with his bride and two children, leaves the last of July for his native England.

Lonella Parsons

He's making the picture for Samuel Goldwyn and Sir Alexander Korda, who have just signed a deal in which Korda will have the eastern hemisphere distribution, while Goldwyn will have the western hemisphere.

Sam says that he's very happy over the whole arrangement, because Emerich Pressburger and Michael Powell, who made such pictures as "Stairway To Heaven," will produce and direct it.

Never let it be said that David Selznick passes up any talent bets. He had a conference this past week with Valerie Bettis of "Inside U.S.A.," the New York hit starring Bea Lillie and Jack Haley. Valerie is the dancer who looks like Tallulah Bankhead. The subject discussed with D.O.S. was a contract.

Accompanying Valerie was her agent, Gloria Safier, and unless I'm guessing wrong, we may soon be hearing that Valerie has put her name on a Selznick contract. Well, you have to say for Selznick, he does all right for all his stars, and while they are not always in his pictures, he sees to it they get good parts at other studios.

If Elizabeth Taylor gets the role of Legia, the little Christian girl in "Quo Vadis," it will be the best role she's had since "National Velvet." That's the discussion now, and Sonja Levine, who is working on the script, I am reliably informed, has been instructed to prepare the role for Elizabeth.

S. N. Dehrman, the playwright, who did the first draft of "Quo Vadis" 7 years ago before the war stopped its production, is on the lot polishing the script.

●—●—●

Billy De Wolfe, the good looking funny man, has just moved into his brand new home in San Fernando Valley. When you ring the front door bell, a set of chimes loudly peal out the opening blast from the Paramount newsreel.

And if you ring the back door bell, it's the finishing fanfare from the newsreel!

I don't know what this proves—unless it is that it pays to advertise your company's wares.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

As you read this I am on the train, speeding along through the country, and loving it.

Such wonderful memories of my past few days — the party Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon gave for us; Wynn Rocamora's cocktail party and buffet supper, at which I had a chance to see so many of my friends.

It was a farewell party for a number of people. Seems as if everybody is leaving.

I telephoned Joan Bennett to say au revoir, and she promised to cable me whether the baby is Walter J. or Joan Jr.

Joan received word from her daughter, Diana, who arrived that day in Geneva with her bridegroom, John Hardy Anderson. They are honeymooning in Europe.

Many things are happening in Hollywood that I am sorry to miss, but you could leave Hollywood any day and still miss things.

I heard, just before I left, that Buster Keaton is planning to file a suit against Warners, claiming that "April Showers" is the story of his life and his father's and mother's.

Patti Andrews, of the famed Andrews Sisters, is hobbling around on a cane because of a torn ligament in her left leg. She fell off a chair doing an imitation of her Sister Maxine.

Vivien Blaine will star in "One Touch Of Venus" at the Dallas State Fair, for one month, beginning July 15.

Kenny Baker is going to devote all his time to being a concert singer—and well he might, for that boy really has a gorgeous voice.

That's all today.

SUSIE Q. SMITH By Linda and Jerry Walter

"Well! Well! This looks exactly like the young man who just passed me, driving through the water in the street."

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission on May 14, 1948, the following regulation was adopted and shall have full force and effect of law on and after June 1, 1948:

Regulation III

All food-processing and food-packing plants in Maryland (including fruit and vegetable canners and processors, fish and seafood packers and processors, meat and poultry packers and processors) are required to meet the following conditions in the disposal of the waste products resulting from food-processing and packing operations:

1. All solids must be removed from plant wastes discharging into or adjacent to State waters either directly or indirectly through municipal sewers.
2. The elimination of these solids from State waters constitutes minimum treatment requirements and plants discharging strong dissolved organic wastes, caustic, acid, lye or other deleterious substances and plants discharging wastes into State waters that are seriously polluted or that are particularly important to fish, shellfish or aquatic life or that have insufficient volume to absorb the wastes without ill effect shall be required to provide additional and satisfactory treatment as may be necessary.
3. The size of solids to be removed shall be that size retained by a screen no coarser than 1-32-inch mesh.
4. Grinding, maceration or any operation intended to reduce the size of the solids so that they can pass the screens will not be permitted.
5. Plants which presently have screens with mesh larger than 1-32-inch mesh openings will be permitted to use existing installations during the 1948 canning season provided these screens have openings no larger than 1-16-inch mesh. Screens of at least 1-32-inch mesh must be installed and operated before the start of the 1949 canning season.

Any food-processing or food-packing plant which does not meet with the above requirements shall be deemed and considered in violation of this regulation based on Maryland law, Chapter 697 of the Acts of 1947 and shall be subject to penalties imposed thereby. Each day upon which a violation occurs under this regulation shall be deemed a separate and additional violation.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission on May 14, 1948, the following regulation was adopted and shall have full force and effect of law on and after August 1, 1948:

Regulation IV
Treatment and Disposal of Industrial Wastes

No industrial wastes other than acid-mine-drainage shall be placed or permitted to be placed or discharged or permitted to flow into any of the waters of the State in any manner by any person unless the industrial wastes after treatment or untreated shall meet with the ten industrial waste requirements established by the Water Pollution Control Commission BEFORE being discharged into any waters of the State. These ten industrial waste requirements are as follows:

1. Settleable solids—Must not exceed 400 ppm in one litter of representative sample settled 1 hour in an Imhoff cone.
2. Turbidity—Must transmit 10% of light through 12 inches of sample in a 3-inch column.
3. Oxygen consumption—Must not exceed 50% of saturation in the stream. Oxidizable material in the effluent not to exceed 500 ppm. B.O.D. in the effluent not to exceed 100 ppm.
4. Toxicity or toxic compounds—Must be totally removed.
5. Color—Color intensity regardless of frequency must not exceed 400 ppm on the chloroplatinate scale.
6. Dissolved solids—Must not exceed 1,500 ppm.
7. PH—Must not range below 5.5 or above 8.5.
8. Temperature—Must be below 100°F. in the stream within 50 feet from waste outlet.
9. Floating solids and liquids—Must be completely removed. Oils and greases in the effluent must not exceed 30 ppm.
10. Taste and odor—Effluent must not exceed threshold odor number of 1,000. Mixture of the waste and receiving waters shall have a threshold odor number not in excess of 80.

These are maximum values but are not fixed values. They cannot be made more liberal but they can be made more stringent if a survey of the stream indicates that it is polluted or is continuing to be degraded.

Any industrial wastes, after treatment or untreated, which do not meet with the above requirements shall be deemed and considered in violation of this regulation based on Maryland law, Chapter 697 of the Acts of the General Assembly of the State of Maryland of 1947 and shall be subject to penalties imposed thereby. Each day upon which a violation occurs under this regulation shall be deemed a separate and additional violation.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, Edith P. Smith vs. William K. Smith. No. 20687 Equity.

The object of this suit is to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the plaintiff, Edith P. Smith from the defendant, William K. Smith.

The Bill of Complaint states that the plaintiff and defendant were married at Cumberland, Maryland, on April 13, 1935, and thereafter the parties lived together as husband and wife in Cumberland, Maryland, until on or about July 19, 1945; that ever since the marriage, the plaintiff has behaved herself as a kind, chaste, and affectionate wife, and that on or about July 19, 1945, the defendant without just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and that said abandonment and desertion has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen (18) months before the filing of the Bill of Complaint in this case and was deliberate and final on the part of the said defendant, and that the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of a reconciliation; that the plaintiff seeks the custody of the infant daughter, Mary Smith, four years of age, and that the plaintiff has been a resident of Maryland for more than one year before the filing of the Bill of Complaint in this case; that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

It is thereupon ordered this 24th day of May, 1948, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the City of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 25 day of June, 1948, giving notice of the object and substance of the Bill of Complaint to the absent defendant, warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 12 day of July, 1948, to show cause, if any he may have, why the decree should not be passed as prayed.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 24—(INS)—"The Scarlet Pimpernel," which brings back such wonderful memories of Leslie Howard, is to be remade in England, with David Niven in Leslie's role. David, with his bride and two children, leaves the last of July for his native England.

Louella Parsons

He's making the picture for Samuel Goldwyn and Sir Alexander Korda, who have just signed a deal in which Korda will have the eastern hemisphere distribution, while Goldwyn will have the western hemisphere.

Sam says that he's very happy over the whole arrangement, because Emerich Pressburger and Michael Powell, who made such pictures as "Stairway To Heaven," will produce and direct it.

Never let it be said that David Selznick passes up any talent bets. He had a conference this past week with Valerie Bettis of "Inside U.S.A.," the New York hit starring Bea Lillie and Jack Haley. Valerie is the dancer who looks like Tallulah Bankhead. The subject discussed with D.O.S. was a contract.

Accompanying Valerie was her agent, Gloria Safier, and unless I'm guessing wrong, we may soon be hearing that Valerie has put her name on a Selznick contract. Well, you have to say for Selznick, he does all right for all his stars, and while they are not always in his pictures, he sees to it they get good parts at other studios.

If Elizabeth Taylor gets the role of Legia, the little Christian girl in "Quo Vadis," it will be the best role she's had since "National Velvet." That's the discussion now, and Sonja Levine, who is working on the script, I am reliably informed, has been instructed to prepare the role for Elizabeth.

S. N. Dehrman, the playwright, who did the first draft of "Quo Vadis" 7 years ago before the war stopped its production, is on the lot polishing the script.

●—●—●

Billy De Wolfe, the good looking funny man, has just moved into his brand new home in San Fernando Valley. When you ring the front door bell, a set of chimes loudly peal out the opening blast from the Paramount newsreel.

And if you ring the back door bell, it's the finishing fanfare from the newsreel!

I don't know what this proves—unless it is that it pays to advertise your company's wares.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

As you read this I am on the train, speeding along through the country, and loving it.

Such wonderful memories of my past few days — the party Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon gave for us; Wynn Rocamora's cocktail party and buffet supper, at which I had a chance to see so many of my friends.

It was a farewell party for a number of people. Seems as if everybody is leaving.

I telephoned Joan Bennett to say au revoir, and she promised to cable me whether the baby is Walter J. or Joan Jr.

Joan received word from her daughter, Diana, who arrived that day in Geneva with her bridegroom, John Hardy Anderson. They are honeymooning in Europe.

Many things are happening in Hollywood that I am sorry to miss, but you could leave Hollywood any day and still miss things.

I heard, just before I left, that Buster Keaton is planning to file a suit against Warners, claiming that "April Showers" is the story of his life and his father's and mother's.

Patti Andrews, of the famed Andrews Sisters, is hobbling around on a cane because of a torn ligament in her left leg. She fell off a chair doing an imitation of her Sister Maxine.

Vivien Blaine will star in "One Touch Of Venus" at the Dallas State Fair, for one month, beginning July 15.

Kenny Baker is going to devote all his time to being a concert singer—and well he might, for that boy really has a gorgeous voice.

That's all today.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Bickering Bickersons

The air lanes are aquiver with the cooings of contented husbands and wives (Ozzie and Harriet, Phil and Alice, Ethel and Albert, to mention only a few) but there is one young couple who couldn't have been more thoroughly mismated and who make no bones about it. They are John and Blanche Bickerson, who are heard at the tail end of the Old Gold show (C. B. S., 9 p. m., E. D. T) Fridays), and who are a sort of contemporary Jiggs and Maggie.

John Crosby

On second thought withdraw the reference. Jiggs and Maggies aren't in the same league with the Bickersons.

Blanche, played very capably by Frances Longford, is one of the most monstrous shrews of all time. She makes her husband (Don Ameche) take two jobs, a total of sixteen working hours, in order to bring in more money which she squanders on minks and the stock market. Meanwhile he can't afford a pair of shoes and goes around with his feet painted black. In the few hours he has to sleep, she heckles him all night with the accusation that he doesn't love her. Her aim appears to be to drive her husband crazy and she succeeds very nicely. The harassed John's only weapon is insult at which he's pretty good. I have here a sample of John and Blanche's conversation culled from a couple of scripts. Bear in mind that this is 2 a. m. and John is trying throughout to get to sleep.

BLANCHE: You used to be so considerate. Since you got married to me you haven't got any sympathy at all.

JOHN: I have too. I've got everybody's sympathy.

BLANCHE: Believe me there's better fish in the ocean than the one I caught.

JOHN: There's better bait too.

BLANCHE: I don't see how you can go to bed without kissing me goodnight.

JOHN: I can do it.

BLANCHE: You'd better say you are sorry for that, John.

JOHN: Okay, I'm sorry. I'm sorry. I'm sorry.

BLANCHE: You are not.

JOHN: I am too. I'm the sorriest man that ever was born.

BLANCHE: Did you take care of the cat?

JOHN: No.

BLANCHE: Why Not?

JOHN: Cat can take care of himself.

BLANCHE: Don't be so funny. What about the goldfish and the canary? Where they hungry?

JOHN: Starving.

BLANCHE: What are they eating?

JOHN: Each other. Why don't you let me sleep, Blanche?

BLANCHE: All you have to do is give me a civil answer. Just tell me what you gave the goldfish to eat.

JOHN: Eggs! Fifteen poached eggs. And the cat had the same.

BLANCHE: Where did all those eggs come from?

JOHN: The canary laid 'em. Please, Blanche, I've got to get some sleep.

BLANCHE: Male canaries don't lay eggs and . .. How is the canary?

JOHN: I haven't seen him since I vacuumed his cage.

— o —

BLANCHE: John Bickerson!

JOHN: Oh, don't blow your top. The canary's fine!

BLANCHE: Did you give him his bath?

JOHN: I gave him his bath. I powdered his tail and I plucked his eyebrows. What do you want from me, Blanche?

BLANCHE: I'll bet you didn't let the cat out tonight.

JOHN: I'm sick of playing nursemaid to a broken-down alley cat!

BLANCHE: He's a beautiful cat and I love him.

JOHN: I hate him.

BLANCHE: You wouldn't feel that way if you got a little friendly with them. Why don't you bring him something to play with?

JOHN: I'll bring him a dog in the morning. Good night.

BLANCHE: Is there any milk for breakfast?

JOHN: No.

BLANCHE: Then you'll have to eat out.

JOHN: I don't care. I've been doing it all week.

BLANCHE: What for? I left you enough food for six days. I cooked a whole bathtubful of rice. What happened to it?

JOHN: I took a bath in it?

BLANCHE: Why didn't you eat it?

JOHN: I've told you a million times I can't stand the sight of rice.

BLANCHE: Why not?

JOHN: Because it's connected with the saddest mistake of my life.

Just how pretty Miss Langford contrives to transform herself so convincingly into this venemous witch is her own little secret. She nags with the whining persistence of a buzzsaw, a quality that can barely be suggested in print. Mr. Ameche responds in accents of tired loathing which could hardly be improved on, though they may well cost him the women's vote.

At the risk of losing the women's vote myself I'd like to go on record as saying I think the Bickersons very funny. In a medium which strives so desperately to spread sweetness and light, in which every wife is an angel of tolerant understanding and every husband dumb but lovable, the bickering Bickersons are a very refreshing venture in the opposite direction.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Bickering Bickersons

The air lanes are aquiver with the coolings of contented husbands and wives (Ozzie and Harriet, Phil and Alice, Ethel and Albert, to mention only a few) but there is one young couple who couldn't have been more thoroughly mismated and who make no bones about it. They are John and Blanche Bickerson, who are heard at the tail end of the Old Gold show (C. B. S., 9 p. m., E. D. T) Fridays), and who are a sort of contemporary Jiggs and Maggie. On second thought withdraw the reference. Jiggs and Maggies aren't in the same league with the Bickersons.

John Crosby

Blanche, played very capably by Frances Longford, is one of the most monstrous shrews of all time. She makes her husband (Don Ameche) take two jobs, a total of sixteen working hours, in order to bring in more money which she squanders on minks and the stock market. Meanwhile he can't afford a pair of shoes and goes around with his feet painted black. In the few hours he has to sleep, she heckles him all night with the accusation that he doesn't love her. Her aim appears to be to drive her husband crazy and she succeeds very nicely. The harassed John's only weapon is insult at which he's pretty good. I have here a sample of John and Blanche's conversation culled from a couple of scripts. Bear in mind that this is 2 a. m. and John is trying throughout to get to sleep.

BLANCHE: You used to be so considerate. Since you got married to me you haven't got any sympathy at all.

JOHN: I have too. I've got everybody's sympathy.

BLANCHE: Believe me there's better fish in the ocean than the one I caught.

JOHN: There's better bait too.

BLANCHE: I don't see how you can go to bed without kissing me goodnight.

JOHN: I can do it.

BLANCHE: You'd better say you are sorry for that, John.

JOHN: Okay, I'm sorry. I'm sorry. I'm sorry.

BLANCHE: You are not.

JOHN: I am too. I'm the sorriest man that ever was born.

BLANCHE: Did you take care of the cat?

JOHN: No.

BLANCHE: Why Not?

JOHN: Cat can take care of himself.

BLANCHE: Don't be so funny. What about the goldfish and the canary? Where they hungry?

JOHN: Starving.

BLANCHE: What are they eating?

JOHN: Each other. Why don't you let me sleep, Blanche?

BLANCHE: All you have to do is give me a civil answer. Just tell me what you gave the goldfish to eat.

JOHN: Eggs! Fifteen poached eggs. And the cat had the same.

BLANCHE: Where did all those eggs come from?

JOHN: The canary laid 'em. Please, Blanche, I've got to get some sleep.

BLANCHE: Male canaries don't lay eggs and . .. How is the canary?

JOHN: I haven't seen him since I vacuumed his cage.

— o —

BLANCHE: John Bickerson!

JOHN: Oh, don't blow your top. The canary's fine!

BLANCHE: Did you give him his bath?

JOHN: I gave him his bath. I powdered his tail and I plucked his eyebrows. What do you want from me, Blanche?

BLANCHE: I'll bet you didn't let the cat out tonight.

JOHN: I'm sick of playing nursemaid to a broken-down alley cat!

BLANCHE: He's a beautiful cat and I love him.

JOHN: I hate him.

BLANCHE: You wouldn't feel that way if you got a little friendly with them. Why don't you bring him something to play with?

JOHN: I'll bring him a dog in the morning. Good night.

BLANCHE: Is there any milk for breakfast?

JOHN: No.

BLANCHE: Then you'll have to eat out.

JOHN: I don't care. I've been doing it all week.

BLANCHE: What for? I left you enough food for six days. I cooked a whole bathtubful of rice. What happened to it?

JOHN: I took a bath in it?

BLANCHE: Why didn't you eat it?

JOHN: I've told you a million times I can't stand the sight of rice.

BLANCHE: Why not?

JOHN: Because it's connected with the saddest mistake of my life.

Just how pretty Miss Langford contrives to transform herself so convincingly into this venemous witch is her own little secret. She nags with the whining persistence of a buzzsaw, a quality that can barely be suggested in print. Mr. Ameche responds in accents of tired loathing which could hardly be improved on, though they may well cost him the women's vote.

At the risk of losing the women's vote myself I'd like to go on record as saying I think the Bickersons very funny. In a medium which strives so desperately to spread sweetness and light, in which every wife is an angel of tolerant understanding and every husband dumb but lovable, the bickering Bickersons are a very refreshing venture in the opposite direction.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our deepest appreciation to our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown during the reburial of our son, S/Sgt. William C. Kirby. We also wish to thank Rev. Fisher and Major Wall, the organizations, those who sent flowers and loaned cars for the funeral.
MR. & MRS. GEORGE KIRBY AND FAMILY.

We wish to thank our friends, neighbors and relatives for their acts of love, sympathy and the beautiful flowers received during the recent loss of our beloved Father and brother, John Crabtree. We also wish to thank the Pastor and choir for the consolation offered during the services.

Market Manages To Stay Nearly Even Despite Slump In Activity

NEW YORK, May 24 (AP)—The stock market managed to stay nearly even today despite a decided slump in activity.

Setting a relatively slow pace, compared with recent sessions, trading brought total sales of 1,560,000 shares, smallest since May 12. In the last previous five-hour market Friday 2,670,000 shares changed hands.

Anaconda Copper and J. I. Case established new tops and finished unchanged. After touching new highs, Pennsylvania Railroad closed off one-eighth at 21⅝ and Johns-Manville down one-eighth at 41¾. Other losers of small fractions to around a point included Penney, Goodrich, American Can, Colorado Fuel and Iron, Richfield Oil, Sinclair Oil, Pacific Western Oil, Woolworth and Allied Chemical.

Holding advances, after establishing new 1948 tops, were General Motors at 60¾, American Telephone 157⅝, American Woolen 55, International Paper 62, American Smelting 64⅝, Atlantic Coast Line 61¼, and the active low-priced Electrical and Musical Industries at 2½.

Bonds got off to a good start but soon were winded. Many railroad issues added considerable to their quoted prices but the list as a whole made only minor gains.

Volume was $5,410,000, compared with $4,405,000 Friday and $2,720,000 in the short session Saturday.

Rails and foreign issues looked the best, but several industrials went along for the ride. Many utility liens were weak.

Dr. Michael Ends Pastoral Duties

Dr. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church since 1942, has resigned because of ill health, according to an announcement in a letter to the congregation published in the program for Sunday's services.

The pastor and his family plan to spend the summer at Kenwood Beach, Calvert County, and then leave September 1 for Florida for the school year.

"Because of ill health it becomes necessary for me to retire at the next session of our annual conference and, therefore, I shall be leaving your midst," wrote the pastor, who has been ill for sometime.

Conference Next Month

The annual Baltimore conference of the Methodist Church meets next month at Westminster.

Dr. Michael observed his thirtieth anniversary in the ministry April 13, 1947, by preaching on "The Ministry."

He began his ministerial career in 1917 as pastor of the Oldtown charge which included churches at Oldtown, Mt. Olive, Paradise, Oliver Grove, Mt. Tabor, and Humbird Chapel, now Davis Memorial Church.

He spent three years on the circuit and his work included the building of a new church at Oldtown. The next two years he spent at Urbana in Frederick county.

Dr. Michael next was pastor at Glyndon, near Baltimore. He attended Western Maryland College at the same time, completing the four-year course in three years and was graduated with honors.

Awarded Doctor Degree

After five years at Glyndon he transferred to Brightwood Park for four years. The next pastorate was at Eldbrooke in the West Washington district, where he stayed for 11 years and reduced the church debt by $54,500.

While at Eldbrooke in 1937 he was awarded a doctor of divinity degree by Western Maryland College.

During his various ministries, churches he has served reduced debts by over $125,000. Of that amount $42,500 has been at Centre Street, which has also seen its membership advance to more than 1,900. The church debt has been entirely paid off.

Dr. Michael was graduated from Frederick High School in 1904 and returned to the farm. Later he became a railway mail clerk and served in this capacity for five years. He went back to farming and finally became a minister.

Young Motorist Gets $10 Fine After Mishap

Bruce Herman Brinkman, 1211 Oldtown Road, drew a fine of $10 and costs yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court, as a result of an auto accident on Baltimore Street Sunday.

According to testimony, Brinkman was driving west on Baltimore Street in the middle lane and crossed in the path of a car operated by Joseph Blake, 458 Columbia Street. The 11-year old son of Blake was thrown against the windshield and was treated at Allegany Hospital.

Youth Escapes Injury As Truck Hits Tree

Sixteen-year-old George Welsh, 944 Gay Street, escaped serious injury Sunday when a truck police said was taken by the youth without permission, crashed into a tree on West Oldtown Road.

According to the record at Police Headquarters, Welsh took the truck and together with his companion, Ira Smith, 18, went for a joy ride, but ended up with the truck wrapped around a tree. Earlier, police reported the youth backed against a car owned by Benjamin W. Wright, LaVale, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, and drove off in a reckless manner. No charges have been filed by police.

City Hall To Be Closed Next Monday

City Hall offices will be closed all day next Monday, May 31, in observance of Memorial Day.

Because of the holiday, the regular meeting of the Mayor and Council will be held Tuesday, June 1, at 10 a. m.

Beginning Saturday, June 5, City Hall will be closed all day each Saturday during the summer months. City offices will remain open during the week until 5 p. m. as usual.

Jobs Are Available For College Vets

Veterans of World War II who will be graduated from college this year were urged yesterday to register with the Maryland State Employment Service since a number of positions are open for college-trained men.

The picture for college-trained men is in direct contrast to the semi-skilled labor situation, according to William Spangler, assistant state veterans employment representative.

Position Of Treasury

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — The position of the Treasury May 20:

Receipts, $94,621,088.61; expenditures, $105,041,046.81; balance, $5,-076,383,150.02; customs receipts for month $21,458,952.76; receipts fiscal year July 1, $39,027,256,697.51; expenditures fiscal year, $31,299,158,-274.41; excess of receipts, $7,728,-098,423.10; total debt, $252,233,170,-050.44; increase over previous day, $2,102,102.50; gold assets, $23,244,-613,569.63.

Local 1874 Heads Say Strike Scare Contrary To Fact

Playford Aldridge, president, and John G. Thomas, business manager of Local 1874, TWUA-CIO yesterday made the following statement to the Cumberland News:

"The story appearing in Saturday's Cumberland Evening Times interpreting our compliance with provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law and our Union-Company agreement as an action which 'has thereby prepared the way for a strike at the plant June 26, when the present contract expires,' is completely contrary to facts.

"Our office received many calls yesterday (Monday) asking for information," continued the Local 1874 officials, "and in order that both our membership and the general public may have the facts from an official source we wish to state:

"1. That the letter referred to in the newspaper was sent to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and the State Department of Labor and Industry in accordance with the provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law.

"2. That the letter sent to the Celanese Corporation was required by a provision of our agreement.

"3. The assertion that the letter 'prepared the way for a strike at the plant,' overlooks both the voting rights of our membership and the powers of our General President before such an action.

"4. The 'speculation' of an unidentified 'company spokesman' that perhaps the Union anticipates its demands will not be acceptable even though no discussion has taken place is untrue. If the anonymous 'company spokesman' had conferred with Mr. Edward R. Allen or Mr. L. Leslie Helmer he would have been advised that there was plenty of discussion by and between both parties at last Wednesday's session."

Contract negotiations between the company and the union will be resumed at a meeting Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the Amcelle plant.

Council Adopts Record Budget

Without a dissenting vote, the Mayor and Council yesterday adopted a record budget totaling $1,262,-930 for the 15-month fiscal period ending June 30, 1949.

The city's 233 employes, exclusive of the mayor and council, will receive wage boosts of either 10 cents an hour or $20 a month. The 10 cents an hour boosts go to the 33 employes of the Water Department and to the 55 employes of the Street Department. All other full-time salaried city employes will receive an increase of $20 a month. The raises total $62,227.50.

The city tax rate for the 15-month fiscal year was fixed at $1.55 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

Library Board Directors Named

Tasker G. Lowndes, a veteran of 24 years service as treasurer of the board of directors of the Cumberland Free Public Library, was reappointed to the board for a six-year term.

Also named directors were Mrs. Aurelia Becker and Owen E. Hitchins.

Mrs. A. M. Lichenstein, Paul Nose and Edward Eichner were appointed to the Recreation Planning Commission, replacing J. Suter Kegg, C. V. Burns and L. C. Cessna, resigned.

Council gave the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad permission to raise the Washington Street bridge seven inches during the rebuilding of the span.

A request by Ewald Ruehl, agent for the Rulekraft Awning Company of Maryland, that the city allow awning to be hung seven and a half feet above the sidewalk instead of eight feet, the present height, was turned over to City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan for study.

Rizer told council he believes any lowering of awnings would endanger pedestrians on rainy days because of the many persons using umbrellas. He pointed out that should the city allow the awnings to be lowered, any person injured by an umbrella as a result would have a suit against the city.

Armory Property Lease Renewed

The federal government and the city renewed for one year the lease of city-owned property to the Naval Reserve. The government pays the city $1 a year for the use of 7.15 acres of ground adjoining the Naval Armory. The new lease will run from July 1, 1948, through June 30, 1949.

Council approved an agreement between the city and William H. Marean under which the latter will be paid $400 a month by the city for his services as supervising engineer for laying of the Lake Gordon Auxiliary water line. Marean, who must devote full time to the work, also will receive expenses for use of a car in connection with the project.

Appointment of Mrs. Grace C. Van Pelt as a temporary employe in the office of the city clerk at $150 a month was approved.

Woman Posts Bond

Five months after a warrant was sworn out for her arrest in Ridgeley on a drunk and disorderly charge Mary S. Bowers, Laing Avenue was taken into custody at a Ridgeley tavern Sunday afternoon and posted $12 bond.

The woman, who eluded Chief of Police Jesse Elkins of Ridgeley last December after she and a male companion were arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge, was nabbed by the officer when she appeared at the tavern Sunday.

Her companion was fined after the original arrest, and Chief Elkins obtained a warrant at that time for the arrest of the Bowers woman.

Chief Elkins also reported that a motorist identified as Edward Barncord, Corriganville, forfeited $25 bond yesterday on a charge of reckless driving.

Robert E. Lee Keller, Keyser, W. Va., posted $15 bond for a hearing on a charge of reckless driving.

Eugene R. Wright, Henderson Avenue, posted $10 bond on a charge of speeding.

Market Manages To Stay Nearly Even Despite Slump In Activity

NEW YORK, May 24 (AP)—The stock market managed to stay nearly even today despite a decided slump in activity.

Setting a relatively slow pace, compared with recent sessions, trading brought total sales of 1,560,000 shares, smallest since May 12. In the last previous five-hour market Friday 2,670,000 shares changed hands.

Anaconda Copper and J. I. Case established new tops and finished unchanged. After touching new highs, Pennsylvania Railroad closed off one-eighth at 21⅝ and Johns-Manville down one-eighth at 41¾. Other losers of small fractions to around a point included Penney, Goodrich, American Can, Colorado Fuel and Iron, Richfield Oil, Sinclair Oil, Pacific Western Oil, Woolworth and Allied Chemical.

Holding advances, after establishing new 1948 tops, were General Motors at 60¾, American Telephone 157⅝, American Woolen 55, International Paper 62, American Smelting 64⅝, Atlantic Coast Line 61¼, and the active low-priced Electrical and Musical Industries at 2½.

Bonds got off to a good start but soon were winded. Many railroad issues added considerable to their quoted prices but the list as a whole made only minor gains.

Volume was $5,410,000, compared with $4,405,000 Friday and $2,720,000 in the short session Saturday.

Rails and foreign issues looked the best, but several industrials went along for the ride. Many utility liens were weak.

Dr. Michael Ends Pastoral Duties

Dr. Walter Marion Michael, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church since 1942, has resigned because of ill health, according to an announcement in a letter to the congregation published in the program for Sunday's services.

The pastor and his family plan to spend the summer at Kenwood Beach, Calvert County, and then leave September 1 for Florida for the school year.

"Because of ill health it becomes necessary for me to retire at the next session of our annual conference and, therefore, I shall be leaving your midst," wrote the pastor, who has been ill for sometime.

Conference Next Month

The annual Baltimore conference of the Methodist Church meets next month at Westminster.

Dr. Michael observed his thirtieth anniversary in the ministry April 13, 1947, by preaching on "The Ministry."

He began his ministerial career in 1917 as pastor of the Oldtown charge which included churches at Oldtown, Mt. Olive, Paradise, Oliver Grove, Mt. Tabor, and Humbird Chapel, now Davis Memorial Church.

He spent three years on the circuit and his work included the building of a new church at Oldtown. The next two years he spent at Urbana in Frederick county.

Dr. Michael next was pastor at Glyndon, near Baltimore. He attended Western Maryland College at the same time, completing the four-year course in three years and was graduated with honors.

Awarded Doctor Degree

After five years at Glyndon he transferred to Brightwood Park for four years. The next pastorate was at Eldbrooke in the West Washington district, where he stayed for 11 years and reduced the church debt by $54,500.

While at Eldbrooke in 1937 he was awarded a doctor of divinity degree by Western Maryland College.

During his various ministries, churches he has served reduced debts by over $125,000. Of that amount $42,500 has been at Centre Street, which has also seen its membership advance to more than 1,900. The church debt has been entirely paid off.

Dr. Michael was graduated from Frederick High School in 1904 and returned to the farm. Later he became a railway mail clerk and served in this capacity for five years. He went back to farming and finally became a minister.

Young Motorist Gets $10 Fine After Mishap

Bruce Herman Brinkman, 1211 Oldtown Road, drew a fine of $10 and costs yesterday morning in Trial Magistrates Court, as a result of an auto accident on Baltimore Street Sunday.

According to testimony, Brinkman was driving west on Baltimore Street in the middle lane and crossed in the path of a car operated by Joseph Blake, 458 Columbia Street. The 11-year old son of Blake was thrown against the windshield and was treated at Allegany Hospital.

Youth Escapes Injury As Truck Hits Tree

Sixteen-year-old George Welsh, 944 Gay Street, escaped serious injury Sunday when a truck police said was taken by the youth without permission, crashed into a tree on West Oldtown Road.

According to the record at Police Headquarters, Welsh took the truck and together with his companion, Ira Smith, 18, went for a joy ride, but ended up with the truck wrapped around a tree. Earlier, police reported the youth backed against a car owned by Benjamin W. Wright, LaVale, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, and drove off in a reckless manner. No charges have been filed by police.

City Hall To Be Closed Next Monday

City Hall offices will be closed all day next Monday, May 31, in observance of Memorial Day.

Because of the holiday, the regular meeting of the Mayor and Council will be held Tuesday, June 1, at 10 a. m.

Beginning Saturday, June 5, City Hall will be closed all day each Saturday during the summer months. City offices will remain open during the week until 5 p. m. as usual.

Jobs Are Available For College Vets

Veterans of World War II who will be graduated from college this year were urged yesterday to register with the Maryland State Employment Service since a number of positions are open for college-trained men.

The picture for college-trained men is in direct contrast to the semi-skilled labor situation, according to William Spangler, assistant state veterans employment representative.

Local 1874 Heads Say Strike Scare Contrary To Fact

Playford Aldridge, president, and John G. Thomas, business manager of Local 1874, TWUA-CIO yesterday made the following statement to the Cumberland News:

"The story appearing in Saturday's Cumberland Evening Times interpreting our compliance with provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law and our Union-Company agreement as an action which 'has thereby prepared the way for a strike at the plant June 26, when the present contract expires,' is completely contrary to facts.

"Our office received many calls yesterday (Monday) asking for information," continued the Local 1874 officials, "and in order that both our membership and the general public may have the facts from an official source we wish to state:

"1. That the letter referred to in the newspaper was sent to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and the State Department of Labor and Industry in accordance with the provisions of the Taft-Hartley Law.

"2. That the letter sent to the Celanese Corporation was required by a provision of our agreement.

"3. The assertion that the letter 'prepared the way for a strike at the plant,' overlooks both the voting rights of our membership and the powers of our General President before such an action.

"4. The 'speculation' of an unidentified 'company spokesman' that perhaps the Union anticipates its demands will not be acceptable even though no discussion has taken place is untrue. If the anonymous 'company spokesman' had conferred with Mr. Edward R. Allen or Mr. L. Leslie Helmer he would have been advised that there was plenty of discussion by and between both parties at last Wednesday's session."

Contract negotiations between the company and the union will be resumed at a meeting Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the Amcelle plant.

Council Adopts Record Budget

Without a dissenting vote, the Mayor and Council yesterday adopted a record budget totaling $1,262,-930 for the 15-month fiscal period ending June 30, 1949.

The city's 233 employes, exclusive of the mayor and council, will receive wage boosts of either 10 cents an hour or $20 a month. The 10 cents an hour boosts go to the 33 employes of the Water Department and to the 55 employes of the Street Department. All other full-time salaried city employes will receive an increase of $20 a month. The raises total $62,227.50.

The city tax rate for the 15-month fiscal year was fixed at $1.55 for each $100 of assessed valuation.

Library Board Directors Named

Tasker G. Lowndes, a veteran of 24 years service as treasurer of the board of directors of the Cumberland Free Public Library, was reappointed to the board for a six-year term.

Also named directors were Mrs. Aurelia Becker and Owen E. Hitchins.

Mrs. A. M. Lichenstein, Paul Nose and Edward Eichner were appointed to the Recreation Planning Commission, replacing J. Suter Kegg, C. V. Burns and L. C. Cessna, resigned.

Council gave the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad permission to raise the Washington Street bridge seven inches during the rebuilding of the span.

A request by Ewald Ruehl, agent for the Rulekraft Awning Company of Maryland, that the city allow awning to be hung seven and a half feet above the sidewalk instead of eight feet, the present height, was turned over to City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer and City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan for study.

Rizer told council he believes any lowering of awnings would endanger pedestrians on rainy days because of the many persons using umbrellas. He pointed out that should the city allow the awnings to be lowered, any person injured by an umbrella as a result would have a suit against the city.

Armory Property Lease Renewed

The federal government and the city renewed for one year the lease of city-owned property to the Naval Reserve. The government pays the city $1 a year for the use of 7.15 acres of ground adjoining the Naval Armory. The new lease will run from July 1, 1948, through June 30, 1949.

Council approved an agreement between the city and William H. Marean under which the latter will be paid $400 a month by the city for his services as supervising engineer for laying of the Lake Gordon Auxiliary water line. Marean, who must devote full time to the work, also will receive expenses for use of a car in connection with the project.

Appointment of Mrs. Grace C. Van Pelt as a temporary employe in the office of the city clerk at $150 a month was approved.

Woman Posts Bond

Five months after a warrant was sworn out for her arrest in Ridgeley on a drunk and disorderly charge, Mary S. Bowers, Laing Avenue was taken into custody at a Ridgeley tavern Sunday afternoon and posted $12 bond.

The woman, who eluded Chief of Police Jesse Elkins of Ridgeley last December after she and a male companion were arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge, was nabbed by the officer when she appeared at the tavern Sunday.

Her companion was fined after the original arrest, and Chief Elkins obtained a warrant at that time for the arrest of the Bowers woman.

Chief Elkins also reported that a motorist identified as Edward Barncord, Corriganville, forfeited $25 bond yesterday on a charge of reckless driving.

Robert E. Lee Keller, Keyser, W. Va., posted $15 bond for a hearing on a charge of reckless driving.

Eugene R. Wright, Hendersor Avenue, posted $10 bond on a charge of speeding.

Berkey Smith, Camden Avenue posted $10 bond on a charge of operating a car without a license in his possession. Officer L. V. Mills made the latter two arrests.

TWUA Will Urge Adequate Public Assistance Fund

Local 1874 PAC Group Plans Annapolis Visit

Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, announced last night that three members will leave for Annapolis today to join other unionists in urging the special session of the Maryland General Assembly to appropriate adequate public assistance funds.

Local 1874 will send John Estes, chairman of the Political Action Committee; Edward Brookman and Lester McGill, committee members.

Estes told the Cumberland News, "Our visit to Annapolis is for the purpose of joining with other unionists, ministers, welfare workers and public minded citizens who are hopeful of having the special session of the State Legislature give ear to the needs of unfortunate people who cannot speak for themselves.

"Public conscience must give heed to the figures of the State Department of Public Welfare. The Board is asking an additional $2,650,757 to administer its aid to the aged, dependent children, needy blind and unemployable unemployed persons.

Says $3,500,000 Needed

"This is the figure the Board is asking. Actually it has figures to show that $3,500,000 is the sum it really needs to give decent and adequate budgets to those under its care.

"However, Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., has been quoted as favoring $500,000 additional appropriation in place of the sum mentioned by his official board.

"The Efficiency and Economy Commission has just released its report on the investigation of the State Public Welfare Board and given the board a clean bill of health.

"This action, by a Commission which is strictly non-representative and far from liberal, has removed any possible salve to conscience which some may have sought.

Situation "Heartbreaking"

"J. Milton Patterson, state director of public welfare, describes the present situation as "heartbreaking" and says "we cannot operate the program on any basis at all unless we receive enough money to give a minimum of subsistence."

"Let me echo Mr. Patterson's words, "a minimum of subsistence." Just think of average old age grants of $1.10 a day; dependent children from 82 cents to 90 cents a day and we can quickly imagine where Mr. Patterson's description of "heartbreaking" comes in.

"It is our hope," added Estes, "that the people of Allegany County will keep their eyes on this special session. We hope Governor Lane will use his influence with the legislators to see that our needy and deserving unfortunates are given consideration."

Bee Sting Sends Man To Hospital

Donald Barger, Route 4, Oldtown Road, was treated at Allegany Hospital yesterday after he was stung on the upper lip by a bee. Hospital attaches report that Barger was riding in an open truck when the bee stung him. He was treated and sent home.

Calvin Butter, 28, 5 Race Street, was treated for an ankle injury. Jackie Bond, 5, Ridgeley, W. Va., fell from a step ladder and cut her leg on a hook. William Welsh, Jr., 16, also was treated for an ankle injury, sustained at the Cumberland Country Club. William P. Slat, 31, 918 Wilson Street, received treatment for a hand injury, received when a tailgate fell on his hand while at work.

Memorial Hospital reported that Charles Riggs, 4, 207 New Hampshire Avenue, was bitten on the face by a dog. He received treatment and returned home. Eugene Edward, 907 Virginia Avenue, was treated for a left leg injury, received in a ball game Sunday. William Stickley, 28, 31 Boone Street, was treated after a log fell on his leg, and Dale Shroyer, 6, Friendsville, had a cast put on his arm, following a fall while at school, which fractured his elbow.

Short Circuit Fire Answered By Firemen

West Side Firemen were called to the S. W. Collins apartment house, 745 Fayette Street, last night when a short circuit burned the wires in the entire house. No other damage was reported. South End firemen answered a grass fire alarm on Stewart Avenue. No damage was reported.

Fire Damages PE Bus

The interior of a Potomac Edison bus was badly damaged Sunday afternoon by fire at the North Centre Street garage as maintenance men were cleaning the motor with solvent, officials said.

They added that the flames were confined to the interior of the bus, but the vehicle was not damaged beyond repair. City firemen were called but the blaze was out when they arrived.

The Weather

It's weather like yesterday, that makes a young man's fancy turn to thoughts of fixing up his garden or lawn, which he should have gotten to long ago, but held back, waiting until he could get out in the sun and partake of a nice tan. The high for the day was 81 degrees, which is good swimming weather, too, but the work around the home comes first. A low of 49 degrees was registered during the night, while at 10:30 last night the mercury stood at 63 and was holding fast, even with the strong cold wind that was blowing over the higher points. For today, the weatherman says the Cumberland area can expect widely scattered showers, with little change in temperature.

PARK PET-- What might be the beginning of a city zoo, started at Constitution Park yesterday with the arrival of "Jasper," a year-old pet deer, given to the park by Paul William See, Ellerslie, who found the animal caught in a wire fence about a year ago. Young Bill See is shown in the inset holding the baby deer in his arms shortly after it was found. Robert Russell Golden, superintendent of the Park, is seen feeding "Jasper" a soda cracker, which the deer prefers next to crusts of fresh bread. Golden said last night "Jasper" appears to like the Park, and has already attracted the attention of scores of youngsters.

Jasper-The-Deer Is First Live Exhibit At Constitution Park

Many Improvements Noted In Entire Area

When Mother and Dad take the youngsters to Constitution Park this summer, there will be a new attraction, with many more planned for the near future.

Yesterday, a year-old deer named "Jasper" arrived at the park as a presentation from Paul William See, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard See, Ellerslie.

The See family lives on the old King Farm near Ellerslie, and young "Bill" See found the deer about a year ago, entangled in a wire fence. It was only about three weeks old at the time, so Bill picked it up and carried it home where it was raised and fed with a baby's bottle.

The family became quite attached to the pet, but decided it would be safer in the park here, and would also serve as an attraction to young and old alike.

The animal is quite tame, can be led like a dog, and has a special appetite for soda crackers and bread crusts.

Endless Appetite

Robert R. Golden, superintendent at the park, went to Ellerslie yesterday and brought the deer to the park. Golden said the animal already shows evidence of wanting to follow him about the place. For the next few days, at least, Golden plans to keep him tied to a tree, until he becomes adjusted to the park. Then he will probably be permitted to run about the place.

There is only one objection to letting him run at large, Golden said. "He will probably raid every picnic basket in the place, since his appetite appears endless."

Many improvements are being made to the park in preparation of the season opening.

A crew of men is busily engaged in repainting and general repair work. The entire interior of the bath house, including dressing rooms, showers and sanitary facilities, has been completely renovated and repainted.

Repainting Underway

Benches and chairs, heretofore a drab green color, are coming to life in a gay combination of Chinese red and white. The high wire fence around the swimming pool and also the one around the wading pool have been repainted with rust-proof aluminum paint. The pool is to be repainted if special paint, already ordered, arrives in time.

Throughout the park there is evidence of much work accomplished. Several thousand flowers are in bloom, trees have been trimmed, brush cleared and the entire area has been turned into an attractive recreation center.

Golden predicted yesterday that with the continued interest of Commissioner Edgar Reynolds, "Folks around here won't know this place in about two years."

"And just about half way off the record," he said confidentially, "This deer isn't the only animal that will attract the kiddies to the park. We've got a couple other good ideas that look like they will work out."

$5,000 Damage Suit Settled Out Of Court

A suit for $5,000 damages docketed in Circuit Court by Paul Glover, for his own use and the use of the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, against Viola Clark, administrator of the estate of James W. Clark, was settled out of court, according to attorneys in the case.

The suit was originally docketed against James W. Clark but he died and the defendant in the suit then became Viola Clark as the administrator of his estate.

The action developed out of a crash between a car and tractor-trailer September 25, 1945 on State Route 51 near Spring Gap. The insurance firm paid $2,280.40 to Glover for the entire amount of damages to his tractor-trailer. The $5,000 damage suit was filed by Glover to cover losses incurred because he was deprived of the use of the tractor-trailer for a long period.

William H. Geppert was attorney for the plaintiff while William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan represented the defendant.

Cedar Street Man Held For State Police

James H. Sirbaugh, 412 South Cedar Street, is being held in the Allegany County Jail for the Maryland State Police. According to police officers, Sirbaugh failed to answer a summons and was picked up pending further questioning.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. George Bergman, with whom he made his home, one niece and two nephews.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

Board Proposed To Control Fund Raising In City

Group To Discuss Plan Next Week

A group of civic leaders of Cumberland will meet here next week to consider the need for the formation of an appeal review board to regulate the solicitation of funds in this city by national organizations.

The meeting will be held Thursday, June 3, at 7:30 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce offices in the Liberty Trust Building, according to Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber at a recent meeting named Mayor Thomas S. Post, Edmund S. Burke, J. T. Defibaugh, Thomas F. Conlon, Sr., Charles S. Catherman, Jr., Max W. Bastian and C. William Baer to make the preliminary study.

The movement to form fund appeal boards is becoming quite widespread, he added, naming Houston, Texas, and Pueblo, Colo., as examples.

In Pueblo, the work is done by "The 4-C Plan," the Community Campaign Co-ordinating Committee of the Pueblo Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose, the Pueblo Chamber said, is to pass upon the worthiness and necessity of any community-wide fund raising project of local, state or national origin, the justification for the amount of money sought, the character and efficiency of the sponsoring group, and the date of the campaign.

In Cumberland, any plan which might be adopted would deal only with state or national drives since the Community Chest performs a similar function for community drives.

Since the committee subjects all applications to close scrutiny, the public is assured that projects approved by the board are not only worthy but represent a "reasonably urgent need" not duplicated by existing agencies.

In order to insure that quotas are equitable, the group has set Pueblo's portion of the Colorado quota as 6.692 per cent and the state's share of the national figure at .90. On the same scale the Maryland quota would be 1.53 per cent.

Mrs. Beeman Relieved As Vindex Postmaster

Mrs. Myrtle Beeman, 52, Vindex postmaster, has been displaced as of May 18, the postal inspector's office revealed last night.

Mrs. Beeman was given a hearing yesterday before Magistrate Ember Barrick, Kitzmiller, on a breaking and entering charge and was released on $500 bond, pending action of the grand jury.

It is understood the former postmaster entered a plea of guilty of breaking and entering an adjoining store, but denied taking groceries, a magazine and a camera.

Miss Emma Sharpless, of that area, was installed as acting postmaster. Mrs. Beeman was displaced on recommendation of the postal inspector's office which investigated state charges against her.

Barnhart Wins Marbles Tourney At Pennsylvania Avenue School

Fred Barnhart won the Pennsylvania Avenue School marbles championship yesterday afternoon in the first of a series of school tournaments to be held here by the Junior Association of Commerce.

More than 70 boys and six girls participated in the tournament which got underway at 3:30 p. m. after bus pupils played a series of preliminary games.

In the finals with Barnhart were Richard Sites and Grover Lewis. Sites won the runnerup honors.

Harry Kauffman, chairman of the youth activities committee of the Jaycees; J. William Hunt, who directed the marbles tournaments sponsored by the Times and Alleganian Company from 1934 to 1938; John Harbaugh, co-chairman of the Jaycees committee, and Mervin Trail conducted yesterday's games, assisted by William Swandol, George Campbell, Claude Lipscomb, Richard Brant and Robert Radcliff of Pennsylvania Avenue School.

Ten boys won their way to the semi-finals: Roy Dawson, Billy McCarthy, Grover Lewis, Harold Jacob, Eddie Athey, David White, Richard Sites, James Collins, Eddie Collins and Fred Barnhart.

From these 10 the three finalists were Lewis, Sites and Barnhart, with the latter copping top honors.

Barnhart will represent Penn Avenue in the city finals June 8 when 17 school champions will compete for the city championship. The winner of that event will be sent to Wildwood, N. J., to play for the championship of the United States. All expenses will be paid by the Jaycees.

Virginia Avenue and John Humbird Schools' championships will be settled today with games starting at both schools at 3:30 p. m. Tomorrow the schedule will take the tournament directors to St. Mary's and Johnson Heights.

The enthusiasm mounted yesterday at Penn Avenue until the tense interest in the final round between Barnhart, Lewis and Sipes matched the interest displayed at a tennis or golf tournament.

The national finals will be held June 21-25 at Wildwood, N. J. Cumberland and Allegany County have not been represented since "Skip" Squires won the county title in 1938.

Petition For New Vale Summit Road Is Signed By 800

Committee Will Take Pictures Of Curves

Petitions signed by at least 800 persons from the Georges Creek area were presented last night at a meeting of residents of Barton, Lonaconing and Midland who seek repair and relocation of the Vale Summit Road.

Leslie Clark, chairman of the group, said the petitions are not yet completed and added he expects about 3,000 persons in the area to sign the petition asking for road repairs before the case is presented to state officials.

Members of the group last night authorized an engineer to compute the grading on many of the curves in the road, which they assert is hazardous, and also indicated that pictures of many of the "bad spots" will be taken.

Before the meeting, held in the American Legion home, Lonaconing, Clark said the State Roads Commission has made some repair to the road since the committee was organized. He declared shoulders have been graded and some holes repaired in the stretch of road that runs from Clarysville to Midland.

The petition, which points out that many of the Georges Creek residents use the road daily in commuting to and from work at industrial plants near Cumberland, are posted in community stores and clubs.

Members attending the meeting last night declared that the condition of the road was such that it was recently necessary to reduce traffic speed limits from 50 to 40 miles an hour.

During the past couple of years, Clark declared, many of the spots that the committee seeks to have relocated have been the scene of fatal accidents.

Further efforts to compile data to be presented to state officials in an effort to have the road repaired will be made at a meeting scheduled for June 16 in Lonaconing.

C. Of C. Backs Traffic Survey

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday informed the Mayor and Council through its secretary, H. W. Smith, that it supports a recent recommendation made by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission for a complete traffic survey in the city.

The survey, estimated to cost $16,000, would be made in co-operation with the Public Roads Administration and the State Roads Commission. Fifty per cent of the cost would be supplied by the Bureau of Public Roads, with the remainder equally borne by the city and the State Roads Commission.

Smith's letter said the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce feels that data obtained from such a survey would be essential to an understanding of the city's traffic problems.

In a separate letter, Smith, acting in his capacity as secretary of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, notified the Mayor and Council of the recommendation for the survey, which was made at a commission meeting May 17.

No immediate action was taken by city officials regarding the survey.

Among other communications received at yesterday's council meeting was a letter from Daniel D'Amicol, chairman of the school safety committee of the Western Maryland Motor Club, thanking the Mayor and Council for contributing to a fund which enabled some 500 members of the School Boy Patrol to attend a recent rally in Washington, D. C.

NEWS Story Provides Magazine Copy

A story in the Cumberland News of March 2 relating to the honorable discharge of Fire Alarm Box No. 14 after 51 years of faithful service at the corner of Washington and Allegany Streets provided good copy for an advertisement of the Gamewell Company of Newton Upper Falls, Mass., which manufactured the device.

In a full page advertisement in the May issue of "Fire Engineering," the firm featured the article and pointed out that "obsolescence due to production of later models of greater efficiency—not deterioration—is the principal cause of retirement from service of Gamewell boxes."

Firemen said Box 14, one of the first 12 alarm boxes installed here, had a perfect record for efficiency during its more than half a century of service.

Stenographer Is "Jinx" In Paper Contract Talks

Meeting Is Recessed Until This Morning

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — Presence of a public stenographer in the room today stopped negotiations for a new wage contract at plants of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co.

The company had the stenographer on hand, it said, to make a complete record of the proceedings.

Representatives of the CIO United Paperworkers of America announced that their locals had told them to negotiate for a new contract instead of accepting an interim increase of five cents an hour for hourly paid employes until expiration of the present contract in August, and pending negotiations then.

Then they objected to the stenographer and the negotiations came to a standstill.

Representatives of the company and the union were available in the negotiating room throughout the day—until 5 p. m. Daylight Time—but the stenographer was there and there was no negotiating.

The company said Joseph B. Papcun, the stenographer, has been retained often by both unions and employers at similar meetings.

The company said it offered to make a complete copy of the proceedings available to the union.

The meeting finally was recessed until tomorrow morning, with company representatives saying they would remain on call in the building and would be in the conference room tomorrow morning.

The company has plants in Covington, Va., Luke, Md., and Williamsport, Pa.

Mrs. Anna Lowery Is Found Dead

Mrs. Anna Lowery, 55, 421 Independence Street, was found dead late yesterday afternoon after neighbors went to her home when they had not seen or heard her for over a 24-hour period.

According to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, Mr. and Mrs. John Welch, residents of the second floor where Mrs. Lowery resided, found the body. They immediately notified police authorities.

Mrs. Lowery was last seen by Mrs. Agnes Scarletta, 114 Independence Street, on Saturday night, when she visited at the latter's home. Dr. Deming said the victim suffered a heart attack while visiting there, returned home around 2 o'clock and died of a heart attack about one hour later.

A daughter of the late Samuel and Alcinda Yost Lowery, she was a native of Mt. Savage but had lived here for the past 35 years.

Surviving are six sisters, Mrs. Walter Blank, Mrs. Tony Napoly, Mrs. Charles Hughes and Mrs. Earl Seese, all of Mt. Savage; Mrs. Oscar Brinkman, Baltimore, and Mrs. Harry Gilpin, Cumberland, and three brothers, Carl, Cumberland; Calvin, Dayton, Ohio, and Howard, Baltimore.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home.

Body Of Greensoring Soldier Arrives Today

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ricewick, Greenspring, W. Va., have received word from the War Department that the body of their son, S-Sgt. Clinton C. Ricewick will arrive this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Sgt. Ricewick was killed in France October 28, 1944. He served in the Army with the 157th Infantry Regiment, 45th Division.

The funeral service will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. with interment in Forest Glenn Cemetery, Green Spring Valley, in charge of Ralph Gurthy, Romney, W. Va.

The reburial detail of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, this city, will conduct military rites.

Besides his parents, Sgt. Ricewick is survived by four brothers, James, Charles, Franklin and Dailey Ricewick; three sisters, Helen, Rosalie and Shelby Gene Ricewick, all at home; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw, Oldtown.

Paper Drive Nets Three Tons Here

Cumberland's monthly paper collection, which started yesterday, netted only three tons. The drive today will be concentrated on the West Side and will begin at 9 a. m.

Fletcher Traces County Juvenile Court History

27 Emblems Awarded At Hi-Y Banquet

A discussion of the juvenile court system of Allegany County by Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney, and presentation of emblems to 27 outstanding seniors of five county groups marked the fourth annual Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y banquet last night in the gymnasium of Central YMCA.

Approximately 135 persons, including club advisers, attended the event. William Price, secretary of Allegany Hi-Y, acted as toastmaster.

Speaking on the topic "Juvenile Delinquency," Fletcher recalled that Allegany County's law drafted in 1914 by William E. Walsh, father of William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland, was the first juvenile court act in any of the counties outside of Baltimore City, and possibly the first in the state.

Cites Amendment

Juvenile Court was created, he explained, to penalize parents who failed to take proper care of their children.

An amendment passed in 1945, Fletcher said, gave the juvenile magistrate jurisdiction over young people until they reached 18. Previously such authority ended when boys and girls were 16.

In addition, he said, the magistrate can now require any parent or child to submit to physical examinations and necessary medical treatment.

Juvenile Court records are not public, and children coming before the court are not considered as criminals, he pointed out.

"We won't have to worry about juvenile delinquency if the wholesome influences of the home, school and church are at work," Fletcher concluded.

Winfield H. Adam, acting general secretary of the "Y" and adviser to the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Council, presented emblems to the outstanding seniors, who were chosen by their respective clubs. He pointed out that seven instead of the usual five were chosen by Allegany Tri-Hi-Y because all were outstanding.

Seniors Listed

Those receiving emblems were as follows:

Allegany Hi-Y: Bruce Anderson, Demo Carros, Allan Macy, Charles Piper, Jr., and William Price.

Allegany Tri-Hi-Y: Barbara Bright, Sue Bartlett, Betty Gulick, Betty Heinzman, Jeanne Marquis, Everstine Mitchell and Mary Loris Shober.

Beall Tri-Hi-Y: Marion Davies, Esther Engle, Lois Fisher, Eunice Porter and Sue Skidmore.

Fort Hill Hi-Y: Fred Bennett, Donald McCoy, Don Sensabaugh, Norman Evans and Ronald Catlett.

Fort Hill Tri-Hi-Y: Doris Ann Jack, Sarah Keller, Anna Lee Park, Doris Jean Poorbaugh and Gertrude Weaver.

Don Sensabaugh, president of the Fort Hill Hi-Y, gave a brief welcoming talk. The Allegany High School Octet, directed by Miss Joyce Bestwick, sang "Cindy," "Verdant Meadows" and "Coming Through The Rye."

An unscheduled feature was the singing of a comedy version of "Alouette" by an impromptu quartet consisting of Adam, Charles Bucy, Allan Macy and Don Sensabaugh.

Guests included Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill; and six advisers to the various clubs, Raymond McCullough, Allegany Hi-Y; Miss Mary Louise Robertson, Allegany Tri-Hi-Y; Miss Pearl Hendley, Beall Tri-Hi-Y; Mrs. Ada Hughes, Fort Hill Junior Tri-Hi-Y; and Mrs. Carolyn Dunlap and Miss Jeanne Bowersox, Fort Hill Tri-Hi-Y.

The invocation was given by Patty Close, chaplain of Fort Hill Junior Tri-Hi-Y; and the benediction was given by Jeanne Marquis, vice president of Allegany Tri-Hi-Y, who was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The dinner was served by the YMCA Ladies Auxiliary. Movies and dancing to the music of the Top Hatters concluded the evening.

Pilot Makes Forced Landing At Hancock

A Vultee airplane made a forced landing near Hancock early last night, causing considerable excitement in that vicinity, State Police reported.

The pilot, John Willard Gray, Washington, D. C., made a perfect landing after motor trouble halted his Detroit to Washington flight. Gray was the only occupant of the plane and he escaped without injury contrary to reports that were circulated.

County Schools To Begin Summer Vacation June 16

Reports To Be Given Final Day

Students of Allegany County high and elementary schools will begin the summer vacation at the end of classes June 16, according to an announcement yesterday by Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Students of the schools throughout the county will be given their final report cards before being dismissed from classes June 16, Dr. Kopp said.

Classes for high school seniors will end approximately one week earlier with the graduates scheduled to receive diplomas on June 11 and 12 with appropriate ceremonies at the various schools.

While several teachers in the county schools are expected to attend summer school courses to work on advance degrees, Board of Education officials said yesterday they have no listing of the number who will attend.

With the renewal of classes in September the county's junior high schools are expected to reach a new peak in enrollment for the seventh and eighth grades.

Richard Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, yesterday estimated the enrollment for seventh grade classes in the county will be 1,407 as compared to 1,260 last year.

The junior high school classes are just beginning to feel the swell of the increasing population, Rizer explained, adding the anticipated enrollment for the seventh and eighth grades in September represent an increase of 225 pupils.

Elementary students of sixth grades in Cumberland schools who will be entering junior high schools this fall will be given an orientation program at the advance schools Wednesday in preparation for the fall enrollment.

State's Attorneys Meets June 12

OCEAN CITY, Md., May 24 (AP)—Maryland's state's attorneys will meet in a special session here on June 12 to discuss a proposed series of changes in criminal trial procedure.

This was announced today by J. Bernard Wells, Baltimore state's attorney and president of the State's Attorneys' Association of Maryland.

He said members of the group want to have a prompt opportunity to debate the changes, recommended by a subcommittee of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Adoption of the new rules would result in a sweeping reorganization of criminal trial procedure.

Among the suggested changes is one that would empower judges to advise juries in criminal cases on the law and to comment on the facts of the case.

At present, such juries are sole judge of both facts and law.

Wells leclared that "it goes without saying that innovations involving changes in the very nature and structure of our procedure will be most carefully studied before being approved" by the association.

Cobey To Address Life Underwriters

W. Earle Cobey, local attorney, will be the principal speaker at the monthly dinner meeting of the Cumberland Life Underwriters Association Thursday at 5:30 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Cobey will discuss the recent amendment to the estate and income tax law as it affects life insurance.

George Martin, acting president, will preside.

Marks Anniversary

Ten tableaus depicting highlights in the history of Fort Cumberland Lodge No. 211, A. F. and A. M., marked the 35th anniversary program and Past Masters' Night event of the lodge, held last night at the Masonic Temple.

Approximately 185 persons, including 16 past masters and several visitors from nearby points in West Virginia and Pensylvania, attended. Refreshments were served.

Arch M. Hutcheson, chairman of the committee in charge, was assisted by John Earsom, Frank E. Tepper and Charles L. Herath, worshipful master.

To Address Kiwanians

Two Allegany High School students who attended the model legislature held in Annapolis last month under the youth and government program of Maryland YMCAs will give a report on the three-day session at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club Thursday at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

The youths, William Price and Allan Macy, will be introduced by Winfield H. Adam, acting general secretary of the "Y".

Local Briefs

Cumberland residents used 87,480,000 gallons of water during the week ending Sunday, according to a report submitted to the Mayor and Council yesterday. Consumption for the comparative period last year totaled 82,900,000 gallons.

The Ridgeley Playground Association will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Ridgeley High School building. All citizens are urged to attend the meeting.

BIRTHS

Allegany Hospital reported the following births last night:

Mr. and Mrs. John Hoover, Potomac Park, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Mason, Route 5, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Dawson, Keyser, W. Va., a son.

Memorial Hospital reported the following births last night:

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Shope, 102 Liberty Street, Oakland, a son.

TWUA Will Urge Adequate Public Assistance Fund

Local 1874 PAC Group Plans Annapolis Visit

Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, announced last night that three members will leave for Annapolis today to join other unionists in urging the special session of the Maryland General Assembly to appropriate adequate public assistance funds.

Local 1874 will send John Estes, chairman of the Political Action Committee; Edward Brookman and Lester McGill, committee members.

Estes told the Cumberland News, "Our visit to Annapolis is for the purpose of joining with other unionists, ministers, welfare workers and public minded citizens who are hopeful of having the special session of the State Legislature give ear to the needs of unfortunate people who cannot speak for themselves.

"Public conscience must give heed to the figures of the State Department of Public Welfare. The Board is asking an additional $2,650,757 to administer its aid to the aged, dependent children, needy blind and unemployable unemployed persons.

Says $3,500,000 Needed

"This is the figure the Board is asking. Actually it has figures to show that $3,500,000 is the sum it really needs to give decent and adequate budgets to those under its care.

"However, Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., has been quoted as favoring $500,000 additional appropriation in place of the sum mentibned by his official board.

"The Efficiency and Economy Commission has just released its report on the investigation of the State Public Welfare Board and given the board a clean bill of health.

"This action, by a Commission which is strictly non-representative and far from liberal, has removed any possible salve to conscience which some may have sought.

Situation "Heartbreaking"

"J. Milton Patterson, state director of public welfare, describes the present situation as "heartbreaking" and says "we cannot operate the program on any basis at all unless we receive enough money to give a minimum of subsistence."

"Let me echo Mr. Patterson's words, "a minimum of subsistence." Just think of average old age grants of $1.10 a day; dependent children from 82 cents to 90 cents a day and we can quickly imagine where Mr. Patterson's description of "heartbreaking" comes in.

"It is our hope," added Estes, "that the people of Allegany County will keep their eyes on this special session. We hope Governor Lane will use his influence with the legislators to see that our needy and deserving unfortunates are given consideration."

Bee Sting Sends Man To Hospital

Donald Barger, Route 4, Oldtown Road, was treated at Allegany Hospital yesterday after he was stung on the upper lip by a bee. Hospital attaches report that Barger was riding in an open truck when the bee stung him. He was treated and sent home.

Calvin Butter, 28, 5 Race Street, was treated for an ankle injury. Jackie Bond, 5, Ridgeley, W. Va., fell from a step ladder and cut her leg on a hook. William Welsh, Jr., 16, also was treated for an ankle injury, sustained at the Cumberland Country Club. William P. Slat, 31, 918 Wilson Street, received treatment for a hand injury, received when a tailgate fell on his hand while at work.

Memorial Hospital reported that Charles Riggs, 4, 207 New Hampshire Avenue, was bitten on the face by a dog. He received treatment and returned home. Eugene Edward, 907 Virginia Avenue, was treated for a left leg injury, received in a ball game Sunday. William Stickley, 28, 31 Boone Street, was treated after a log fell on his leg, and Dale Shroyer, 6, Friendsville, had a cast put on his arm, following a fall while at school, which fractured his elbow.

Short Circuit Fire Answered By Firemen

West Side Firemen were called to the S. W. Collins apartment house, 745 Fayette Street, last night when a short circuit burned the wires in the entire house. No other damage was reported. South End firemen answered a grass fire alarm on Stewart Avenue. No damage was reported.

Fire Damages PE Bus

The interior of a Potomac Edison bus was badly damaged Sunday afternoon by fire at the North Centre Street garage as maintenance men were cleaning the motor with solvent, officials said.

They added that the flames were confined to the interior of the bus, but the vehicle was not damaged beyond repair. City firemen were called but the blaze was out when they arrived.

The Weather

It's weather like yesterday, that makes a young man's fancy turn to thoughts of fixing up his garden or lawn, which he should have gotten to long ago, but held back, waiting until he could get out in the sun and partake of a nice tan. The high for the day was 81 degrees, which is good swimming weather, too, but the work around the home comes first. A low of 49 degrees was registered during the night, while at 10:30 last night the mercury stood at 63 and was holding fast, even with the strong cold wind that was blowing over the higher points. For today, the weatherman says the Cumberland area can expect widely scattered showers, with little change in temperature.

PARK PET--What might be the beginning of a city zoo, started at Constitution Park yesterday with the arrival of "Jasper," a year-old pet deer, given to the park by Paul William See, Ellerslie, who found the animal caught in a wire fence about a year ago. Young Bill See is shown in the inset holding the baby deer in his arms shortly after it was found. Robert Russell Golden, superintendent of the Park, is seen feeding "Jasper" a soda cracker, which the deer prefers next to crusts of fresh bread. Golden said last night "Jasper" appears to like the Park, and has already attracted the attention of scores of youngsters.

Jasper-The-Deer Is First Live Exhibit At Constitution Park

Many Improvements Noted In Entire Area

When Mother and Dad take the youngsters to Constitution Park this summer, there will be a new attraction, with many more planned for the near future.

Yesterday, a year-old deer named "Jasper" arrived at the park as a presentation from Paul William See, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard See, Ellerslie.

The See family lives on the old King Farm near Ellerslie, and young "Bill" See found the deer about a year ago, entangled in a wire fence. It was only about three weeks old at the time, so Bill picked it up and carried it home where it was raised and fed with a baby's bottle.

The family became quite attached to the pet, but decided it would be safer in the park here, and would also serve as an attraction to young and old alike.

The animal is quite tame, can be led like a dog, and has a special appetite for soda crackers and bread crusts.

Endless Appetite

Robert R. Golden, superintendent at the park, went to Ellerslie yesterday and brought the deer to the park. Golden said the animal already shows evidence of wanting to follow him about the place. For the next few days, at least, Golden plans to keep him tied to a tree, until he becomes adjusted to the park. Then he will probably be permitted to run about the place.

There is only one objection to letting him run at large, Golden said. "He will probably raid every picnic basket in the place, since his appetite appears endless."

Many improvements are being made to the park in preparation of the season opening.

A crew of men is busily engaged in repainting and general repair work. The entire interior of the bath house, including dressing rooms, showers and sanitary facilities, has been completely renovated and repainted.

Repainting Underway

Benches and chairs, heretofore a drab green color, are coming to life in a gay combination of Chinese red and white. The high wire fence around the swimming pool and also the one around the wading pool have been repainted with rust-proof aluminum paint. The pool is to be repainted if special paint, already ordered, arrives in time.

Throughout the park there is evidence of much work accomplished. Several thousand flowers are in bloom, trees have been trimmed, brush cleared and the entire area has been turned into an attractive recreation center.

Golden predicted yesterday that with the continued interest of Commissioner Edgar Reynolds, "Folks around here won't know this place in about two years."

"And just about half way off the record," he said confidentially, "This deer isn't the only animal that will attract the kiddies to the park. We've got a couple other good ideas that look like they will work out."

$5,000 Damage Suit Settled Out Of Court

A suit for $5,000 damages docketed in Circuit Court by Paul Glover, for his own use and the use of the Farm Bureau Mutual Automobile Insurance Company, against Viola Clark, administrator of the estate of James W. Clark, was settled out of court, according to attorneys in the case.

The suit was originally docketed against James W. Clark but he died and the defendant in the suit then became Viola Clark as the administrator of his estate.

The action developed out of a crash between a car and tractor-trailer September 25, 1945 on State Route 51 near Spring Gap. The insurance firm paid $2,280.40 to Glover for the entire amount of damages to his tractor-trailer. The $5,000 damage suit was filed by Glover to cover losses incurred because he was deprived of the use of the tractor-trailer for a long period.

William H. Geppert was attorney for the plaintiff while William C. Walsh and Thomas B. Finan represented the defendant.

Cedar Street Man Held For State Police

James H. Sirbaugh, 412 South Cedar Street, is being held in the Allegany County Jail for the Maryland State Police. According to police officers, Sirbaugh failed to answer a summons and was picked up pending further questioning.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

Board Proposed To Control Fund Raising In City

Group To Discuss Plan Next Week

A group of civic leaders of Cumberland will meet here next week to consider the need for the formation of an appeal review board to regulate the solicitation of funds in this city by national organizations.

The meeting will be held Thursday, June 3, at 7:30 p. m. in the Chamber of Commerce offices in the Liberty Trust Building, according to Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Board of Directors of the Chamber at a recent meeting named Mayor Thomas S. Post, Edmund S. Burke, J. T. Defibaugh, Thomas F. Conlon, Sr., Charles S. Catherman, Jr., Max W. Bastian and C. William Baer to make the preliminary study.

The movement to form fund appeal boards is becoming quite widespread, he added, naming Houston, Texas, and Pueblo, Colo., as examples.

In Pueblo, the work is done by "The 4-C Plan," the Community Campaign Co-ordinating Committee of the Pueblo Chamber of Commerce.

The purpose, the Pueblo Chamber said, is to pass upon the worthiness and necessity of any community-wide fund raising project of local, state or national origin, the justification for the amount of money sought, the character and efficiency of the sponsoring group, and the date of the campaign.

In Cumberland, any plan which might be adopted would deal only with state or national drives since the Community Chest performs a similar function for community drives.

Since the committee subjects all applications to close scrutiny, the public is assured that projects approved by the board are not only worthy but represent a "reasonably urgent need" not duplicated by existing agencies.

In order to insure that quotas are equitable, the group has set Pueblo's portion of the Colorado quota as 6.692 per cent and the state's share of the national figure at .90. On the same scale the Maryland quota would be 1.53 per cent.

Mrs. Beeman Relieved As Vindex Postmaster

Mrs. Myrtle Beeman, 52, Vindex postmaster, has been displaced as of May 18, the postal inspector's office revealed last night.

Mrs. Beeman was given a hearing yesterday before Magistrate Ember Barrick, Kitzmiller, on a breaking and entering charge and was released on $500 bond, pending action of the grand jury.

It is understood the former postmaster entered a plea of guilty of breaking and entering an adjoining store, but denied taking groceries, a magazine and a camera.

Miss Emma Sharpless, of that area, was installed as acting postmaster. Mrs. Beeman was displaced on recommendation of the postal inspector's office which investigated state charges against her.

Petition For New Vale Summit Road Is Signed By 800

Committee Will Take Pictures Of Curves

Petitions signed by at least 800 persons from the Georges Creek area were presented last night at a meeting of residents of Barton, Lonaconing and Midland who seek repair and relocation of the Vale Summit Road.

Leslie Clark, chairman of the group, said the petitions are not yet completed and added he expects about 3,000 persons in the area to sign the petition asking for road repairs before the case is presented to state officials.

Members of the group last night authorized an engineer to compute the grading on many of the curves in the road, which they assert is hazardous, and also indicated that pictures of many of the "bad spots" will be taken.

Before the meeting, held in the American Legion home, Lonaconing, Clark said the State Roads Commission has made some repair to the road since the committee was organized. He declared shoulders have been graded and some holes repaired in the stretch of road that runs from Clarysville to Midland.

The petition, which points out that many of the Georges Creek residents use the road daily in commuting to and from work at industrial plants near Cumberland, are posted in community stores and clubs.

Members attending the meeting last night declared that the condition of the road was such that it was recently necessary to reduce traffic speed limits from 50 to 40 miles an hour.

During the past couple of years, Clark declared, many of the spots that the committee seeks to have relocated have been the scene of fatal accidents.

Further efforts to compile data to be presented to state officials in an effort to have the road repaired will be made at a meeting scheduled for June 16 in Lonaconing.

C. Of C. Backs Traffic Survey

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce yesterday informed the Mayor and Council through its secretary, H. W. Smith, that it supports a recent recommendation made by the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission for a complete traffic survey in the city.

The survey, estimated to cost $16,000, would be made in co-operation with the Public Roads Administration and the State Roads Commission. Fifty per cent of the cost would be supplied by the Bureau of Public Roads, with the remainder equally borne by the city and the State Roads Commission.

Smith's letter said the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce feels that data obtained from such a survey would be essential to an understanding of the city's traffic problems.

In a separate letter, Smith, acting in his capacity as secretary of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, notified the Mayor and Council of the recommendation for the survey, which was made at a commission meeting May 17.

No immediate action was taken by city officials regarding the survey.

Among other communications received at yesterday's council meeting was a letter from Daniel D'Amicol, chairman of the school safety committee of the Western Maryland Motor Club, thanking the Mayor and Council for contributing to a fund which enabled some 500 members of the School Boy Patrol to attend a recent rally in Washington, D. C.

NEWS Story Provides Magazine Copy

A story in the Cumberland News of March 2 relating to the honorable discharge of Fire Alarm Box No. 14 after 51 years of faithful service at the corner of Washington and Allegany Streets provided good copy for an advertisement of the Gamewell Company of Newton Upper Falls, Mass., which manufactured the device.

In a full page advertisement in the May issue of "Fire Engineering," the firm featured the article and pointed out that "obsolescence due to production of later models of greater efficiency—not deterioration—is the principal cause of retirement from service of Gamewell boxes."

Firemen said Box 14, one of the first 12 alarm boxes installed here, had a perfect record for efficiency during its more than half a century of service.

Barnhart Wins Marbles Tourney At Pennsylvania Avenue School

Fred Barnhart won the Pennsylvania Avenue School marbles championship yesterday afternoon in the first of a series of school tournaments to be held here by the Junior Association of Commerce.

More than 70 boys and six girls participated in the tournament which got underway at 3:30 p. m. after bus pupils played a series of preliminary games.

In the finals with Barnhart were Richard Sites and Grover Lewis. Sites won the runnerup honors.

Harry Kauffman, chairman of the youth activities committee of the Jaycees; J. William Hunt, who directed the marbles tournaments sponsored by the Times and Alleganian Company from 1934 to 1938; John Harbaugh, co-chairman of the Jaycees committee, and Mervin Trail conducted yesterday's games, assisted by William Swandol, George Campbell, Claude Lipscomb, Richard Brant and Robert Radcliff of Pennsylvania Avenue School.

Ten boys won their way to the semi-finals: Roy Dawson, Billy McCarthy, Grover Lewis, Harold Jacob, Eddie Athey, David White, Richard Sites, James Collins, Eddie Collins and Fred Barnhart.

From these 10 the three finalists were Lewis, Sites and Barnhart, with the latter copping top honors.

Barnhart will represent Penn Avenue in the city finals June 8 when 17 school champions will compete for the city championship. The winner of that event will be sent to Wildwood, N. J., to play for the championship of the United States. All expenses will be paid by the Jaycees.

Virginia Avenue and John Humbird Schools' championships will be settled today with games starting at both schools at 3:30 p. m. Tomorrow the schedule will take the tournament directors to St. Mary's and Johnson Heights.

The enthusiasm mounted yesterday at Penn Avenue until the tense interest in the final round between Barnhart, Lewis and Sipes matched the interest displayed at a tennis or golf tournament.

The national finals will be held June 21-25 at Wildwood, N. J. Cumberland and Allegany County have not been represented since "Skip" Squires won the county title in 1938.

Stenographer Is "Jinx" In Paper Contract Talks

Meeting Is Recessed Until This Morning

WASHINGTON, May 24 (AP) — Presence of a public stenographer in the room today stopped negotiations for a new wage contract at plants of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co.

The company had the stenographer on hand, it said, to make a complete record of the proceedings.

Representatives of the CIO United Paperworkers of America announced that their locals had told them to negotiate for a new contract instead of accepting an interim increase of five cents an hour for hourly paid employes until expiration of the present contract in August, and pending negotiations then.

Then they objected to the stenographer and the negotiations came to a standstill.

Representatives of the company and the union were available in the negotiating room throughout the day—until 5 p. m. Daylight Time—but the stenographer was there and there was no negotiating.

The company said Joseph B. Papcun, the stenographer, has been retained often by both unions and employers at similar meetings.

The company said it offered to make a complete copy of the proceedings available to the union.

The meeting finally was recessed until tomorrow morning, with company representatives saying they would remain on call in the building and would be in the conference room tomorrow morning.

The company has plants in Covington, Va., Luke, Md., and Williamsport, Pa.

Mrs. Anna Lowery Is Found Dead

Mrs. Anna Lowery, 55, 421 Independence Street, was found dead late yesterday afternoon after neighbors went to her home when they had not seen or heard her for over a 24-hour period.

According to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, Mr. and Mrs. John Welch, residents of the second floor where Mrs. Lowery resided, found the body. They immediately notified police authorities.

Mrs. Lowery was last seen by Mrs. Agnes Scarletta, 114 Independence Street, on Saturday night, when she visited at the latter's home. Dr. Deming said the victim suffered a heart attack while visiting there, returned home around 2 o'clock and died of a heart attack about one hour later.

A daughter of the late Samuel and Alcinda Yost Lowery, she was a native of Mt. Savage but had lived here for the past 35 years.

Surviving are six sisters, Mrs. Walter Blank, Mrs. Tony Napoly, Mrs. Charles Hughes and Mrs. Earl Seese, all of Mt. Savage; Mrs. Oscar Brinkman, Baltimore, and Mrs. Harry Gilpin, Cumberland, and three brothers, Carl, Cumberland; Calvin, Dayton, Ohio, and Howard, Baltimore.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home.

Body Of Greensbring Soldier Arrives Today

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ricewick, Greenspring, W. Va., have received word from the War Department that the body of their son, S-Sgt. Clinton C. Ricewick will arrive this afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Sgt. Ricewick was killed in France October 28, 1944. He served in the Army with the 157th Infantry Regiment, 45th Division.

The funeral service will be conducted Friday at 2 p. m. with interment in Forest Glenn Cemetery, Green Spring Valley, in charge of Ralph Gurthy, Romney, W. Va.

The reburial detail of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, this city, will conduct military rites.

Besides his parents, Sgt. Ricewick is survived by four brothers, James, Charles, Franklin and Dailey Ricewick; three sisters, Helen, Rosalie and Shelby Gene Ricewick, all at home; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Shaw, Oldtown.

Paper Drive Nets Three Tons Here

Cumberland's monthly paper collection, which started yesterday, netted only three tons. The drive today will be concentrated on the West Side and will begin at 9 a. m.

Fletcher Traces County Juvenile Court History

27 Emblems Awarded At Hi-Y Banquet

A discussion of the juvenile court system of Allegany County by Paul M. Fletcher, assistant state's attorney, and presentation of emblems to 27 outstanding seniors of five county groups marked the fourth annual Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y banquet last night in the gymnasium of Central YMCA.

Approximately 135 persons, including club advisers, attended the event. William Price, secretary of Allegany Hi-Y, acted as toastmaster.

Speaking on the topic "Juvenile Delinquency," Fletcher recalled that Allegany County's law drafted in 1914 by William E. Walsh, father of William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland, was the first juvenile court act in any of the counties outside of Baltimore City, and possibly the first in the state.

Cites Amendment

Juvenile Court was created, he explained, to penalize parents who failed to take proper care of their children.

An amendment passed in 1945, Fletcher said, gave the juvenile magistrate jurisdiction over young people until they reached 18. Previously such authority ended when boys and girls were 16.

In addition, he said, the magistrate can now require any parent or child to submit to physical examinations and necessary medical treatment.

Juvenile Court records are not public, and children coming before the court are not considered as criminals, he pointed out.

"We won't have to worry about juvenile delinquency if the wholesome influences of the home, school and church are at work," Fletcher concluded.

Winfield H. Adam, acting general secretary of the "Y" and adviser to the Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Council, presented emblems to the outstanding seniors, who were chosen by their respective clubs. He pointed out that seven instead of the usual five were chosen by Allegany Tri-Hi-Y because all were outstanding.

Seniors Listed

Those receiving emblems were as follows:

Allegany Hi-Y: Bruce Anderson, Demo Carros, Allan Macy, Charles Piper, Jr., and William Price.

Allegany Tri-Hi-Y: Barbara Bright, Sue Bartlett, Betty Gulick, Betty Heinzman, Jeanne Marquis, Everstine Mitchell and Mary Loris Shober.

Beall Tri-Hi-Y: Marion Davies, Esther Engle, Lois Fisher, Eunice Porter and Sue Skidmore.

Fort Hill Hi-Y: Fred Bennett, Donald McCoy, Don Sensabaugh, Norman Evans and Ronald Catlett.

Fort Hill Tri-Hi-Y: Doris Ann Jack, Sarah Keller, Anna Lee Park, Doris Jean Poorbaugh and Gertrude Weaver.

Don Sensabaugh, president of the Fort Hill Hi-Y, gave a brief welcoming talk. The Allegany High School Octet, directed by Miss Joyce Bestwick, sang "Cindy," "Verdant Meadows" and "Coming Through The Rye."

An unscheduled feature was the singing of a comedy version of "Alouette" by an impromptu quartet consisting of Adam, Charles Bucy, Allan Macy and Don Sensabaugh.

Guests included Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill; and six advisers to the various clubs, Raymond McCullough, Allegany Hi-Y; Miss Mary Louise Robertson, Allegany Tri-Hi-Y; Miss Pearl Hendley, Beall Tri-Hi-Y; Mrs. Ada Hughes, Fort Hill Junior Tri-Hi-Y; and Mrs. Carolyn Dunlap and Miss Jeanne Bowersox, Fort Hill Tri-Hi-Y.

The invocation was given by Patty Close, chaplain of Fort Hill Junior Tri-Hi-Y; and the benediction was given by Jeanne Marquis, vice president of Allegany Tri-Hi-Y, who was chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The dinner was served by the YMCA Ladies Auxiliary. Movies and dancing to the music of the Top Hatters concluded the evening.

Pilot Makes Forced Landing At Hancock

A Vultee airplane made a forced landing near Hancock early last night, causing considerable excitement in that vicinity, State Police reported.

The pilot, John Willard Gray, Washington, D. C., made a perfect landing after motor trouble halted his Detroit to Washington flight. Gray was the only occupant of the plane and he escaped without injury contrary to reports that were circulated.

County Schools To Begin Summer Vacation June 16

Reports To Be Given Final Day

Students of Allegany County high and elementary schools will begin the summer vacation at the end of classes June 16, according to an announcement yesterday by Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Students of the schools throughout the county will be given their final report cards before being dismissed from classes June 16, Dr. Kopp said.

Classes for high school seniors will end approximately one week earlier with the graduates scheduled to receive diplomas on June 11 and 12 with appropriate ceremonies at the various schools.

While several teachers in the county schools are expected to attend summer school courses to work on advance degrees, Board of Education officials said yesterday they have no listing of the number who will attend.

With the renewal of classes in September the county's junior high schools are expected to reach a new peak in enrollment for the seventh and eighth grades.

Richard Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, yesterday estimated the enrollment for seventh grade classes in the county will be 1,407 as compared to 1,260 last year.

The junior high school classes are just beginning to feel the swell of the increasing population, Rizer explained, adding the anticipated enrollment for the seventh and eighth grades in September represent an increase of 225 pupils.

Elementary students of sixth grades in Cumberland schools who will be entering junior high schools this fall will be given an orientation program at the advance schools Wednesday in preparation for the fall enrollment.

State's Attorneys Meets June 12

OCEAN CITY, Md., May 24 (AP)—Maryland's state's attorneys will meet in a special session here on June 12 to discuss a proposed series of changes in criminal trial procedure.

This was announced today by J. Bernard Wells, Baltimore state's attorney and president of the State's Attorneys' Association of Maryland.

He said members of the group want to have a prompt opportunity to debate the changes, recommended by a subcommittee of the Maryland Court of Appeals.

Adoption of the new rules would result in a sweeping reorganization of criminal trial procedure.

Among the suggested changes is one that would empower judges to advise juries in criminal cases on the law and to comment on the facts of the case.

At present, such juries are sole judge of both facts and law.

Wells leclared that "it goes without saying that innovations involving changes in the very nature and structure of our procedure will be most carefully studied before being approved" by the association.

Cobey To Address Life Underwriters

W. Earle Cobey, local attorney, will be the principal speaker at the monthly dinner meeting of the Cumberland Life Underwriters Association Thursday at 5:30 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Cobey will discuss the recent amendment to the estate and income tax law as it affects life insurance.

George Martin, acting president, will preside.

Marks Anniversary

Ten tableaus depicting highlights in the history of Fort Cumberland Lodge No. 211, A. F. and A. M., marked the 35th anniversary program and Past Masters' Night event of the lodge, held last night at the Masonic Temple.

Approximately 185 persons, including 16 past masters and several visitors from nearby points in West Virginia and Pensylvania, attended. Refreshments were served.

Arch M. Hutcheson, chairman of the committee in charge, was assisted by John Earsom, Frank E. Tepper and Charles L. Herath, worshipful master.

To Address Kiwanians

Two Allegany High School students who attended the model legislature held in Annapolis last month under the youth and government program of Maryland YMCAs will give a report on the three-day session at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club Thursday at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

The youths, William Price and Allan Macy, will be introduced by Winfield H. Adam, acting general secretary of the "Y".

Local Briefs

Cumberland residents used 87,480,000 gallons of water during the week ending Sunday, according to a report submitted to the Mayor and Council yesterday. Consumption for the comparative period last year totaled 82,900,000 gallons.

The Ridgeley Playground Association will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Ridgeley High School building. All citizens are urged to attend the meeting.
